HUGE SELLING WAVE CREATES NEAR-PANIC AS STOCKS COLLAPSE

Sudden Avalanche Wipes Out $3,000,000,000 in Paper Values.

CRASH IS QUICKEST IN MODERN HISTORY

2,600,000 Shares Dumped Overboard in Final Frenzied Hour.

FIRST SIGN OF SLUMP PRECIPITATES RUSH

Frayed Nerves of Traders Crack and Wild Scenes Are Enacted.

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Wall street was thrown into the nearest approximation of a stock market panic experience in years during the last hour on the New York Stock Exchange today.

A new and wholly unexpected avalanche of selling swept over the market, carrying scores of stocks down from $10 to $96 a share, and wiping out more than $3,000,000,000 in paper values in the brief interval of about an hour, an average of about $50,000,000 a minute.

Stock price averages and indices indicated that never before in modern financial history had quoted values disappeared so swiftly. Bankers pointed out, however, that in view of the amazing and unprecedented rise in stock prices in the past year and a half, this break could by no means be regarded as reducing prices to disastrously low levels.

The thoroughly demoralizing aspect of the collapse was its swiftness.

Opening Is Dull.

The market opened rather dull, and drifted along, with several important stocks recording temporary gains, until midafternoon, when a sharp "bear" drive was launched against the automotive equipment and radio stocks, several of which were sent down $10 or more to new low levels for the year.

Traders and investors alike were in a highly nervous state of mind, owing to the severe decline in prices during the past fortnight, and as soon as the market showed signs of going into a further slump, they rushed to get rid of their stocks for what they would bring.

The trading facilities were completely overwhelmed. The quotations on the ticker tape fell half an hour and more behind the trading, and as word reached commission house board rooms that stocks were selling several dollars below prices on the tape, traders became thoroughly frightened and sold without rhyme or reason. Total sales of 6,368,300 shares were piled up, of which about 2,600,000 shares changed hands between 2 and 3 o'clock. This turnover exceeded the 6,091,800 shares of Monday, and was the largest since March 26, when more than 8,000,000 shares were traded. The ticker did not print the final quotation until an hour and three-quarters after the close.

100 Shares Hit New Lows.

More than 100 stocks were carried to new lows for the year, including such issues as General Motors, Radio, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Sinclair Oil, Chrysler, Canadian Pacific, Kennecott and Lambert. The great bulk of leading stocks, however, closed well above the low levels of last May. The Standard Statistics Co.—Associated Press price index of 50 leading industrials reached the lowest level since June 12, that of 20 utilities, the lowest since June 26, and that of 20, the lowest since July 3.

While brokers asknowledged that thousands of small traders had undoubtedly been completely wiped out, the senior partner of one of the largest commission houses stated that a tremendous amount of stock, having been held over a period of months, was sold at a profit. It was pointed out that while such a precipitous decline would have had disastrous results a few years ago when margins of only about 10 per cent were required, what with present margins of from 33 to 50 per cent, both brokerage houses and banks were more than amply protected.

Panic Seizes Floor.

There were scenes of wild disorder on the trading floor during the last hour of trading. The market was flooded with selling orders and for a time suffered from a panicky lack of buying orders. Members screeched their offers for several minutes at a time without finding takers. Strong interests, however, soon became aware of the situation and came into the market to take up the offerings. In a few leading stocks, such as U. S. Steel common and American Telephone, closing prices were substantially above the day's lowest. The head of one large commission house estimated that numerically, five times

Hope for Golden Hind Fading Amid Silence

Urban F. Diteman, jr., who hopped from Harbor Grace, N. F., Tuesday on a flight to London and from whom nothing has been heard since his take-off.

News of Fuel Shipments to Greenland Provide Possible Clew.

Long overdue at London on his projected flight from Harbor Grace, N. F., Urban F. Diteman, jr., Montana cattleman, was feared lost in the Atlantic last night.

No word had come from him, and there was no report of his tiny plane, the Golden Hind, without wireless and a ready prey to the prewinter seas of the North Atlantic. In fact, there was nothing to indicate that Diteman had got far from the North American Coast. He hopped off unannounced at 12:45 p. m. Tuesday.

From the seaboard, midocean and England—Diteman's destination in his 2,350-mile flight—came nothing but negative reports. Only in a home in Portland, Oreg., and another in Billings, Mont., where waited parents and wife and children, was there any

REPORT FLAYS COLLEGES FOR SPORT SUBSIDY

"Caring for Athletes" by Institutions Revealed by Carnegie Group.

METHODS OF PAYING STUDENTS REVEALED

Black Pictures Painted by Body After Investigating 130 Schools.

RECRUITING PLAYERS IS WIDELY PRACTICED

Specific Mention Is Made of Colleges Bidding For and Aiding Athletes.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—The Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching today made public the elaborate results of its searching and, in some respects sensational, investigation into American college athletics, particularly football.

The foundation report, which may become famous as "bulletin No. 23," in its revelations and effects, runs the gamut of methods, practices and conditions, but focuses principally upon what the investigators characterize as "the deepest shadow that darkens American college and school athletics"—the widespread practice of recruiting and subsidizing athletics.

"Those who tempt young men to barter their honesty for the supposed advantage of a college course, dishonestly achieved, are the fagins of American sport and American higher education," declared the 383-page bulletin prepared by Howard J. Savage, staff member of the foundation; Harold W. Bentley, John T. McGovern and Dean F. Smiley, M. D.

Placing the responsibility squarely upon the shoulders of college executives, the authors find that "in the murk there are many brighter patches" and that "the university or college that, under capable leadership, makes up its collective mind to cast out these practices, can do so."

Long Inquiry Made.

"Portions of the picture are even blacker than they have been painted," the investigators assert in concluding the illuminating section on recruiting and subsidizing, in which facts are given and institutions frankly and impartially named whether in criticism or in praise.

The inquiry consumed more than three and a half years, entailed personal visits to 130 American and Canadian colleges, universities and schools and involved the cooperation of more than 2,000 persons. Only two of the 130 institutions did not cooperate fully, the report states, specifying the University of Georgia and Oglethorpe.

This marks the first probe of American athletics by the Carnegie Foundation, which has published findings on English athletics, but otherwise concentrated chiefly on the study of general or special educational subjects, such as law, dentistry.

"The varieties (of recruiting)," the report states, "range from rare and casual contacts made or directed by an individual in the athletic organization of the institution (Chicago, University of Colorado, Cornell, Washington State College) in which the motive may be the general welfare of the institution or personal favor, to an intensely organized, sometimes subtle, system that may utilize or coordinate numbers of agents on or off the campus (Michigan, Northwestern, Oglethorpe, Southern California, Wisconsin).

Schoolboys Seldom Wait.

HOOVER TELLS GIGANTIC PLAN OF WATERWAY

$20,000,000 Estimated Yearly Cost of Huge Development.

ARTERIAL PROJECT UNFOLDED BY RADIO

SUM CAN BE SAVED BY NAVAL PARLEY

Throngs Cheer Wildly at End of Inspection Trip on Ohio River Route.

Memorial Auditorium, Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—The development of the rivers and lakes of America into a gigantic arterial waterway, embracing a task three or four times the magnitude of the Panama Canal undertaking, was pledged by President Hoover here tonight, as one of the great objectives of his administration.

Millions of persons from coast to coast listened as the President spoke over the radio from the Louisville Memorial Auditorium and heard him declare one of the most ambitious internal improvement programs of the country has ever envisioned.

Explaining his purposes in detail, President Hoover said his program would call at the most for additional expenditures of $20,000,000 a year and asserted this would be equal to the cost of one-half a battle ship.

Swords Turned Into Plowshares.

"If we are so fortunate," he added, "as to save this annual outlay on naval construction as the result of the forthcoming naval conference in London, nothing could be a finer or more vivid conversion of swords to plowshares."

The President's address was the climax of ceremonies attending the completion of a 9-foot, all year round channel in the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo. That project, the President asserted, was but the beginning of "still unfinished tasks in improvement of our great waterways up to the standard we have established upon the Ohio."

Prior to his speech, the President had attracted the attention of the country to navigation of the river by an interesting voyage aboard the S. S. Greenbier, lighthouse tender, down the Ohio from Cincinnati to Louisville, demonstrating the potentialities of passenger pleasure traffic as well as freight.

Greeted by Governor and Mayor.

While the crowded wharf, where in an earlier day crinolines and beaver hats held sway, echoed with the shouts of the welcomers, President and Mrs. Hoover were met by Gov. Sampson of Kentucky, and Mayor Harrison of Louisville.

Although the weather was cold and penetrating when the President reached his destination, his river trip was made in fairly clear weather. This gave him an opportunity to inspect the improvement of the Ohio to advantage.

While the waves, churned up by the high wind of last night, still dashed a foaming spray across the prow of the Greenbrier, the President frequently was out-of-doors to examine with an experienced eye the workmanship of dams, breakwaters and locks. At other times, he laid aside his gray slouch hat and ulster to sit in the lounge and watch the tall river bluff, colored in matchless autumn splendor, slip slowly by.

Not long after breakfast, the Greenbrier put into Madison, Ind., one of the famous old towns of early river days. Here the President was greeted by Gov. Leslie of Indiana, and a committee of Madison citizens, and again, as at other stops made on the trip, by a large crowd of welcomers.

Under ten salient headings, President Hoover detailed as still to come in the development of this country's waterways, the improvement of the entire Mississippi and her tributaries, projection of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway as soon as an agreement is reached by the United States and Canada, the completion of 1,000 miles of additional intracoastal canals and development of harbors to accommodate the increasing size of ocean going vessels and the expanding volume of American commerce.

"To carry forward all these great tasks," the President said, "is not a dream of the visionaries—it is the march of the Nation."

Bears Up Well Despite Trip.

Attired in formal dress, the President appeared in excellent health in spite of the test placed upon his vitality during the last few days. It was said by members of his party that both the President and Mrs. Hoover had suffered from no colds or other ills as a result of their exposure to rain in Detroit and Cincinnati and the stormy trip down the Ohio.

Although the Hoover flotilla reached Louisville an hour ahead of schedule

BLEASE FLAYS PRATT WITH SAVAGE SPEECH; DEMANDS SUSPENSION

Luckett Drafts Case Against Doyle, Allen

Letters Written to Chief Made Basis of Charge of Prejudicial Conduct Before Board Wednesday—Pratt Reported Ill.

Preparation of the formal charges against Capt. Robert E. Doyle, suspended commander of the Eighth Police Precinct, and Private Robert J. Allen, suspended member of Doyle's command, will be completed in time for the trial of the policemen before the Police Trial Board at its regular session next Wednesday.

Harry M. Luckett, chief clerk of the Police Department, was instructed by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday to prepare the charges.

The primary charge against the two suspended policemeh will be one of conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the Police Department. This charge will be based on the letters written to the chief of police by Allen and Doyle.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley H. DeNeale, regularly assigned to prosecute cases before the Police Trial Board, will assist Luckett in drafting the charges and, it appeared likely yesterday, will prosecute the men before the regular trial board.

The present trial board is composed of Inspector Louis J. Stoll and Capts. Davis, Second Precinct, and Stott, Third Precinct. This board would be authorized to try Capt. Doyle under the provisions of the police manual, which requires only that an officer be tried by officers of equal or superior rank.

Either Doyle or Allen, however, have the privilege of challenging any member of the board on the ground that they feared unfair treatment by one or another for some special reason. Allen formerly was a member of Capt. Stott's command in the Third Precinct, and he may challenge the cap-

Senator Calls Chief's Action on Allen and Captain Cowardly.

SEES EFFORT TO MAKE DOYLE 'STOOL-PIGEON'

South Carolinian Draws Resolution, but Fails to Regain Floor.

SHELBY, KELLY MADE SECONDARY TARGETS

Pair Should Be Suspended Also, Lawmaker Asserts; Overman Shares View.

After hammering away at Maj. Henry G. Pratt in the early afternoon, Senator Cole A. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, late yesterday went after the police chief with legislative tongs.

The South Carolinian, fighting mad, drafted a resolution calling for the suspension of Maj. Pratt unless Capt. Robert E. Doyle and Private Robert J. Allen are restored to duty.

The resolution declares that Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Ed Kelly also should be suspended unless Doyle and Allen are put back on the pay roll.

Fails to Get Floor.

Senator Blease tried for an hour or more to introduce his resolution, but was unable to get the floor. He will make another attempt this morning. Even though the measure should be adopted—and it is unlikely that it will—it would have no binding effect on the Commissioners, inasmuch as it would simply be an expression of opinion on the part of the Senate.

When told about the Blease resolution, Maj. Pratt made a laconic, fourteen-word statement.

"If the Senate wants that kind of an administration," he said, "why, let them have it."

Commissioner Dougherty would say nothing.

Blease drafted the resolution after delivering one of the most vehement speeches ever aimed at a local official, a speech which, uttered in his own State in the old days, most certainly would have led to a fight.

He said that Pratt was a "coward", he accused him of lacking the "manhood" to deal with Private Allen; he said he tried to make a "stool pigeon" out of Capt. Doyle, and he wound up by describing Pratt's action in suspending the two men as "dirty, cowardly and contemptible."

Opium Is Produced.

To add to the melodrama of the occasion, Blease produced a packet of opium and had Senator Copeland, of New York, a famous physician, examine it. Blease said it had been purchased within the shadow of the Capitol.

In the meantime, in an off-the-floor statement, Senator Lee S. Overman (Democrat), of North Carolina, the member who helped Private Allen reopen the McPherson mystery, referred to Pratt's action in suspending Doyle and Allen as "reprehensible."

"It is reprehensible," said Overman, "that the District Commissioners and Maj. Pratt, superintendant of police, have found it necessary to suspend from duty without pay, Capt. Doyle and Private Allen for an alleged minor infraction of the police regulations, while at the same time retaining in active service Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly, against whom gross charges of inefficiency have been made by a grand jury.

"Neither the Commissioners nor Maj. Pratt can defend such action. It is another glaring example of police injustice."

New Man Needed, Says Blaine.

Senator Blaine (Republican) of Wisconsin, declared that, aside from the Doyle-Allen case, conditions in Suspended Police Captain Is in Quandary Trying to Select Counsel.

OLD FRIENDS EXTEND AID

With fourteen attorneys offering him their assistance, Police Capt. Robert E. Doyle, under suspension on charges of insubordination preferred by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, was in a quandary last night, unable to make a decision as to what legal talent will represent him next Wednesday before the Police Trial Board.

"I haven't made any decision yet," said Doyle. "Fourteen attorneys have offered their assistance, among them several classmates of mine when I attended National University Law School, from which I received degrees of bachelor and master of law. These old classmates came forward quickly in my defense and are anxious to represent me when the case comes up.

"All day long I have been busy opening letters and telegrams assuring me of the confidence of friends and acquaintances, offering me aid and assistance of all kinds, and the telephone has been ringing so constantly that I think I'll have to call upon the newspaper boys to furnish me with a secretary.

"And by the way, the newspaper boys have been mighty nice to me all along and I hope that some day I'll be able to reciprocate their kindness."

Asked whether or not he had any worries over the coming trial of himself and Policeman Robert J. Allen, following their suspension by Maj. Pratt, Doyle laughed and said:

"Of course not. What have I got to be worried about?"

In discussing the question of counsel, Capt. Doyle seemed especially pleased over the offers of aid from

INSIDE AID BLAMED IN THIEF'S ESCAPE

Fifth Precinct Cells Found Unlocked After Fleeing of Bank Robber.

PRATT DEMANDS INQUIRY

Police authorities investigating the sensational and mysterious escape of Wilbur William Hand, 35 years old, convicted Ohio bank robber, from a cell in the Fifth Precinct station early yesterday morning have reached the conclusion that the prisoner obtained his liberty as the result of an "inside job."

It was pointed out that immediately after the escape was discovered, the door to the cell block and the door to the cell in which Hand was incarcerated were found unlocked.

The police keys to these doors were found securely attached to their customary hooks in the office of the station clerk, in the front room of the station.

However, it was learned, the police authorities investigating the escape have agreed that impressions may have easily been made of the keys and are also checking on the reports that several persons, reputed to be relatives of the prisoner, visited and may have aided him during the period of his incarceration.

At 5:10 o'clock yesterday morning, Wilbur William Hand was the occupant of Cell No. 4 in the Fifth Precinct Station. He was behind two heavy barred steel doors, one being the door to his cell and the other the outer door of the cellroom.

Twenty minutes later the doors were behind Hand, and the police were wondering how his absence might be explained. They have not yet found the answer.

A few hours later, two police officers from Ohio, who came to Washington to take the prisoner back for complicity in a $175,000 bank rob-

LOBBY HELD VITAL TO OBTAIN JUSTICE

H. C. Lakin, Sugar Head, Tells Senators Staff Needed to Protect Business.

GRUNDY ON STAND TODAY

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate subcommittee investigating lobbyists yesterday got further down into the Nation's sugar bowl, where a bitter tariff fight has been underway for several months and elicited from Herbert C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Corporation, the opinion that business must have lobbyists here to get fair treatment from Congress.

"The business interests of this country don't think it's safe to do without a lobby here?" Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, asked him.

"I think they are up against it," replied Lakin.

"Then the business world has come to the conclusion," Caraway pursued, "that it must hire a lobbyist to get fair treatment here in Congress."

"I'm sorry to say that my ten

FRANCE IS AT SEA OVER NEW CABINET

Formation of Ministry to Be Deferred Till End of Week, Is Belief.

MAY ASK BRIAND AGAIN

Paris, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—After a day of conferences between President Doumergue and leaders of every shade of French political opinion, France's 24-hour-old cabinet crisis was still unsolved tonight.

In the opinion of most close observers the formation of a new ministry to replace Artistide Briand's "Cabinet of the Hundred Days," which has governed France since July 29, will be deferred until at least the end of the week.

Meanwhile President Doumergue is being urged by a number of his important visitors from different parties of the left center and the left of the Chamber of Deputies to call Briand to form his twelfth ministry.

Whether or not the veteran of so many stormy political changes would consent, is another matter.

Briand's friends declare that he has

Belgium Welcomes Prince Who Comes to Claim Bride

Humbert, of Italy, Formally Asks and Is Granted Hand of Princess Marie-Jose; Betrothal Ceremony Held in Castle.

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Coming to claim his royal bride, Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, Crown Prince Humbert of Italy today received an affectionate welcome from the people of Belgium.

The whole country is taking an extraordinary interest in a wedding which at the same time unites the royal houses of Italy and Belgium and is a love-match culminating an attachment that began in childhood.

Although the betrothal will be announced officially only tomorrow, it became a fact from noon today, when Prince Humbert formally asked the hand of Princess Marie-Jose in marriage. His request was gladly granted by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth.

The betrothal ceremony took place formally at a dinner tonight in the Castle of Laeken, in the presence of the Italian Ambassador and intimate friends of the prince and princess.

The official gazette, Le Moniteur, will proclaim the engagement tomorrow. Chevalier Le Patoul, marshal of the Belgian court, said this form had been chosen to meet the wishes of King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena, October 24 being the anniversary to their own wedding in 1896.

The betrothal therefore will be considered official as from tomorrow morning, without any further notice or personal announcement such as was made when Prince Leopold was betrothed to Princess Astrid. The king and queen then received representatives of the state and newspaper men to announce the engagement.

Prince Humbert brought many splendid gifts for his bride and the bride and the members of the Belgian royal family.

It is expected that the marriage will take place toward the end of November with all the pomp and ceremony of the Catholic Church ritual. Cardinal Gamba, archbishop of Turin,

Gas Kills Four; Father Is Sought

Family Head Disappears as Wife and Five Boys Are Overcome.

Hamilton, Ohio, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Four children were found dead in their home here tonight and their father was sought by police on the strength of a mysterious note indicating that he was their slayer. One other child and the mother of the family were in a critical condition. All of the occupants of the house had breathed escaping gas.

The note found near the bodies also indicated that the father might have contemplated suicide, and named three other men as being to blame for the act.

The dead children were: Keath, 5; Leon, 12; Robert, 14, and Paul, 10. The father who is sought is Charles King, sr., 36. The mother and the other children are Mrs. Sarah Ethel King, 31, and Charles, jr., 6. They are in a hospital here.

Constitution Hall, D. A. R. Auditorium, Is Dedicated

Bishop Freeman, Performing Rite, Pleads With Order to Continue Its Mission of Promoting Law Enforcement and of Upholding Ideals.

An urgent plea to the Daughters of the American Revolution to continue in their mission of promoting law enforcement, preservation of the American home and patriotic ideals was made by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, at the consecration service of Constitution Hall, the $2,000,000 auditorium of the organization, yesterday afternoon when he was the principal speaker.

The vesper service was presided over by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R., and the entire program was broadcast by radio over WRC. This was done in order that nearly 200,000 members of the society in all parts of the country might listen to the first formal meeting in their new hall, erected in honor of the Constitution of the United States.

In the picturesque procession with which the program began the State flags were carried by the 48 State regents. Honorary presidents general in line included Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, of Greenwich, Conn., who was chairman of the Constitution Hall Committee, Mrs. William Cumming Story, of New York City and Mrs. George Thatcher Guernsey, of Independence, Kans. On the platform were seated the members of the national board of management, John Russell Pope, of New York City, architect of the hall; Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Holyoke, Mass., chairman of the finance committee which raised most of the funds for the erection of the hall, and members of the advisory board of the D. A. R.

A striking feature of the program was the playing of a patriotic prelude by Mrs. Thomas Kite, honorary vice president general of the D. A. R., from Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been organist of a church in that city for 50 years. The organ was presented to Constitution Hall by Mrs. William the Police Department here were such as seemed to demand the importation of a new police chief, somebody who has made a reputation elsewhere and who could not be influenced by politics in the department.

In his outburst on the floor, Senator Blease was interrupted by Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, and Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts. While neither defended Pratt, both deplored "trying the case on the floor." They contended that it was a matter that should be aired by the Sackett subcommittee, which is now making an investigation of District affairs.

In the course of his speech, Blease submitted a list of persons who will be called as witnesses when the Sackett subcommittee meets. From this it is evident that Blease intends going into the death of Headquarters Detective Arthur Scrivener and into many other cases, including the death of Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut. One of the women to be called wrote a letter expressing the opinion that Brandegee was murdered, and was not a suicide.

Allen Gloomy Over Pay.

Private Allen was at the Capitol shortly after noon. He seemed principally concerned about his pay being cut off.

"My grocer gave me a surly look this morning," he said, "a look that didn't bode much credit in the future."

Senator Blease, at the outset of his speech, told how a friend of his bought opium near the Capitol, and then took up the suspension of Capt. Doyle and Private Allen by Maj. Pratt. He explained how Pratt called on Doyle to "comment" on a letter which Allen had written.

"Understand," Blease said, "he does not ask for his captain's opinion on the Allen case or a report on the Allen case, but he demands that Capt. Doyle comment on the Allen case."

Obeyed Command, Claim.

"This was a direct command to Capt. Doyle from his superior officer. Capt. Doyle, as I understand it, sat down and did just exactly what this man Pratt, this autocrat, demanded of him to do. Then when he does it, Pratt goes to the Commissioners and demands of them that Capt. Doyle be suspended from his position.

"In my opinion, Pratt is simply trying to discredit Allen's testimony and the testimony of one or two other men who are on the force, whom he hopes to intimidate and keep from telling the truth on the witness stand.

"One of them has already been to me this morning and says that he has a wife and too many children to run the risk of being thrown out of his job and asked me to withhold his name and not bring him into the investigation.

Condition Serious, He Says.

"I do not know whether the Senate cares to take any action or not. I do not know whether we can take any action or not. But I think the country has reached a very serious and dangerous condition when the chief of police of the greatest capital city in the world can demand a report from a subordinate officer and then, when he gets the report, turn the officer out for insubordination and because the report did not suit him.

"My notion is that this man Pratt is a coward, a moral coward, if not a physical coward.

"He wanted to turn out this man Doyle and he wants to turn out this boy Allen, but he especially wanted to get rid of Allen. He did not have the manhood to turn Allen off. I think he is afraid of him, so he goes and asks Doyle to make a report, as I believe, for the purpose of getting Doyle to state something that he could use as an excuse to turn Allen off."

Act Called Cowardly.

"But when Doyle refuses to be his stool-pigeon, refuses to be his tool, then he takes advantage of the situation and gets mad and loses his head and not only turns off Allen, but Doyle as well, which I say was a dirty, cowardly, contemptible act on the part of any man, and especially a man who is chief of police and supposed to be an honorable man at the head of the police department of a city like this.

"I can get testimony; I am not looking it up, but I can not present things to the subcommittee if the witnesses who are to testify are to be told, 'If you testify we will turn you out of your job or we will punish you in some other way.' I think there should be somebody—I do not know who it should be; I have not been on the District committee long enough to know anything of its rights or duties—but there certainly should be somebody to bring this man Pratt to book.

"If that is not done more murders are going to be committed; more women are going to be ravished in the city; more robberies will be committed, and other crimes will be perpetrated, because if there is a man at the head of the department who is willing to stifle testimony or hold an ax over a man's head and tell him that if he testifies he will cut it off, no body of men can be kept together working for the best interests of the city which they are supposed to safeguard under such conditions."

The list of witnesses to be called which was submitted by Blease, contains the folowing names:

Sergt. Minor Furr, Private Harry A. Reed, of the Seventh Precinct; Sergt. Bahner, of the First Precinct, the first man to reach Arthur Scrivener's body; Robert J. Allen, suspended private of the Eighth Precinct; Howe Totten, of the Benedict Apartments; Sergt. Waldron, Sergt. Sweeney, of the Detective Bureau; Sergt. Sanders, Sergt. Mansfield, of the Detective Bureau narcotic squad; Federal Narcotic Inspectors Rakusin, Fortner and McDonald.

Writers Are Listed.

Among those listed as sending in papers or letters were: W. E. Lawson, 629 F street northwest; Miss Davis, Winston Hotel; Claude M. Johnson, 2750 Fourteenth street northwest; Henry Flury and W. G. Bennet, Miss Mary M. Shipley, 1101 K street northwest; Miss Margaret R. Dubail, no address given, and Oscar C. Thomas, of the Columbian Building.

attorneys who went to law school with him.

"Now don't make it appear that I'm a lawyer or know law," said Doyle, "because I don't. I took law as a post-graduate course, after I had been made a captain in the police department, and that is 24 years ago. But it is very pleasant for me, after all these years, to have these men step up ready to fight my battles. I have had also several offers of legal aid from out-of-town attorneys of prominence. However, when it comes to myself, I am nothing but a policeman and I've tried to be a good one."

Auto in Frederick Hits Dog-Catcher

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 23.—William Hopwood, 61 years old, city dog catcher of Frederick, was critically injured at 6 o'clock last night while crossing South Washington street, when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by H. V. Ripperger, 40 years old, a traveling salesman, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Attendants at the City Hospital reported Hopwood received a compound fracture of the skull and had not regained consciousness at a late hour tonight.

After a search for more than two hours by Frederick police and authorities in Hagerstown, Cumberland and Baltimore, as well as Fourteenth Precinct police in Washington, who had been requested to post lookouts for a hit-and-run motorist, Ripperger surrendered himself here.

He explained that after hitting Hopwood, who, he said, walked from behind one car into the path of his machine, he parked his automobile in Frederick and walked a mile to the Maryland police substation to surrender. Finding the substation unoccupied, he returned to Frederick and gave himself up. Ripperger was released on $500 bond.

LUCKETT DRAFTS POLICE CHARGES

Case Against Doyle and Allen Is to Be Ready by Wednesday.

PRATT IS REPORTED ILL

tain as a member of the board inasmuch as he had difficulties while assigned to the Third Precinct.

Whether the trial of Doyle and Allen will go forward Wednesday is not certain. The regulations require only 48 hours notice to an accused policeman before trial, but it is customary to give additional time to accused men when a request for a continuance is made.

The evidence on which the charges against the two will be based is contained in their letters. What the detailed specifications will be enumerated in the formal charges has not been finally determined, Luckett said yesterday. He may complete preparation of the charges today, he said.

Capt. Doyle and Private Allen were suspended, effective at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and Lieut. Michael Raedy assumed command of the Eighth Precinct as acting captain.

Doyle turned in his equipment to Inspector T. R. Bean and left the Eighth Precinct station in civilian clothes promptly at 8 o'clock.

Doyle Sees Duty Fulfilled.

"I have done my duty and obeyed the commands of my superior officers," Doyle said. "My men know that. I do not believe that this is the opportune time for any other statement.

"When I turned in my equipment Lieut. Raedy said that he had never served under a 'squarer shooter' than I have been. That was mighty nice of him."

Doyle's suspension yesterday marked the first time since he was a private, in 1893, that he has been cited before the Police Trial Board. A minor charge against him was dismissed in that year. In 1892 he was sent before the board and fined $5.

Allen was ordered to appear at the precinct at 8 o'clock also, but being suspended and ordered before the Trial Board was not a unique experience for Allen and he did not arrive at the station until 8:30 o'clock. In the meantime Inspector Bean and Lieut. Raedy were waiting for him.

Allen Sorry for Captain.

When Allen arrived he stopped to talk to a newspaper reporter. Inspector Bean ordered him into the captain's office, but Allen continued his conversation before responding to the command. Having turned in his badge and equipment he left the office. Subsequently Inspector Bean, calling him "Mister" Allen, requested him again to come into the office. Allen made arrangements to turn in his uniform and a short time later left the station.

Between his first and second visits to the captain's office Allen told reporters that he was sorry for Capt. Doyle.

"Longer in service as a captain than any other man in the United States, Doyle must feel badly, and I am sorry for him," Allen said.

He explained his late appearance at the precinct by saying that he had had trouble with his automobile, causing him to be delayed.

An attempt to communicate with Maj. Pratt at his home in connection with another matter last night elicited the information that he was ill and had retired early in the evening. His indisposition is not considered serious, however, and he is expected to be at his desk in the District Building today.

SENATE COALITION BEATEN ON CARBIDE

Present Tariff Rate on Chemical Retained by 42-to-37 Vote.

GOFF EXPLAINS DUTY

With thirteen Democrats ranged with the Old Guard Republicans, the Democratic-insurgent coalition in the Senate cracked yesterday to meet its first defeat in the fight to hammer down the industrial schedule of the Hawley-Smoot bill and the high rates of the present tariff law.

The split, recorded in a vote of 42 to 37, by which the Senate retained the existing rate of 1 cent per pound on calcium carbide, developed in the course of a five-hour debate bristling with charges that the "power trust" was having its way again with Congress.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, led in the attack on the power interests, retorting to the jibe that he was repudiating the pledges of the Democratic party which he had supported in 1928. Norris declared that the administration now would not be asking a 1-cent duty on carbide if Alfred E. Smith had been elected. Nor would there be any uncertainty about who is going to get the power at Boulder Dam.

A reduction in the duty of ¼ cent on the carbide, which is used extensively in the making of acetylene gas and fertilizer, had been originally proposed by the Republicans of the finance committee, but at the last minute they had a change of heart and announced their intention of sticking by the present law.

Explanation was made by Senators Goff (Republican), West Virginia; Edge (Republican), New Jersey, and Couzens (Republican), Michigan, that information had reached the committee showing that reduction of the rates would resultin the closing of the big plants of the Union Carbide & Carbon Co. at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and transfer of operations to Canada. The committee's original action was based on reports of the Tariff Commission on the cost of production in the United States and abroad. The figures in the commission's report, Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, contended, never have been disproved.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, who voted to retain the existing duty on the ground that more than 1,000 employes of the carbide plant in New York would be thrown out of jobs, brought Senator La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, and Senator Norris into the debate.

Interrupting the New York senator, La Follette remarked that threats of shutting down plants were always being made when industry was seeking favors of Congress.

The day's development also demonstrated that Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, can be counted on to vote with the coalition against the increases in industrial rates and that he will oppose an increase in sugar duties despite the approval given the sugar increase by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Senate yesterday took up the finance committee amendment providing for a duty of 3½ cents on casein. A proposal of Senator Shortridge (Republican), of California, to make the duty 8 cents was under discussion when the Senate recessed, and will be debated today.

RURAL PHYSICIANS HEL DHEALTH HOPE

Dr. Bagby Urges Virginia Society to Insist on County Sanitation Officers.

CITY PROGRAM IS CITED

University, Va., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—If filth-borne diseases are not eradicated in Virginia in the next two years, it will be the fault of the rural physician, Dr. B. B. Bagby, health officer at Courtland, Southampton County, said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Virginia Medical Society meeting here tonight.

Dr. Bagby, who formerly served as health officer of Henrico County and later of the City of Richmond recently returned to public health work in Virginia after three years at Athens, Ga., under a program sponsored by the Commonwealth Fund.

The physician's part in the public health program is very definite and benefits not only the community but the medical man, Dr. Bagby said. "Of course," he stated, "the physician is not expected to go out and build toilets, but he is expected to appear before his board of supervisors to urged that they unite with the State Board of Health in employing a sanitation officer, and also he should be expected to help that sanitation officer by urging his patients to comply with the sanitary requirements of the State.

Athens' Program Outlined.

The basis of Dr. Bagby's address was the five-year health program adopted for Clarke County, Ga., where the public health appropriation was increased from 60 cents per person to $1.90 per person resulting in a 50 per cent decrease in mortality in white persons under 15 years old.

The Athens program, he said, consisted of:

First: Sanitation. Every home not connected to a sewer provided with a sanitary pit privy.

Second: Food control. The standard milk ordinance was adopted, and all buttermilk and butter sold in Athens was made from pasteurized milk or tuberculosis-tested cattle.

Third: Prenatal care. It was the endeavor to have every expectant mother under the care of a physician and to see that tests were made prior to the advent of the baby. In all cases, of course, literature on diet and other hygienic measures was given the patient.

Thorough Examinations.

Fourth: Infant care. We tried to have a nurse see every baby before the end of the first week. The mother was urged to feed the baby only according to the physician's orders. The baby was weighed and examined regularly and sent to the physician on the first sign of sickness or lack of growth.

Fifth: School care. School children were given a thorough physical examination once every two years and urged to see a physician at once if any physical defect requiring correction was found.

For the last three consecutive years every white child in the city was examined by a dentist and received a certificate that all necessary dental work had been done.

Sixth—Contagious disease control: The usual measures of contagious disease control were observed, such as isolating, quarantining, disinfecting and vaccinating. In addition, special work was done in tuberculosis and V. D. control.

Seventh—Health education: An intensive campaign was conducted to educate the whole people; health and physical educators were employed in the public schools; frequent health articles appeared in the local paper; thousands of health bulletins were printed and distribuetd, and clinics for physicians and dentists were conducted by men of national fame. As in all well-conducted health work, nothing was attempted except with the approval of the medical society.

Roanoke to Hold Father's Day Fete

College Students Will Be Hosts to Parents November 15.

Special to The Washington Post.

Salem, Va., Oct. 23.—Roanoke College initiates this year a biennial Father's Day celebration, one of the first of its kind among Southern colleges. The student body has proposed to alternate the Mother's and Father's Day programs, entertaining the mothers one year and the fathers the succeeding year.

The fathers will gather this year on November 15 for the first of the celebrations.

The big event of interest will be the Randloph-Macon-Roanoke football game in the afternoon on College Field.

LADIES' AUXILIARY TO KEEP BIRTHDAY

300 GUESTS EXPECTED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Ladies Ahxiliary of the Alexandria Fire Department will celebrate the sixth anniversary of the organization with a banquet and entertainment program in Armory Hall tonight. Covers will be laid for 300 members and their guests.

Mrs. John W. Travers, president of the auxiliary, will act as toastmistress. Among the speakers will be State Senator Frank L. Ball, J. Randall Caton, local attorney; Col. John H. Trimyer, former president of Relief Company No. 1; Chief Watson and Sergt. Bargannini, of the District of Columbia Fire Department, and Col. Edgar Warfield, State commander of the United Confederate Veterans.

Other special guests will include City Manager Wallace Lawrence, Paul Morton, former city manager of Alexandria and now manager of Petersburg; Edmund F. Ticer, member of the city council, and these State officials of the auxiliary: Mrs. H. F. Wells, of Orange, State secretary; Mrs. Eugene Dabney, of Staunton, treasurer; Mrs. Minnie Lee, of Virginia Highlands, representing Jefferson District; Mrs. James B. Williams, of Alexandria, historian.

The invocation will be by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, and benediction will be pronounced by Mrs. Evelyn Copeland. Among those on the entertainment program are Miss Elizabeth Dugan, of Washington; Albert Schoenl, Miss Annie Moore, Robert Merchant, Miss Margaret Ogden, Mrs. Beryl Blewitt and the Alexandria Firefighters Musical Entertainers. J. William May will act as toastmaster.

Property owners in the 1700 block of Prince street are making complaints of conditions in that block and the urgent need of improvements. The city council has made an appropriation for a bridge over Hoofs Run into that square and the work has not yet been started, two planks being still in use for reisdents of that street crossing the run.

An automobile belonging to Harvey Fairfax, colored, was parked at Gibbon and Prince streets on Tuesday evening, and found to contain 16 half-gallon cans of corn liquor, which Fairfax disclaimed, stating he had loaned the car to two Washington men prior to his arrest. He was fined $70.50 and given 30 days in jail on a charge of possesion, but escaped the charge of transporting. Fairfax was arrested by Sergt. Padgett and Policeman Suthard.

The officers and congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church South will hold a reception at 8 o'clock tonight in the Sunday school room of that church, in honor of the presiding elder, who has just been returned to this charge, the Rev. Dr. Eldridge V. Regester, and his wife, and to the newly appointed pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, and his wife. The program is in charge of R. Samuel Luckett, who will introduce the speakers and will also announce the musical numbers. Edwin S. Goodloe is chairman of the reception committee.

Joseph Varin, who was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $250 in police court on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and who appealed to the corporation court, was pronounced not guilty by a jury in that court, with Judge William P. Woolls presiding.

Joe Ferguson, Negro, of Riverside, Fairfax County, wanted by the Fairfax County authorities for the alleged shooting of Arthur Ferguson, another Negro, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Capt. Heywood Durrer, of the Fairfax County police, and Policeman Virgil Williams, of Fairfax. Ferguson will be given a preliminary hearing as soon as the wounded man is able to leave the Alexandria Hospital, where he has been confined since Sunday.

A free chest clinic was conducted yesterday afternoon at the city health office for white persons, and this afternoon, between 3 and 5 o'clock, a similar clinic will be conducted for colored people.

Two popular materials, black Mat Kid and genuine Rajah Lizard are used in this Step-in.

In addition to the above grand officers, there will also be present a number of past grand officers and members from eight visiting chapters.

A dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock at the Baptist Church. The meeting of the evening will be held in the Masonic Temple.

SUDDEN SELLING WAVE SENDS STOCKS HURTLING DOWNWARD

more selling orders were received than buying.

Wall street had generally come to the conclusion that the flood of liquidation on Saturday and Monday had rather thoroughly cleaned the weak holdings of stock, and that rather more normal trading conditions might be expected for some time. There was nothing in the day's news to account for the further severe break in prices, and traders were inclined to interpret it to the frayed nerves of both speculators and investors, who have watched their stocks decline with sickening swiftness for nearly a fortnight.

Mitchell Declines More Comment.

Only yesterday Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank and a director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, stated that he believed the reaction through Monday had been healthy and that the market had probably become oversold. Mitchell declined to offer any further comment after the close of today's market.

The day's industrial news included several favorable earnings statements and dividend declarations, reports that steel production had been accelerated a little in the past week, and statistics showing a moderate increase in building contracts let during the first half of the month. Less favorable developments were reports that total freight car loadings for the week ended October 12 were slightly below those of the previous week, and substantially below those of the like week a year ago.

Credit Situation Favorable.

Credit conditions were distinctly favorable in contrast to recent situations. Call money, or demand loans on security collateral, dropped to 5 per cent, the minimum figure for more than a year, and rates for bankers' acceptances, a form of credit used to finance the storage or transport of goods, were shaded from ⅛ to ¼ of 1 per cent during the past two days.

The most acute drops in share prices, as usual, were in the high-priced and rather inactive stocks. The maximum decline of $96 was in Adams Express, old stock, and a drop of $70 was in Commercial Solvents, old stock. Trading in the securities of these companies is now concentrated in the new split-up stocks. Auburn Auto tumbled $87, to $250, compared to the year's record price of $512, and closed at $260.

Chicago Exchange Hit Hard.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Bears again were in the saddle on the Chicago Stock Exchange today and turned a strong opening into almost a rout toward noon. The close found several of the more vulnerable issues off from 2 to 75 points.

Auburn, partially recovering Tuesday from Monday's hammering, again was hard hit, dropping 75 points and winding up the day with a loss of 65 points at 285, on 2,100 shares.

Bullish news had little effect on the market. Two announcements affecting Bendix Aviation and Gleaner Combine Harvester depressed the stock 4½ and 5¼ points, respectively. Gleaner directors announced a 300 per cent stock dividend yesterday and Bendix today announced signing of favorable European contracts.

The Insull issues again were hard hit, Commonwealth Edison dropping 20 points on a small turnover, Insull Investment dropping 9 and Middle West Utilities 24 points.

United States Gypsum was soft, closing 4 points down, but an optimistic earnings report by John R. Thompson moved that issue against the general trend, closing at 42, up 2 on the day.

During the flurry of selling, sales for the third successive day and for the tenth time this year, passed the 500,00-share mark, totaling 635,000 shares.

finally decided to refuse any offer other than that of holding the portfolio of foreign affairs in some one else's cabinet.

The impression grew during the day that Briand would be pretty sure to remain at the foreign ministry in any cabinet except one formed from groups on the right center and the right. Members of these parties have generally opposed his policy at The Hague reparations conference, and his views on early evacuation of the Rhineland and cession of French rights in the Saar before 1935.

The meeting of the radical Socialist party congress at Rheims tomorrow is awaited with the keenest interest for its bearing on the political crisis. The Socialist party is meeting over the week-end, and in some circles it is thought possible that the Socialists might agree to abandon their policy of isolation in the chamber and participate in an attempt to revive the old cartel of the left. The cartel was broken by political differences late in 1925, and the Socialists have not since taken part in a French cabinet.

U. S. PLANS UPLIFT OF AIR PROGRAMS

Commissioner Lafount Tells of Idea His Board Has for Betterment.

TEST SCHEDULES LOOM

An effort to elevate radio programs to a higher plane and at the same time obtain a broad cross section of public opinion may soon be attempted under Government auspices, preferably the Federal Radio Commission, if Commissioner Harold A. Lafount, sponsor of the idea, succeeds in the plan which he expects to present to the commission at an early date.

For some time Lafount has deplored the difficulty in obtaining mass opinion by the questionnaire method and he believes that the chain broadcasting organizations would gladly copoerate with the Government by allowing a one-hour program to be presented over each of the networks some evening during the coming winter, preferably a different evening over each chain or network.

Having seriously studied the fundamentals embodied in the present radio programs in an effort to reach a basis for program improvement," Lafount said, "I feel sure that the broadcasters, the Federal Radio Commission and the public would be brought closer together and a more ideal program situation could be arrived at if these test programs were presented for the approval or disapproval of radio listeners.

"The public would be urged to comment not solely as a patriotic service but also for the benefit which might result to the individual radio listener by the expression of his opinion and by this means a standard could certainly be approached whereby the broadcasters and the commission could more easily fulfill their desire to please a majority of the people.

"Expressions from listeners throughout the Nation concerning the character of programs they enjoy should aid the Radio Commission in properly appraising the public service rendered by broadcasters. This plan would provide an opportunity for making a worthwhile, Nation-wide survey of the desires and tastes of the American people, incidentally assuring them of the commission's earnest desire to see broadcasting conducted in the public interest.

"A portion of each program could be devoted to governmental activities. Even the President might see fit to address the people on some subject of first importance.

"This plan would in a measure meet the demands of those who advocate a government-owned station for dissemination of information by Government agencies and I personally believe that, if properly carried out, it would find favor throughout the country."

DEPUTIES PROTECT KANSAS CITY MILK

Band Blocking Load of 370 Gallons Dispersed by Sheriff's Aids.

ARBITRATION IS SOUGHT

Kansas City, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Breaking out in new violence today, Kansas City's 17-day-old milk strike resulted in armed deputy sheriffs being called to guard milk trucks while Chamber of Commerce officials prepared to attempt arbitration.

A band of aproximately twenty men was prevented by three deputies from destroying a load of 370 gallons of milk on a highway near Lone Jack, Mo. The milk truck was halted by a barricade across the road. As the men attempted to talk to the truck driver the deputies, in a motor car, arrived and ordered the barricade removed. The men then opened the blockade and the truck continued the journey into Kansas City.

A short time previously the same band of farmers had dumped 30 gallons of milk seized from a truck owned by another Kansas City pasteurization plant.

It became known late today that Conrad H. Mann, president of the chamber of commerce, was gathering information relative to the milk situation and is prepared to call a conference of producers and distributors.

A previous effort at arbitration between the persons directly affected met with failure. Although the dairymen, through the milk producers' association, are seeking a 6-cent raise in the wholesale price and more lenient grading requirements, they agreed at a meeting with distributors to accept a 2½-cent increase.

The pasteurization plants, which also do the distributing, finally offered a 1-cent increase. The offer was refused by the dairymen.

West Virginia Bond Issue Offers Asked

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Gov. William G. Conley has issued a call for proposals on the purchase of $750,000 in State road bonds, which are to be opened October 29. The bonds are dated July 1, 1927, and will be due and payable $50,000 annually from July 1, 1938, to July 1, 1952.

SLIM HOPE HELD FOR FLIER ON TRANSATLANTIC JOURNEY

hope. It was a hope that few others shared, and a hope that gained but little strength by a vague and unconfirmed report current at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., that Diteman had landed "somewhere in Europe."

Diteman, self-styled descendant of Sir Francis Drake, and the Golden Hind, named after the globe-cruising galleon of the English adventurer, could have reached the continent, but chances for that were considered less than the meager chances conceded the airman for reaching London.

Diteman's own estimate of 25 hours' flying time, as based on the fuel he carried, could have kept him aloft longer and could have carried him farther than he had planned, but the 25-hour period expired and there was nothing to show he had won.

Instructions were issued, however for London's great airport at Croydon to be illuminated throughout the night, and wireless operators on both sides of the ocean and on ships at sea remained mindful that through their instruments may come a spark to revive a dying hope.

The weather was halfway in Diteman's favor. Dr. James W. Kimball, of the New York Weather Bureau, said that if the airman got through 500 miles of cold, foggy weather and northerly winds off Newfoundland, he would have struck better conditions on the remainder of his journey. Although a high wind was blowing and a storm was brewing in the Azores last night, Dr. Kimball said earlier in the day that probable tailwinds and fairer weather prevailed in mid-ocean. Over the British Isles conditions had cleared and winds would have aided the Golden Hind.

On the Atlantic in the general path of Diteman are about 30 passenger liners and 70 freight steamers, spread out across the ocean. Few transatlantic fliers have had as much chance of being picked up by a vessel in case of accident.

In mid-Atlantic, bound east, are the Minnekahda, the Deutschland, the Laconia, the Belgenland, the Baltic, the Stavangfjord, the Caledonia, the Veedam, and the Homeric, all of which sailed from New York last Saturday.

Nearer to Europe are the George Washington, which left New York last Wednesday; the Stuttgart and the American Banker, both of which left New York Thursday, and the Lancastria, which left Friday.

Bound west and strung out about 500 to 1,500 miles east of New York are: The De Grasse, due Friday; the Cameronia, the Muenthen, the Reliance, the Tuscania, and the Lapland, all of the five expected Sunday; the Scythia and the American Trader, all due Monday, and the New Amsterdam, due Tuesday.

Cablegram Awaits Him.

London, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—An unclaimed private American cablegram for Urban F. Diteman, jr., tonight was lying on a desk in the London bureau of the Associated Press and seemed likely to become a souvenir of another transatlantic air tragedy. Diteman yesterday left Newfoundland in a small airplane with the hope of reaching England today.

The cablegram was sent soon after he left and lay here awaiting his arrival all day. Every few minutes there reached the same desk messages from all parts of the British Isles and ships at sea reporting that nothing had been heard of the aviator since he left Newfoundland. Tonight there was grave doubt that Diteman would ever read his message, for he was long overdue.

British Experts Pessimistic.

English air experts were pessimistic from the outset about Diteman's accomplishing what seemed an almost impossible feat in his litle machine and as the hours wore on they were more inclined to belief that he met disaster. There was no relaxation, however, of the vigilance of watchers, particularly along the western coast of Ireland. The chief hope remaining was the possibility that the Montana cattle trader had been picked up at sea by a vesseel not equipped with radio.

The big floodlights at Croydon Airport, his objective, were kept on all night to provide landing facilities should Diteman turn up. The pessimism of the staff of the airport was increased tonight by adverse weather reports. Off the southwest Irish coast the wind was growing in strength and the sky becoming overcast and threatening a storm.

Dublin Hears Nothing.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 23 (A. P.).—The headquarters of the Civic Guard at 10:45 tonight said that it was without the slightest news of Urban F. Diteman, jr., since he left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

It was added by the officials that had he been sighted anywhere along the Irish coast they would have been notified by now, since Gen. Duffy had given explicit orders for the strictest watch and an immediate report to headquarters of any sign of the aviator. Late tonight there was heavy rain along the coast, and conditions were most dreary.

London, Oct 24 (Thursday) (A.P.). An Exhcange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today said that it was learned that the Greenland trade department two months ago had been ordered to send gasoline to Julianshaab, Greenland, for a Mr. Diteman.

The dispatch said an unnamed American firm had ordered three drums of gasoline, each holding about 50 gallons, to be held for disposal at the Greenland port. The order was executed, but it was not known if the gasoline was claimed or whether the consignee was Urban F. Diteman, jr., the Montana cattle buyer, who took off alone in a small airplane from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on Tuesday.

Reports that gasoline had been ordered for a man named Diteman to be stored in Greenland caused speculation as to whether Urban F. Diteman, jr., had made public the complete plan for his flight.

Although a flight to England by way of Greenland and Iceland would considerably lengthen the journey over a direct course, it would reduce the longest overwater hop to only about one half of that to be covered by a direct flight.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—When asked tonight about a shipment of gasoline to Greenland for her husband, Mrs. Urban F. Liteman, jr., said that two months ago they had planned that his flight would be to Europe via Greenland and Iceland, but that a few days ago he changed his mind and decided to make one hop from New Foundland to London. He had ordered supplies previously to be deposited at the proposed island relay points.

Hope Is Undimmed.

Her hope apparently undimmed after 30 hours of suspense, she listened attentively but unmoved to press dispatches asserting a belief of aviation authorities that her husband has joined those other pioneers of transatlantic aviation swallowed by the sea.

Not until tomorrow, Mrs. Diteman indicated, will she be gravely concerned over the fate of her husband, whose abrupt transition from a quiet stock buyer to a transatlantic flier yesterday astonished every one but his wife.

Mrs. Liteman believes her husband had fuel for 27 hours flying and, tracing an air map with her finger, she indicated a 1,700-mile course he might follow. She thought he might have flown north of that course.

Parents Become Anxious.

Portland, Oreg., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Confident assertions of "he'll make it" turned slowly to anxious queries of "haw you heard anything?" as the parents of Urban F. Diteman, jr., waited hour after hour today of his fate.

What was a positive conviction earlier that their son would succeed later became to the aviator's parents a half realization that he possibly met wih some mishap.

The miniature world map on which the father had traced with pencil the route hi son probably would follow still remained on the table in the Warren A. Erwin home, but Erwin, Portland piano dealer, and brother-in-law of the flier, was frankly skeptical over the outcome of the daring adventore.

Born in Yakima.

Diteman was born in Yakima, Wash., in 1898. His family moved to Portland when he was 9 years old and he attended the Holladay Grade School there.

About two years later the Diteman family moved to Seattle and Urban attended the Broadway High School there, later going to business school.

In 1920 Diteman married Lucile Evans, of Portland, a University of Oregon graduate. The couple took a wedding trip through the Orient.

INQUIRY LAUNCHED IN TRACK TRAGEDY

WRECK PUSHED 600 FEET

An inquest into the death of three men and the injury of four others at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning when a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad locomotive backed into a motor-powered track car bearing section hands near the Rockville crossing will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in Rockville, State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., announced last night.

The dead are Marion Selby, 25 years old, of Gaithersburg, Md., foreman in charge of the section hands; Millard Mobley, 20, of Gaithersburg, Md., and Thomas Poole 22, Rockville, Md.

The injured are William Thompson, 25, of Gaithersburg, crushed foot, internal injuries and broken ribs, in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital; Frank Poole, 19, brother of Thomas Poole, cuts and bruises on body and shock; William Coleman, 54, and his son, Robert Coleman, 19, all of Rockville and all under treatment at the Montgomery County General Hospital, Sandy Spring.

The track crew had been directed by Track Supervisor Charles W. Selby, father of the dead man, to proceed to a point on the Georgetown branch line and clear away a load of sand dumped on the tracks when a freight car broke in two. The supervisor also accompanied the party. Charles Selby went to the telephone to see if the track was clear for their motor car and to call for more help. While he was gone the others pulled the car on the westbound track and prepared to transfer it to the other track.

Car Pushed 600 Feet.

A locomotive in the meantime had been ordered to the assistance of a freight engine at Garrett Park which was in difficulty. In charge of Engineer L. E. Spurrier, of Brunswick, Md., and with a crew consisting of Fireman H. A. Huffmaster, Brunswick, Md., and Brakeman G. A. Stewart, of Frederick, Md., the engine left on the westbound track going east.

This is the usual custom for a relief engine, railroad men say.

The engine was running in reverse but was equipped with a rear searchlight, railroad officials say.

The section hands heard the whistle of the engine but paid no attention because they figured it to be on the other track. The engine almost destroyed the car and pushed the remains about 600 feet along the track. Mobley was dragged under the cowcatcher and was dead when he was pulled free.

Carried to Hospital.

A general fire alarm was sounded and the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department and Pumphrey's ambulance service responded to the call. Warner Pumphrey took Thompson and Selby to Emergency Hospital. Selby died about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Thomas Poole was taken to Emergency Hospital in the Rockville fire truck, driven by William Burrows, but died just as he was being taken into the institution.

The other injured were taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital by County Policemen Windsor Poole and Joseph Oldfield in police cars.

Selby leaves a wife and 11-month-old boy. Poole was the principal support of his mother and her large family of small children. Mobley also assisted in the support of his family.

Investigation Is Begun.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad officials have started an investigation into the accident, and county authorities also are investigating.

William Brown, colored, Rockville, had a narrow escape. While the others were launching the track car, he was dispatched to the tool shed for lanterns and thus escaped the crash.

Although his own son was critically injured, Supervisor Shelby remained at his post and directed the clearing of the track so that traffic could proceed. The debris was soon cleared away and the morning schedule of trains was not disturbed.

FOUR DEAD, VESSELS IN PERIL IN STORM

Great Lakes Area Swept by Season's Worst Gale; Chicago Streets Flooded.

PROPERTY LOSS IS HEAVY

Chicago, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—At least two persons were dead, two others were believed drowned and the safety of dozens of others on ships somewhere in the lakes was in doubt as Great Lakes region's worst storm in the year cut a chill path eastward tonight leaving millions of dollars in property loss behind.

The ore carrier William Pilkey, was missing in Lake Superior and was feared to have been lost; the steamer Maple Court was aground on Magnetic reef in Lake Huron, and 13 persons including a woman, were taken from the freighter N. J. Nisson, grounded off Point Pelee in Lake Erie. The car ferry Milwaukee was missing in Lake Michigan; an unidentified barge was aground in Lake Ontario off Leamington, Ont., and the barge Lake Prugality was grounded in Lake Superior off Point Au Sable, but the crew was able to leave her safely. One barge sank in Lake Michigan last night, but the crew was saved.

Two Youths Missing.

Two Appleton, Wis., youths, Patrick Dolton and Carlton Roth, both students at Lawrence College, were still missing tonight and are believed to have drowned when their drifting boat sank.

Two deaths in Chicago resulted indirectly from the storm when Mrs. L. R. Cates, blinded by snow, was run down by a Burlington train at suburban Hinsdale, and Bruno Crush was killed as his car skidded and overturned.

Tremendous damage was caused all along the shore lines of the Great Lakes. In two miles of Chicago's outer drive, alone, the extent of the waves' ravages is estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000. Huge blocks of concrete retaining walls were beaten away and pilings were snapped off by the combined fury of wind and water.

Streets in dozens of lake towns and cities were flooded and basements were filled with water. In Chicago the fire department kept busy all last night and part of today pumping water from boulevards as far as several blocks back from the lake, and, at Green Bay, Wis., boats were employed to carry out residents of 200 homes surrounded by three feet of water.

Inn Swept Into Water.

Scores of families living near the water in Lake Shore communities were forced to flee from their homes, several of which were swept into the lake. At Michigan City, Ind., two $30,000 homes were carried out to sea and damage estimated at $300,000 was done. St. Joseph, Mich., had at least $25,000 loss, including the fashionable Hisman Park Inn, which was swept into the water after its side had been battered away. At St. Joseph 500 feet of pavement was ripped away in one sector.

The lighthouse keeper off Green Bay, Wis., forced to flee when the foundation of the house started crumbling, said the storm was the worst in his 31 years' experience.

Naval equipment docks and quarters of the seaplane personnel were carried away at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, and a floating clubhouse was submersed at Waukegan. Coal docks at the latter place were in danger of collapse. A water tower collapsed and toppled into the lake at North Chicago after a crew had labored all night to save it.

Passenger and mail planes remained on the ground at most points, trains were delayed and ships stayed in their docks.

32 Sailors in Danger.

Detroit, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—The 432-foot ore carrier William B. Pilkey was aground and reported in danger of breaking up with its crew of 32 men aboard tonight at Gravel Island, near Detour, Mich., at the north end of Lake Huron.

The coast guard cutter, No. 118, which was sent out from Sault Ste. Marie this afternoon to aid the distressed ore carrier, was forced to put in to Detour for the night.

Several other boats were driven aground by the worst storm of the year on the lakes. Thirteen persons, including one woman, today were taken off the freighter N. J. Nessen, grounded on a sandy reef near Leamington, Ont., in Lake Erie. The freighter C. W. Cadwell also went aground near Leamington, but the sixteen persons aboard were reported in no immediate danger. Fifteen men were stranded on the Maple Court which ran aground at Magnetic Point in Upper Lake Huron.

Mrs. Frances Bryan, 43, was drowned near New Baltimore, Mich., this morning. The strong wins and waves broke up the houseboat in which she was living.

Capt. Harry Miller and a crew of eight coast guards who went to the aid of the Lake Frugality in a lifeboat last night, returned to Grand Marais today after they were believed lost. The coast guard cutter Seminole, sent out from Sault Ste. Marie last night to aid the Lake Frugality, was unable to reach the distressed vessel and sought shelter tonight.

AN OPEN BOOK ON BANKING

HOW many great—or even moderately successful men—went through life without a banking connection?

The number of people who get rich quick over some brilliant new scheme is negligible, compared to those who acquire money through a steady, systematic accumulation.

There is no get-rich-quick method. The capitalist is merely a man who does not spend all that is earned by work.

There is a mighty fine opportunity for the man or woman, who knows how, to develop a Savings or Checking account in a friendly bank like the Federal-American.

Here you will feel that you always have help at hand in immediate money problems and in questions of financial importance to your future.

Take advantage of our Trust Department. Do you really know how this Department can serve you?

A bank is not simply a place to deposit money and get checks cashed—it is a place to acquire the art of accumulating capital!

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

PROGRESS REPORTED BY CATHOLIC WOMEN

Plans for Future Made as Montgomery County Federation Meets.

PASTORS MAKE TALKS

Satisfactory progress and plans for the future were reported by the constituent clubs of the Federation of Catholic Women's Clubs of Montgomery County at the annual meeting of the federation yesterday in Knights of Columbus Hall, Silver Spring.

Among the resolutions adopted was one of sympathy for the parish of St. Martin's Church, Gaithersburg, in the loss of the Rev. John Cuddy, who recently was killed by a train at the Gaithersburg Crossing. The five Catholic pastors of the county addressed the women. They were the Rev. C. O. Rosensteel, pastor of St. John's Church, Forest Glen; the Rev. James O'Connor, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Bethesda; the Rev. Charles O'Hara, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rockville; the Rev. J. J. Callaghan, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Gaithersburg, and the Rev. P. J. Ritchie, St. Mary's Church, Barnesville.

Following a luncheon served by Court Forest Glen, Catholic Daughters of America, the hostess organization, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. John C. Brennan, president. Mrs. Virginia Harding was chairman of the luncheon committee. After the report of Miss Marie Culver, chairman of the credentials committee, Father Rosensteel offered a prayer, which was followed by group singing of hymns, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. John Barbee, of Bethesda.

Miss Marie Whitfield made the welcome address, which was followed by reading of the minutes.

The following reports were presented: Mrs. John Brennan, president; Mrs. Roger Shaw, treasurer; Mrs. E. P. Schwartz, resolutions committee; Mrs. David Warfield, tercentenary committee. Club directors' reports were presented by the following: Mrs. Lawrence Flack, Holy Redeemer Sewing Club, Kensington; Mrs. Beulah Gartner, St. Martin's Sanctuary Society, Gaithersburg; Miss Katherine Butler, St. John's Sewing Club, Forest Glen; Mrs. Harry Carroll, St Peter's Sewing Club, Olney; Mrs. Ernest Fiske, St. Mary's Sewing Club, Barnesville; Mrs. Hannah Schwartz, Court Archbishop Curley, Gaithersburg; Mrs. D. H. Warfield, St. Mary's Aid Society, Rockville; Mrs. William F Harding, Court Forest Glen.

The reports were followed by several selections on the piano by Mrs Barbee and the talks by the clergy of the county. Mrs. Agnes Fenwick then spoke briefly and the meeting was adjourned.

William Henry Hall Will Be Buried Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 23.—The funeral of William Henry Hall, 55, prominent Stauntonian, who died in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Richmond, early yesterday morning, will be held from the residence here Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Murray D. Mitchell, of Braddock Street Methodist Church, Winchester, former pastor of Central Church, this city. Burial will be in Thornrose Cemetery.

Mr. Hall, a native of Kentucky, had been a resident of this city since 1907, when he was transferred here from Parkersburg, W. Va., to become manager of the Staunton district of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He occupied this position at the time of his death.

Port Authorities Postpone Meeting

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 23.—The meeting of the Virginia port authorities, which was to have been held here Friday, has been called off, it was learned today. Inability to secure a sufficient number of the commission's members and the fact that Danville tobacco shippers are now engaged in attending the market, were given as reasons for the postponement.

Liskey Exonerated In Death of Nurse

Prosecution Asks for Nolle Prosse on Principal Charge in Case.

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., Oct. 23.—The bottom dropped suddenly out of the case against Orville Liskey, of Harrisonburg, Va., here this afternoon when the State suggested nolle prosse in the indictment charging Liskey with aiding, abetting, conspiring and procuring Dr. Otto Fisher to perform an illegal operation on Miss Lonnie Muriel Beckone, student nurse, of Harrisonburg, and Liskey's fiancee. Miss Beckone died in Dr. Fisher's office.

The defense did not wish to accept this action unless all other indictments were nolled, but the prosecution would not accede to this, and the court refused to reduce Liskey's bond from $6,500 to $1,000. The defense avers action will be taken in the State supreme court of appeals to force the lower court to relieve it of the other cases.

Mrs. W.R. Harvey Heads Class at Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23.—The Madeline Feaga Class of Center Street Methodist Episcopal Church elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. William R. Harvey, president; Mrs. Thomas L. Popp, first vice president; Mrs. Homer C. Brooks, second vice president; Mrs. Harry Malcolm, secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Fuller, treasurer.

The club will give an entertainment November 8 for the building fund.

Auto Victim to Lose Memory in Operation

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, Oct. 23.—A pathetic case was revealed today at the Sacred Heart Hospital at Richmond. Graythel Boggs, 8, daughter of Oscar Boggs, of Williams River, will recover from a crushed skull, surgeons said, but will have no memory. Part of her brain was lost.

The child was struck by a passing automobile while attending a picnic Sunday on Fenwick Mountain.

Ivie Is Convicted In Holdup by Jury

Indiana Man Found Guilty After Cumberland Court Trial.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23. — Earle Ivie, of Richmond, Ind., was found guilty by a jury after fifteen minutes' deliberation late this afternoon on a charge of holding up Harry and William Kirby, youths of this city, sons of Mrs. Hannah Kirby, a widow, on the National highway on Polish Mountain late at night on August 28 last. The boys were returning afoot from Hancock, where they worked in a peach orchard.

John R. Urban, Towson, Md., alleged companion of Ivie in the holdup, admitted on the stand that while drunk he had participated in the holdup. He had signed a confession when arrested in Baltimore involving Ivie, who was later arrested at Richmond, Ind., but on the stand declared he was with a stranger whom he had picked up on the outskirts of Baltimore, who, with a revolver, had intimidated him and ordered him to drive through Cumberland to Uniontown after the holdup, where the stranger alighted from the car.

Ivie, by his wife and Mrs. Myrtle Mallique, sister-in-law, of Richmond, Ind., attempted to prove an alibi, that he was in Louisville, Ky., at the time of the holdup. Ivie admitted on cross-examination that he loaned Urban the automobile to come East after a very brief acquaintance, Urban having worked for him as an automobile mechanic.

Man, Held in Tree By Flood, Rescued

Neighbor Swims Horse Out in Shenandoah to Save Fisher.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 23.—After being marooned overnight on a small island in the Shenandoah River, with the rising flood waters forcing him to climb a tree to escape drowning, George Richardson, of Grottoes, Negro fisherman, was rescued about daybreak this morning when a neighbor swam a horse out to his rescue.

The raging torrents prevented Richardson's rescue last night, although a score of river residents sought in vain to reach the youth. The river level fell several feet before the horseback attempt was made. During the height of the flood, Richardson was in the midst of a stream a half mile wide, which rose to a depth of 10 feet over what normally is dry land.

Richardson walked out on the river bank late yesterday to fish. Before he realized it, a wall of water had descended upon him, spreading over a wide area and cutting off his only way of escape. A raging mountain stream poured its flood water into Shenandoah at the point, adding to the hazard.

Cumberland Woman, Killed by Car, Buried

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23.—The funeral of Mrs. Nathan Rexroad, who was struck by an automobile driven by R. E. Keegan, of Washington, when she attempted to cross the Northwestern turnpike, near Hartmonsville, was held today. She had waited by the side of the road for a number of machines to pass and then suddenly started across.

Dr. J. U. Kimmell, Grafton, W. Va., who happened along, gave aid, but Mrs. Rexroad died in half an hour. Mr. Keegan reported the accident to the authorities. Mrs. Rexroad was 48 years old. She is survived by her husband and four grown children.

D. A. R. Chapter Plans Fete for State Regent

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Mrs. William Vaught, of Point Pleasant, State regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, West Virginia division, will be guest of honor at a tea at Eaglehurst, home of Mrs. A. B. Eagle, here Friday afternoon, given by the Shenandoah Valley Chapter, D. A. R.

Regents of all other chapters in the Eastern Panhandle will be guests with members of the chapter. Mrs Vaught will be returning to Point Pleasant from a D. A. R. meeting in Washington and will stop here en route. She has been entertained previously by other chapters in the Panhandle.

Farm Site Decided On For Defectives' School

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Marys, W. Va., Oct. 23.—The State Board of Control, after inspecting available sites in various parts of the State, has selected the S. K. Sellers farm of 700 acres on the Ohio River, 4 miles east of this city, for the new State training school for mental defectives, for which the last legislature appropriated $150,000.

It is planned to erect two buildings of the cottage type, one for male patients and one for females, and to use the present old colonial farm house, when renovated, as an administration building.

Apple Harvest Near Its Close

Season in Potomac Region Ends Two Weeks Earlier Than That of 1928.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23.—The annual harvest of apples in the famous Shenandoah-Cumberland-Potomac district, which extends over a wide area from Gettysburg, Pa., to Roanoke, Va., traversing four States, will come to a close by the end of this week, more than two weeks earlier than in 1928, due to the early arrival of warm weather last spring. At this time it is difficult to closely estimate the yield from the 12,000,000 or more trees but the information will be forthcoming in the near future after a comprehensive survey.

According to leading growers the quality of the fruit this year was much better than that of 1928 and prices received were somewhat higher.

Most of the cold storage plants in the district are filled almost to capacity. The amount of apples exported, particularly to Great Britain, to date, has been considerably lower than last year.

Live Wire Kills Miner.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 23 (Special).—Authorities today decided that H. Frank Lake, 25, whose body was found last night in an isolated section of the Reppert Coal Co.'s Atlas Mine, near Flemington, had been killed by walking against an electric wire. Lake, an employe of the company, formerly lived at Mount Lebanon, Pa.

TOBACCO GROWERS AGAIN HIT AUCTIONS

Governmental Inquiry on Trust Law Observation Is Demanded.

PRICE TOO LOW, CLAIM

Special to The Washington Post.

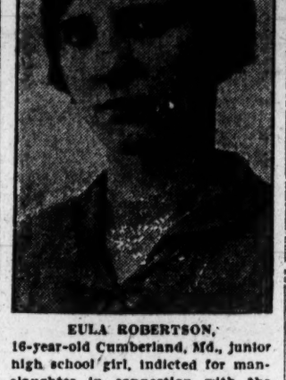
Danville, Va., Oct. 23.—Despite a slowly improving condition on the tobacco markets in the Old Belt of Virginia and North Carolina, growers are continuing to meet at their county courthouses and adopt resolutions inveighing against the auction system and receipts, which the growers still consider to be low.

Caswell County N. C., farmers met yesterday and adopted a series of resolutions in which it was held that tobacco is selling "totally out of harmony with its real worth and in addition, below the cost of production."

The resolutions called on representatives and senators of the belt to set in motion a governmental inquiry of the large companies to determine if the trust laws are being obeyed. It was further set forth that since the wholesale price of cigarettes has increased, "a reflex of the same should be seen in the stimulation of the markets to a higher level."

The closing clause attacks the old auction system and says: "It is the sense of this meeting that the present system of selling tobacco does not appear to be conducive to the interest of the tobacco growers. We wish to go on record as favoring the plan of governmental grading of the leaf."

ON TRIAL TODAY



EULA ROBERTSON,
16-year-old Cumberland, Md., junior high school girl, indicted for manslaughter in connection with the shooting of Thomas Sullivan, an alleged unwelcome suitor who, she declared at the time of the tragedy, had threatened her, goes on trial before a jury today. Several high school teachers have been summoned as witnesses in the case. The plea of the girl will be self-defense, it is understood.

DELEGATES FAVOR EPISCOPALIAN MAP

RECONVENE AT BRIGHTON

Considerable progress was reported by the Episcopal Churches of the Northern Archdeaconry which includes Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties at the semiannual meeting of the Archdeaconry held yesterday at St Luke's Church, Bladensburg. Nearly 100 delegates were in attendance.

The delegates decided that the churches of the archdeaconry and the bounds of their parishes should be mapped out and territory outlined. The spring meeting will be held at Brighton, Md.

The meeting began with the celebration of Holy Communion by the Rev. Millard F. Minnick, of Rockville, and a sermon by the Rev. William R. Moudy, of Silver Spring. The principal address was made by the Rev. Charles E. McAllister, rector of St. Michael's and All Angels' Church, Baltimore, a former pastor of St. Luke's.

Luncheon was served by the Ladies Guild of St. Luke's, with Mrs. William Frerie as chairman of the committee in charge. Following the meeting, the delegates attended a reception at the new rectory recently purchased by the church. The Rev. M. W. Derr, rector of the church, and Mrs. Derr, welcomed the guests.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR HOLD CELEBRATION

Six Hundred in Parade at Annual Field Day of Third Division.

BALL ENDS FESTIVITIES

Nearly 600 members of the Third Division, Knights Templars of Maryland, yesterday paraded through flagbedecked streets of Hyattsville, Md., at the fourth annual field day of the division. The Third Division includes Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick and Rockville as well as Prince Georges County.

After marching through the main streets of Hyattsville the parade finally concluded at Magruder Park, the town's new community field, where the knights passed in review before Harry O Perry, grand commander of the Knights Templars of Maryland, and his staff. The review was led by Dr. S M McMillan, of Riverdale, commander of the Third Division. As a first-aid measure the Prince Georges County Fire Rescue Squad ambulance, driven by Chief H. L. Leonard, followed the line of march, but the knights marched like old campaigners.

After a drill and review on the wide expanse of Magruder Field the knights marched to the Masonic Hall, where supper was served by the women of Ruth Chapter, No 7, O. E. S., of Hyattsville. A band concert at the National Guard Armory preceded a grand ball, which concluded the day's festivities. The arrangements were in charge of a committee headed by George E. Pierson, commander of St. Elmo Commandery, Hyattsville the host organization.

OHIO RIVER PROJECT LAUDED BY SPEAKER

Longworth Calls on Valley People to Vindicate Faith of Hoover.

ABUSE WARNING IS GIVEN

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—A call to the people of the Ohio Valley to see to it that a confidence of President Hoover in the completed Ohio waterway is not abused was made here tonight by Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Longworth addressed the President himself and a thousand others, mostly business men and political leaders of this section, at a board of trade dinner commemorating the completion of the new canal system on the river.

He also told the valley people that they should see to it that the American people never have cause to regret their investment in the waterway.

Huge Artery of Commerce.

The speaker described the new Ohio as "an artery of commerce capable of transporting throughout the year all articles of commerce confided to it."

Longworth said he did not dare trust himself to speak of the ultimate future of the river.

"To me it seems almost limitless," he said. "This I do predict, however, that during the lives only of ourselves and our children and of our children's children, by reason of the savings in the cost of transportation on its surface and its potential effect on all transportation costs, the Ohio canal will prove to have exceeded in actual worth to the American people by millions if not billions of dollars all the sums that have been expended on its triumphant completion."

Recalling that George Washington, the engineer, surveyed the Ohio and bought large tracts of land along the banks, the speaker said it was by no means impossible that Washington May have foreseen not only the development of the Ohio as an artery of commerce, but also that it might be developed by canalization.

"He was probably the leading authority on systems of internal waterways, and an investor in canalization projects," he speaker added.

"With such a background, I am by no means sure that my suggestion that Washington had vision of a project such are we are now dedicating goes far afield," he continued.

President Is Praised.

"It is a most happy coincidence, if not a providential one, that another great engineer, like Washington, among the most eminent of his time, honors us with his presence tonight. Like Washington, he is also a President of the United States.

"Like Washington, he will, I predict, take rank as one of the great Presidents of the United States. He comes both as an engineer in his private capacity and as President in his public capacity, to lend his approval to this completed project and to dedicate it forever to the use of the people of the United States.

"Let us of the Ohio Valley resolutely see to it that his confidence is not abused, and that the American people may never have cause to regret their investment."

HOOVER HAS HUGE WATERWAYS PLAN

this afternoon, a crowd of several thousands greeted him at the wharf. He drove directly to the Hotel Brown and there attended a banquet given by the Ohio Valley Imporvement Association in his honor, but at which he did not speak. From the banquet hall the President drove to the auditorium.

Due to the short notice given local officials of the change in plans that forced the President, because of bad weather, to speak indoors, amplifiers in the auditorium were not in excellent working order and the Chief Executive's voice doubtles was heard better over the radio than in the hall. The auditorium was about two-thirds full.

Private Enterprises Urged.

The President declared that his administration would insist on building up the waterways like any other transportation system "by extending its ramifications solidly outward from the main trunk lines." He said that "we must design our policies so as to establish private enterprises in substitution for Government operation of the barges and craft upon the waterways."

"We must continue Government barge lines through the pioneering stages," he added, "but we must look forward to private initiative not only as the cheapest method of operation but as the only way to assure an adequate public service."

The Chief Executive said that "one of the most vital improvements to transportation on the North American continent" is the making of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes route open to ocean-going vessels.

Guardsmen are Injured.

"Our nation," he said, "should undertake to do its part whenever our Canadian friends have overcome those difficulties which lie in the path of their making similar undertakings."

An unfortunate incident which might easily have resulted in tragedy took place at Madison, but the news of it was kept from the President.

Four National Guardsmen, in a futile attempt to fire a presidential salute, were severely burned by their powder exploding prematurely, two of the guardsmen had legs broken; all were taken to the hospital.

The President and Mrs. Hoover, along with Speaker Longworth, who accompanied them from Cincinnati, were on deck when the large crowd surged forward.

Hoover Has Good Appetite.

"Apparently nothing can dampen Indians," the President said with a smile. "Because of the weather conditions I must ask you to listen over the radio tonight."

During the river voyage appetites were whetted vigorously by the crisp, strong wind which buffeted the boats and the President, together with his whole party, partook copiously of the excellent meals provided by Army engineers.

For breakfast there was melon, cereals, great stacks of steaming cakes, maple sirup, ham, bacon and eggs and coffee. For luncheon, the table was piled high with chicken, various vegetables, hot rolls and pies.

Mrs. Hoover Is Feted.

The Greenbrier was proceeded by auxiliary boats of the President's immediate party and the palatial river passenger boats, Greater Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, carrying participants in tonight's celebration from various points on the river.

Mrs. Hoover went to the Pendennis Club, where Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, entertained 90 women in the First Lady's honor.

Text of Hoover's Speech Delivered at Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Following is the text of President Hoover's speech delivered here tonight:

To my Fellow Citizens: I am sure it is a great disappointment that this meeting could not have been held upon the waterfront as was planned. It seemed to me that the plan of your committee for me to address you upon the policies of this administration in waterway development from the pilot house of the steamer upon which we arrived at Louisville this evening, had a peculiar fitness.

I was greatly relieved, however, when you changed that plan. The enthusiasm of the citizens of Louisville for waterway development was well shown by the thousands who met us upon our arrival and I fear that their earnestness for that cause would have led them to brave the cold rain even at the risk of health.

During the day we have completed the journey from Cincinnati to Louisville as part of the celebration of the Ohio Valley upon the completion of the improvement of the Ohio River into a modern waterway.

Will Move Mass of Goods.

The river has now been formally opened to traffic from above Pittsburgh, 1,000 miles to Cairo, on the Mississippi, from which point another 1,000 miles of modernized waterway leads to the sea at New Orleans. By dams and locks, by dredging and revetments, we have transformed the Ohio River from a stream of shallows, ofttimes dangerous even to rafts, into a canalized waterway of an assured 9 feet of depth at all seasons. This transformation will not revive the romantic steamboatin' days of Mark Twain, but it will move more goods.

The picturesque floating palaces of Mark Twain's day drew 2 or 3 feet of water and even then found their way precariously around the bends among the snags and over sand bars. In time they were unable to compete with the spreading railroads, and river navigation passed into its dark ages. But now is its day of renaissance. Upon deep and regular channels unromantic Diesel tugs now tow long trains of steel barges.

What the river has lost in romance it has gained in tonnage, for in steamboatin' days 500 tons was a great cargo, while today 10,000 tons is moved with less men and less fuel. It is thus by deeper channels and new inventions that our rivers come back as great arteries of commerce after half a century of paralysis. And the new waterways are not competitive, but complementary to our great and efficient railways. It is the history of transportation that an increase of facilities and a cheapening of transportation increase the volume of traffic.

Arteries of Travel.

In the steamboatin' days the rivers were the great arteries for travel. Those who must hurry will have little inclination to journey by river steamers, but those who wish recreation may well return to this magnificent and powerful river. The majesty of the Ohio was born of the ice ages, half a million years ago. Its beauty remains today undisturbed by our improvements, and will remain long after our Nation and race have been replaced with some other civilization. And those who love the glories of "Ole Man River" may now again find rest and food for the soul in travel on its currents.

The Ohio has a large place in the history of our race. On this route 250 years ago birch canoes carried La Salle and his first party of white men into the wilderness of the Middle West. He was the first to visit the falls of Louisville, whose roar is this moment in my ears. Down this valley through succeeding centuries poured the great human tide that pioneered the greatest agricultural migration in history. In turn came the explorer, the trapper, the early settler, the sweep of farmers ever pressing back the frontier in search of virgin land and independent homes, the merchant, the manufacturer, the city builder, until this great valley is today one of the rich places of the earth. It is rich not alone in the sense of property but in the sense of happy and independent homes of virile men and women. From forefathers schooled of courage, adventure and independence, of a spirit tempered by hardships, have sprung a race of men and women who have oft given leadership to the building of our republic.

The improvement of this great water route has been ever present in the vision of our statesmen. George Washington first voiced its potentiality to our new-born Nation. In reporting on one of his early journeys, he said:

Washington's Report.

"Prompted by these actual observations, I could not help taking a more extensive view of the vast inland navigation possibilities of the United States, both from maps and the observations of others as well as myself, and could not but be struck with the immense extent and importance of it and with the goodness of that Providence which has dealt its forces to us in so profuse a hand. Would to God that we may have the wisdom and courage to improve them."

Today, after this 160 years, Washington's prayer is come true in a greater sense than even he dreamed. Other Presidents in succession over our history have striven for its development, from Jefferson on down. Lincoln's first political speech was a plea for its improvement. Our Nation sometimes moves slowly, but its will is not to be thwarted. It has been a gigantic task, this transformation of the Ohio. It represents an expenditure and a labor half as great as the construction of the Panama Canal. Like many current problems, the development of our rivers is never a finished accomplishment, it must march with the progress of life and invention.

While I am proud to be the President who witnesses the apparent completion of its improvement, I have the belief that some day new inventions and new pressures of population will require its further development. In some generation to come they will perhaps look back at our triumph in building a channel 9 feet in depth in the same way that we look at the triumph of our forefathers when, having cleared the snags and bars, they announced that a boat drawing 2 feet of water could pass safely from Pittsburgh to New Orleans. Yet for their times and means they too accomplished a great task. It is the river that is permanent; it is one of God's gifts to man, and with each succeeding generation we will advance in our appreciation and our use of it. And with each generation it will grow in the history and tradition of our Nation.

Other Tasks Remain.

And while we celebrate the completion and connection of a great waterway 2,000 miles, from Pittsburgh to New Orleans, we have still unifinished tasks in improvement of our other great waterways up to the standards we have established upon the Ohio.

Some have doubted the wisdom of these improvements. I have discussed the subject many times and in many places before now, and I shall not repeat the masses of facts and figures. The American people, I believe, are convinced. What they desire is action, not argument. I may, however, mention that as the improvement of the Ohio and its tributaries has marched section by section during this last twelve years, the traffic has grown from 25,000,000 tons to over 50,000,000 tons annually. Yet it is only today this great branch line is connected with the main trunk of this transportation system, the Mississippi. It is only now that the full movement of goods can take place between the great cities of Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, on one hand, and St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans and the wide ocean on the other.

With the completion of our national job on the Ohio, with the celebration of this day, we can well turn our minds toward the other great jobs in waterway improvement which lie before us. The Ohio is but one segment of the natural inland waterways with which Providence has blessed us. We have completed the modernization of but one other of the great segments of this system—that of the lower Mississippi.

One Large System Urged.

Five or six years ago I had opportunity to join with those many representatives of the Midwest in council as to the method by which we could strengthen national interest in the energetic development of the other parts of this great system. At that time I suggested that all these tributaries of the Mississippi and the Great Lakes comprised a single great transportation system. That it must be developed in vision of the whole and not in parts.

Without delaying to traverse the detailed ramifications of these great natural waterways, I may well summarize their present condition and enunciate the policies of my administration in respect to them:

1. As a general and broad policy I favor modernizing of every part of our waterways which will show economic justification in aid of our farmers and industries.

9-Foot Depth Urged.

2. The Mississippi system comprises over 9,000 miles of navigable streams. I find that about 2,200 miles have now been modernized to 9 feet in depth, and about 1,400 miles have been modernized to at least 6 feet in depth. Therefore some 5,000 miles are yet to be connected or completed so as to be of purpose to modern commerce. We should establish a 9-foot depth in the trunk system. While it is desirable that some of the tributaries be made accessible to traffic at 6 or 7 feet, yet we should in the long view look forward to increasing this latter depth as fast as traffic justifies it.

This administration will insist upon building these waterways as we would build any other transportation system—that is, by extending its ramifications solidly outward from the main trunk lines. Substantial traffic or public service can not be developed upon a patchwork of disconnected local improvements and intermediate segments. Such patchwork has in past years been the sink of hundreds of millions of public money.

3. We must design our policies so as to establish private enterprise in substitution for Government operation of the barges and craft upon these waterways. We must continue Government barge lines through the pioneering stages, but we must look forward to private initiative not only as the cheapest method of operation but as the only way to assured and adequate public service.

Five-Year Job Seen.

4. We should complete the entire Mississippi system within the next five years. We shall then have built a great north and south trunk waterway entirely across our country from the Gulf to the northern boundaries, and a great east and west route, halfway across the United States. Through the tributaries we shall have created a network of transportation. We shall then have brought a dozen great cities into direct communication by water; we shall have opened cheaper transportation of primary goods to the farmers and manufacturers of over a score of States.

5. At the present time we have completed 746 miles of intracoastal canals. We still have approximately 1,000 miles to build. We should complete this program over a period of less than ten years.

6. We should continue improvement of the channels in the Great Lakes; we should determine and construct those works necessary for stabilizing the lake levels.

St. Lawrence Job Looms.

7. One of the most vital improvements to transportation on the North American Continent is the removal of the obstacles in the St. Lawrence River to ocean-going vessels inward to the Great Lakes. Our Nation should undertake to do its part whenever our Canadian friends have overcome those difficulties which lie in the path of their making similar undertakings. I may say that I have seen a statement published lately that this improvement would cost such a huge sum as to make it entirely uneconomical and prohibitive. To that I may answer that after we have disposed of the electrical power we should contract the entire construction for less than $200,000,000, divided between the two governments and spread over a period of ten years.

8. We shall expedite the work of flood control on the lower Mississippi in every manner possible. In the working out of plans we find it necessary to reconsider one portion of the project; that is, the floodway below the Arkansas, but work in other directions will proceed in such fashion that there will be no delay of its completion under the ten-year program assigned to it.

9. With the increasing size of ocean-going vessels and the constantly expanding volume of our commerce, we must maintain unceasing development of our harbors and the littoral waterways which extend inland from them.

Organization Is Recast.

10. The total construction of these works which I have mentioned amounts to projects three and four times as great as the Panama Canal. In order that there may be no failure in administration, and as an indication of our determination to pursue these works with resolution, we have in the past month entirely recast the organization of this executive staff in the Government. With the approval of the Secretary of War, and under the newly appointed chief of engineers, we have assigned to each of these major projects a single responsible engineer. We thus secure a modern business organization, direct responsibility, and continuous administration. We wish to see these projects completed with all the expedition which sound engineering will permit. We shall be able by this means to place responsibility, without question in failure, and to give credit without question to the men who bring these great projects to successful completion.

At the present time we are expending approximately $85,000,000 per annum on new construction and maintenance of these works. To complete these programs within the periods I have mentioned will require an increase in the Government outlay by about $10,000,000 per annum not including the St. Lawrence; at most, including that item, an increase in our expenditure of say $20,000,000 a year. A considerable proportion of this will end in five years' time. It is of the nature of a capital investment.

This annual increase is equal to the cost of one-half of one battleship. If we are so fortunate as to save this annual outlay on naval construction as the result of the forthcoming naval conference in London, nothing could be a finer or more vivid conversion of swords to plowshares.

March of Nation Cited.

To carry forward all these great works is not a dream of the visionaries—it is the march of the Nation. We are reopening the great trade routes upon which our continent developed.

This development is but an interpretation of the needs and pressures of population, of industry, and civilization. They are threads in that invisible web which knits our national life. They are not local in their benefits. They are universal in promoting the prosperity of the Nation. It is our duty as statesmen to respond to these needs, to direct them with intelligence, with skill, with economy, with courage.

A nation makes no loss by devotion of some of its current income to the improvement of its estate. That is an obligation we owe to our children and our grandchildren. I do not measure the future of America in terms of our lifetime. God has truly blessed us with great resources. It is our duty to make them available to our people.

SUGAR HEAD SAYS LOBBY IS ESSENTIAL

Lakin Tells Senators Such Activity by Business Is Distasteful.

months' experience here has shown they must," Lakin replied.

Lakin, perhaps the frankest witness yet to appear before the committee, said that his company and other Cuban companies had prepared to spend $95,000 in the campaign against an increased sugar tariff and that $75,000 had been spent since last December, of which $24,000 was for publicity. The money was expended from a headquarters set up here. It has already been developed that the other side of the sugar controversy, those seeking an increased tariff, has spent $56,000.

Names His Associates.

Associated with him in his campaign Lakin said, are Enoch H. Crowder, the former Ambassador to Cuba, John E. Snyder, the Hershey Chocolate Corporation, and a New York sugar broker named "Pike," as well as a law firm, Bangs, Shattuck & Wymand.

In addition to his own company, which he said owns 550,000 acres of sugar land in Cuba, Lakin said he represented the United States Sugar Association and the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba, composed of Americans living in the island republic. Eleven firms all told joined the fight, the majority of them agreeing to give $10,000 toward it, Lakin said. He named United Fruit Co., the Hershey Corporation, the Cuban-American Sugar Co. and the Czarnikev-Rionda Corporation.

President Machado of Cuba, wanted to contribute, he said, but he told him he considered this would be improper.

Says Platform Watched.

Machado and the Cuban government had displayed considerable interest in the platform of the Republican party adopted at Kansas City in June, 1928, Lakin said, for any sign of an increased sugar tariff. Then when the threatened increase developed, he was asked by the American sugar holders in Cuba to lead the fight for them, and the Chamber of Commerce head, whom he did not name—informed him that the Cuban government wanted him to represent them also.

Subsequently he received word from Machado, he testified, that no "harm should be done to domestic producers but that he wanted Cuban producers protected."

The island supplies about half of this country's sugar consumption, he testified, or about 3,000,000 tons annually. His idea of protecting both domestic and Cuban producers would be to give the former a bounty from the tariff now collected on sugar.

"The Sugar Equalization Board," he said, "took $39,000,000 from the producers by fixing the price of sugar after the war."

Bank Declared Interested.

He sought assistance from Senator Smoot, of Utah, the beet sugar champion, Lakin testified, but received no encouragement. And he talked with 12 or 14 other senators on the subject.

"Is the National City Bank interested in Cuba?" asked Senator Robinson, of Indiana.

"Indirectly, and maybe directly," he replied. "In 1921 the bank was a very heavy creditor of Cuban interests. It foreclosed mortgages in some instances, and in others refinanced the properties. I believe it may be directly interested in the General Sugar Co. and financed it, using bonds of reorganization which they sold to their customers."

He said he knew Charles E. Mitchell, head of the bank, but had not talked with him about the present fight.

"Did the bank put $100,000,000 in Cuba in the financial reorganization of 1921?" Robinson asked.

"I don't believe it did," replied Lakin. I don't think it could have been more than $25,000,000."

Calls Lobbying Distasteful.

"Have you ever heard that there were things about the transaction which would not stand the light of publicity?" Robinson asked.

"No, I haven't."

"Did you hear they squeezed the Cubans out?"

"No, I didn't."

Lakin testified at the outset that the business of trying to "influence" Congress was "very distasteful" to him.

Preceding him, the subcommittee heard Joseph E. Wuichet, an assistant here of Charles L. Eyanson, $10,000-a-year representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, who was stationed in Senator Bingham's office.

Senator Walsh had previously sprung a memorandum which Wuichet had made for Eyanson on the occasion of some Connecticut manufacturers calling to ask what had been accomplished on a certain type of guns. The memorandum told Eyanson that Wuichet had informed the manufacturers that Senator Bingham encountered so much opposition in the finance committee from Senators Reed, Edge and Smoot that he thought he had done well to maintain the present rate.

Memory Fails Wuichet.

Wuichet said that a thorough search of his files for a reference to this memorandum, after Walsh had first sprung it several days ago, failed to disclose it, although he readily recalled it.

But he could not recall where he got the information that he gave to the visiting manufacturers. He was certain that he had not received it from Eyanson, however.

"I would think I got the information from Mr. Eyanson," he said in explaining the complete mystery of it, "except that I had specific instructions not to communicate with Mr. Eyanson while he was in Washington."

It was not developed why, under these circumstances, he had prepared a memorandum for Eyanson.

Senator Walsh asked the witness, a young man, if his "memory was bad at all times or just in this particular instance."

He said he thought it was just bad regarding this particular matter.

"It may be that I took a long shot," he said, in explaining the source of his information. The committee was trying to determine whether Eyanson, who attended two of the secret finance committee hearings, had been responsible for the leaks that were generally known at the time.

Eyanson was also recalled, but insisted that he did not give out any information.

Grundy Today's Witness.

The committee also heard Henry M. Barry, clerk to the committee on territories and insular affairs, and the man displaced on the Government pay roll by Eyanson in order that he could attend the finance committee hearings.

He testified that the first pay day after this was done Bingham paid him the money Eyanson had received from the Government, and on the second one Eyanson had turned it over to him himself.

Today the committee is to hear Joseph R. Grundy, the big Pennsylvania tariff lobbyist, and who is being prominently mentioned as the successor of Senator-elect William S. Vare.

Members of the Massachusetts State Society at a meeting last night at the Wardman Park Hotel discussed plans for a proposed dance and get-together celebration of Bay State natives and former residents to be held probably in November.

bery, were saying unkind things, because their trip was fruitless.

Hand was arrested here about two weeks ago by Policeman Paul E. Ambrose, of the First Precinct, who found him loitering at E and Eighth streets northwest, and recognized him as wanted and described in a police lookout bulletin. When arrested, Hand gave his name as William James Hennessy, and his address as Baltimore, but a check of the finger-print records revealed his real identity.

Hand was convicted in Crawford County, Ohio, of complicity in the robbery of $175,000 from the Commercial Savings Bank of Galion, Ohio, which was held up by five armed bandits on June 28, 1927. Also arrested and tried with Hand was Harry Zillick. Both were convicted, and both appealed. Zillick lost his appeal and is now in the Ohio State Penitentiary, but Hand was released in $25,000 bond pending a new trial. About 18 months ago, however, he forfeited his bond and disappeared.

Pratt Demands Explanation.

When Hand was arrested here, the Ohio authorities were notified and he was transferred to the Fifth Precinct for custody until returned to Ohio. Why he was not incarcerated in the District Jail, where he belonged, instead of in a precinct station house which has no facilities for guarding such a prisoner properly, is a question that, Maj. Pratt insists, must be answered.

Last week Hand's brother, A. J. Hand, of Toledo, came to Washington to see him and removed all of the prisoner's personal effects from the station house, it is reported.

How the prisoner could have escaped appears to be quite a mystery. Lieut. Richard H. Mansfield, who was senior officer in charge of the precinct at the time, and Capt. W. E. Sanford, commander of the Fifth Precinct, inspected the locks and declared that they had not been tampered with; that they must have been opened with a key.

Key Custodian Perplexed.

Custody of the keys rests with the station clerk, Policeman R. C. Speith, and he insists that they were not out of his custody at any time while he was on duty.

Hand's cell was on the southeast corner of the cell block at the station house. The adjoining cell was unoccupied. At 5:10 o'clock Hand was safe in his cell and all doors locked, according to the policemen who were on duty at the time. But at 5:30 Policeman Louis A. Craig discovered that the doors, both of the cellroom and the cell, were unlocked and that Hand was elsewhere.

Once out of his cell, it would be a comparatively easy matter for him to have escaped from the station house, either through a door leading directly to Fifth street southeast, or through another door which leads to the same street through the precinct garage.

Accomplice May Have Entered.

Whether it would have been possible for an accomplice to have entered the station house through either of these two doors and uplocked the cellroom and cell to "spring" the prisoner is another question Pratt wants answered.

Hand is mild of manner and appearance, but police bulletins describe him as unusually desperate, and generally prepared and willing to "shoot it out" if necessary to preserve his freedom. When arrested here, however, he was unarmed.

Sheriff George Davenport, of Crawford County, Ohio, and Police Captain George Moody, of Galion, arrived in Washington yesterday to take Hand back to their jurisdiction, but they were several hours late; Hand had already departed without leaving any forwarding address.

Police regulations require inspection of all cells every thirty minutes, either by the station clerk or the patrol system officer. It is pointed out by policemen of the Fifth Precinct that only 20 minutes elapsed between inspections when Hand escaped yesterday morning.

Maj. Pratt has ordered Inspector Albert J. Headley to investigate the break minutely, and to this end the inspector subjected all members of the Fifth Precinct to an exhaustive grilling yesterday, but declined to discuss the situation from any angle last night, until he had had an opportunity to make a detailed report first to Maj. Pratt.

FRANCE SPEAKS.

Whatever the aftermath of M. Briand's downfall may be, the signs point unmistakably to a crystallization of the nationalist spirit in France. It is apparent that the sentiment of the French nation deeply resents the wounds which the British Labor government has been inflicting upon French pride during the past few months.

The coming London naval conference is only one of the links in the chain of events which have aroused French resentment, but the Chamber of Deputies has timed its adverse vote to synchronize with M. Briand's first move toward qualified participation in the conference. The British intimations of an Anglo-American entente resulting from Mr. MacDonald's American trip have apparently added more to France's resentment than the Anglo-American invitation to the naval conference which Briand half-heartedly accepted.

It was apparent that M. Briand faced a hostile French opinion in the attempt he made to associate France with the MacDonald naval conference program, which was laid before a world audience as the climax to an agreement between Great Britain and the United States for "common action."

For weeks the French press has been practically unanimous in expressing suspicion and distrust of the MacDonald policy and of the so-called Anglo-American entente. In his role of master statesman, M. Briand sought to persuade his countrymen to rely upon him to handle the situation in his own way. He issued a statement to the effect that France would enter no binding agreement on disarmament excepting at a conference held by the League of Nations, and he framed his reply to the British invitation along that line. But he instructed his Ambassador to Washington to express France's gratification over the results of the MacDonald visit, and predictions were freely made that there would be trouble on account of this.

The MacDonald policy has all along been openly and avowedly anti-French. The Snowden episode at The Hague was a virtual notification that the Anglo-French entente was ended. Mr. MacDonald at Geneva told the Paris correspondent of Le Petit Parisien that Britain was through with her policy of truckling to France and would seek solace elsewhere. In Canada Mr. MacDonald boasted of the withdrawal of troops from the Rhineland in advance of the ratification of the Young plan. The French feeling of security was thereby endangered, and it is little wonder that the deputies insisted upon an immediate full statement by Premier Briand.

The British Labor government has made a pretty mess of international relations by its deliberate affronts to France and its attempt to draw the United States into an understanding that would serve as a substitute for the Anglo-French entente. Americans will not permit the United States to be used as a cat's-paw in this fashion. M. Briand's dismissal, administered at the very first opportunity by the Chamber of Deputies, throws a flood of light upon the international political situation. It is doubtful that good feeling and confidence can be restored in time to insure the success of the London conference. Unless conditions improve before the middle of January it will be wise to call off the conference, inasmuch as a failure to agree would leave the situation even worse than it is now.

One thing ought to be made clear to all the nations: The United States has not formed, and will not be permitted by its people to form, a special entente with any nation; and any representations that the United States has taken sides with one foreign nation as against another are false.

CONGRESS AND THE SCHOOLS.

Finding that the District's five-year school building program initiated in 1925 has not been carried out, Chairman Capper, of the Senate District committee, asked the Board of Education for a "frank" explanation. It is difficult to understand why he sought this information from the board instead of first going to the records of Congress to see if the pledge of that body had been kept. But the reply of Dr. Carusi, president of the board, has left no doubt as to where the responsibility for failure of the five-year program lies.

Congress generously authorized a program designed to modernize Washington's school facilities. It was understood that construction would be extended over a period of five years at a cost of more than $20,000,000. For the first year an appropriation of nearly $4,000,000 was made, and then Congress forgot all about the five-year program and its promises to the District. Now that the time set for completion of the project is approaching, Senator Capper wants to know why hundreds of school children are still in portable buildings and thousands of others attending part-time classes. Why, he demands, are classes still overcrowded, and why are old buildings unfit for school purposes still in use?

The school board replies that of the $20,000,000 promised Congress has appropriated only $14,268,250, in spite of rapid growth in school attendance. The school board felt the need for appropriations in excess of those authorized in the five-year program, and made requests at various times for a total of $26,429,230 for buildings and grounds. These requests were trimmed down to $18,534,130 by the District Commissioners. Another slice taken off by the Budget Bureau left the aggregate sum at scarcely more than half what the board asked for. This willingness of the Commissioners and the Budget Bureau to throttle the public schools does not excuse Congress, however. The school building act authorized an allowance of $4,000,000 per year, and there was no reason for withholding it.

This neglect appears particularly deplorable in view of the fact that at the same time the District has been piling up a surplus in the Treasury. "The large surplus to the credit of the District," Dr. Carusi's statement says, "indicates that a more liberal policy toward the public schools could have been pursued without increasing the burden upon the Federal Government or upon the taxpayers of Washington." Why has the school program been sacrificed for the sake of hoarding a needless surplus?

Congress has plainly violated its own act. It can make amends only by formulation of a new program and appropriation of sufficient funds to make Washington's school system second to none in the country.

WIPING OUT USELESS LAWS.

The idea of a special session of all State legislatures to weed out all unnecessary, obsolete and unwise statutes is gaining momentum. Gov. Byrd of Virginia advocated such a session several months ago at a dinner given in his honor by the National Institute of Public Administration. "Good morals would not suffer," he said, "good order would be better preserved and good will of the citizen for his State would be increased if we could have one session of every State legislature at which no law would be passed except to repeal unnecessary existing laws."

The suggestion was favorably received throughout the country. It has won the support of the American Bar Association. At the convention of the association in Memphis Guerney E. Newlin, president, appealed to State legislatures to end their "orgy of lawmaking" and devote one session to clearing their statute books of rubbish.

The universal demand that legislatures confine themselves to "necessary" laws has had little effect on the legislative output because of the loose interpretation of the word "necessary." It is estimated that 40,000 new laws are added to the books of Federal, State and city governments each year, and that the total reaches 2,400,000. Vigorous attempts have been made to remedy the situation, but they usually result in a new codification of statutes without discarding the chaff or in attempts to hold the new output to a minimum. The Vermont Legislature, for example, enacted almost no new legislation this year. Its session was the shortest for 27 years. But the legal rubbish was allowed to remain intact.

The legislatures can not be expected to modernize the legal structure of their State unless a special session is devoted to that purpose. The demands for consideration of thousands of petty schemes preclude any serious consideration of retrenchment in the regular sessions.

Another proposal intended to rid the States of superfluous laws is that a time limit be included in every law. Under this plan every law would be repealed automatically within a certain time, twenty years for example. It would not be difficult to reenact statutes which had proved their worth in operation, and a rule could be adopted providing that a second enactment would assure such measures of a permanent place on the books unless specifically repealed.

When the legislatures take time off from their "orgy of lawmaking" and accept these suggestions they will make a great contribution to the cause of law observance

AMERICA LEADS IN TRADE.

Latin-American trade with the United States continues to grow despite the supposed antagonism to higher American tariffs and the efforts of European good-will missions to divert the trade. Imports from Latin America to this country have more than doubled since the prewar period, while the market in those countries for American goods has expanded more than threefold. During the years immediately preceding the war Great Britain furnished 28.3 per cent of all imports to South America, and the United States only 14.4 per cent. By 1927 the English share had shrunk to 19.7 per cent and the American had expanded to 30.8. It is now reported by the Department of Commerce that approximately 40 per cent of the total imports of Latin America come from the United States.

The United States has become the best customer of most of the Latin-American countries as well as their chief source of supply. No other nation can furnish such an excellent outlet for their raw products, nor is any other country in a position to furnish them with the manufactured articles now received from the States. It is not surprising that American exports to this region exceed in value those of England, France and Germany. The two continents of the Western Hemisphere have found it to their mutual advantage to trade with each other.

Trade between North and South America was stimulated by the opening of the Panama Canal, which gave American interests a special advantage in the markets of Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador and Chile. Aviation is now providing a new stimulus. But the development of commerce southward is not dependent upon greater facility of communication. Latin-American interests have found it profitable to trade with the United States and, since profit is the motivating force behind all commerce, there is little danger that European interests can make any inroads into American markets.

A statement by George J. Eder, of the Department of Commerce, dispels all fear of any serious change in our present trade relations with Latin America. Approximately 80 per cent of American goods imported to those countries, he points out, are mass-produced and have no foreign rival as to either price or quality. These include automobiles, trucks, electrical appliances, phonographs, agricultural machinery, &c. Only in a limited field, such as the manufacture of certain textiles, a few chemicals, fine instruments, cutlery, specialties and cheap hardware are European countries in a position to offer serious competition. Purchase of foreign goods is governed by the needs of private enterprises, and as long as the United States can supply those needs more efficiently than any other nation European trade missions to South America can have little influence in inter-American trade.

The American college of surgeons approves the corset. Is this propaganda?

Commander McMillan says the North Pole never can be located exactly, but Doc Cook, he has his own opinion.

Appointment of a city manager for Washington is suggested, but not a single senator is willing to relinquish his job.

Senator Heflin has forced through a resolution calling for an investigation of the peanut industry. Another attack upon the elephant!

The Department of Agriculture has found that the cost of feeding the average college student ranges from 40 to 45 cents per day. It is surprising how much nourishment they get from science and history.

DEPENDENT UNCLE SAM

From the Manitoba Free Press.

The common impression that the United States produces nearly everything that it requires and is very largely self-contained is disproven by a great number of exceptions, some of which are vitally important. What would that country do without rubber? It uses 80 per cent of the world supply and produces none. What would it do without nickel, of which it produces practically nothing? Nickel is indispensable in making certain kinds of steel, and the steel industry would suffer a staggering blow if nickel could not be imported. What would the United States do without tin, its production of which is scarcely worth recording? What would the United States breakfast table do without coffee? And how long would their newspapers be able to publish without newsprint paper, pulp and pulpwood from Canada? It is said that more pulpwood could be produced in the United States and that great supplies are obtainable from Alaska. But, at present, they are entirely dependent on Canada for a sufficient supply.

The dependence of the United States upon imports from other countries is convincingly shown in an article in the Magazine of Wall Street by Theodore M. Knappen. Even of foodstuffs, nearly a billion dollars' worth is imported annually, while raw materials and partly manufactured goods are brought in to the tune of $1,300,000,000. During the war it was found that there were 30 strategic materials that were not produced in the United States, or only in quantities insufficient for peace time requirements. These were antimony, camphor, chromium, coffee, cork, flaxseed, graphite, hemp, hides, iodine, jute, manganese, Manila fiber, mica, nickel, nux vomica, opium, platinum, potassium salts, quicksilver, quinine, rubber, shellac, silk, sodium nitrate, sugar, tin, tungsten, vanadium, wool.

Chromium is indispensable to the steel industry and to the industries making firearms, airplanes, motorcars, cutlery, springs, &c. Manganese is essential for the production of open-hearth steel. Nickel has a great many uses, hundreds of alloys being made from it. Tungsten is required for tool steel. The steel industry imports, altogether, no less than 40 commodities from 57 different countries.

More asbestos is used in the United States than in all the rest of the world, but the production in that country is entirely insignificant. There is a great shortage of potash, and the country is also dependent on the outside world for silk, jute, which is used very largely, and other commodities.

Besides being vitally dependent on the outside world for so many supplies, the United States requires outside markets not only for its cotton but also for many other surplus natural and industrial products. The coubtry could not live to itself: international trade on a large scale is absolutely essential to the welfare of its people. And this situation might well be kept in mind by those people in this country who think that Canada should be very largely self-contained and who point to the United States as an example.

THE WOMEN'S WOMAN.

Every woman knows her. Every married dame
Grants her all the virtues womanhood can claim.
Every woman loves her; holds her friendship dear.
Every woman trusts her, always she is here——
The strange, unmarried maiden doomed to single life
Every woman tells us would make a lovely wife.

Oft we hear about her. Always women know
One who should have married many years ago.
Uglier women marry; selfish maids and vain
Strangely seem to manage husbands to attain.
But the girls the women recommend for wives
Seem to be forever doomed to lonely lives.

If men knew of women what the women know,
Spinsters might have married many years ago.
And the wives who wonder why men pass them by
Might remain unmarried till the day they die.
But for some strange reason in this cosmic plan
The woman women fancy never suits a man.

If the Tree Is Stunted, It Doesn't Bear Fine Fruit.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN the development of the normal child is revealed the story of the human race.

The small boy and the primitive are alike in all particulars.

They have no aversion to dirt; they have no conception of values; they have no regard for truth; they have little understanding of honor; they are thoughtlessly cruel; they are wholly selfish.

And as the race had to learn the art of walking and through long ages of bitter experience learn the value of ethics, so each man child, alone of all young creatures, must by experiment and practice master the difficult business of walking erect, as each in turn must begin at the beginning to acquire a knowledge of honor.

The child does not steal. It takes, as guiltlessly as the primitive plucked wild fruit in a world that knew nothing of property rights.

The child, like the primitive, is all ego. It thinks only in terms of self. As it takes with a clear conscience, so it keeps without being aware of selfishness.

The selfishness of primitive men was cruel. It gave no thought to others. It tortured enemies and observed the suffering of friends without a qualm, for it had not learned to think in terms other than personal.

When the first man felt the first faint twinge of compassion tugging at his heart strings, the civilization that we know had its beginning.

Selfishness had lost some of its savagery.

Through many ages the race developed the capacity for compassion—the ability to feel a sympathetic interest in the other man's problems and sufferings—and when at last compassion had become a race virtue, common to all, mankind took the final step and passive sympathy became active.

Men began to do good. Unselfish service replaced self seeking. Civilization had flowered.

That is the story of the development of decency, and it is the story of every child's life.

It is the story of every child that develops normally. But some children, because of inherited faults and weaknesses, do not develop normally. At the age of 10 or 12 they stop growing.

Their sex characteristics remain childlike; their ability to comprehend ethics remains childlike; their selfishness remains childlike.

However keen the mind—however quickly it learns by rote—it remains wholly selfish.

Selfishness seldom is a deliberate fault. It is a deformity—an arrested development. It reveals man as he was when his hide was hairy.

"I," said Colonel Ayres,
"With my creeping bears
I'll make its shroud."

Who'll dig the grave?
"I," said the F. R. B.,
"With my brokers' loans, you see,
I'll dig the grave."

Who'll sing the dirge?
"I," said Durant,
"'Twill be quite a chant,
I'll sing the dirge."

Who'll toll the bell?
"I," said the Bull,
"For the long pull—I'll toll the bell."

Who'll carry the coffin?
"I," said the Small Fry,
("Is the carrying charge high?")
"I'll carry the coffin."

Who'll be chief mourner?
"I," said the Lamb,
"I always am—
"I'll be the chief mourner."

FISHHOOK LAWS.

Ohioans who would respect and obey the law even when they go fishing must count their hooks as well as choose their days accordingly, observes the Cleveland News. Attorney General Bettman has now issued some new rulings as to legal conduct among fishermen. Though perhaps a little late to enable citizens to avoid infractions of law in their 1929 angling, the decisions may still be of use in some of the season's prosecutions of anglers.

If you use a rod and line to catch fish in Ohio streams, you may legally attach one, two or three baited hooks to the line, but using four or more hooks on one line is unlawful, the attorney general says. If you use a lure or lures, you may attach three sets of three hooks each to each lure, but more sets or hooks would be illegal. The sort of lure Mr. Bettman appears to be talking about is not familiar to us, unless he means artificial minnows with gang hooks, but we do know our trot lines. A trot line, be it understood, is a long one, stretched across the river, for instance, with shorter lines tied to it and provided with hooks. Possibly lures and trot lines are somewhat identical in juridical parlance. Anyhow, the latest ruling as to trot lines is merely that they may be legally used in inland waters only by owners of the land adjacent, or by persons obtaining the consent of such owners.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Air Mail Deficit Causes Worry, But Short-Sighted Action Might Do Great Harm.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The air mail deficit is a cause of worry. President Hoover wants to put the air mail on a permanent basis, confining it to the more important routes. Postmaster General Brown recently let drop the suggestion that the air mail should be regarded as a special service for business men and that its promiscuous use should be discouraged. Senator Bratton has introduced a bill providing for Interstate Commerce Commission regulation of aircraft, one of the provisions of which would require the issuance of certificates of convenience and necessity, and several other bills having to do with air transportation or the air mail are in process of preparation. Air mail legislation will come in for considerable attention this winter and it is not unlikely that an attempt will be made to boost air mail rates.

It is estimated that the air mail deficit in 1929 will come to $5,000,000. This figure, of course, should be reduced if it is possible to do so without jeopardizing the prosperity or the future of the air mail. But for the $5,000,000 that the air mail will have cost the Government this year, and for the many millions that have been poured into its development during the last ten years, a rather handsome return has been obtained. Representative Kelly, an authority on the postal service, estimates that the commercial air industry in the United States now involves an investment of $1,000,000,000, represented by the expenditure of $500,000,000 for airports and $500,000,000 for equipment. The Postoffice Department is responsible for this investment. The commercial air industry represents the return the Government has obtained for the appropriations it has poured into the development of the air mail.

It would be a most serious error to withdraw Government support from the air mail. It would be equally unfortunate if any attempt were made at this early period in the development of commercial aeronautics to force the air mail to stand entirely unassisted. While the deficit should be reduced so far as possible, any action to this end should be considered carefully lest it should prove more expensive in the long run than the deficit itself.

Correction by Mr. Key-Smith of Reference to His Paper on "The Star-Spangled Banner."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your issue of the morning of October 16, there appears upon your editorial page, entitled "The Star-Spangled Banner," a republication of the account which the Baltimore Sun gave of the paper I read before the Maryland Historical Society on the night of the 14th. In this report of the Sun there is an error, they reporting as follows:

"Mr. Key-Smith said there are no records of the American ship Minden, but he considered it likely it was a Baltimore Harbor craft."

I did not make any such statement and have never so claimed. What I did say was that some Baltimoreans believed it was a harbor craft borrowed from the City of Baltimore for the purpose, which craft in those days were numbered and not named.

Federal Clerk High-Hatted by a Philippine Commissioner? Never!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am sending you herein copy of letter written in part to Mr. Pedro Guevara, Resident Commissioner of the Philippines, on two occasions. Has he answered these letters? Of course, not. I requested this information not officially as head of sections or divisions of the bureau but in the character of a Government clerk, and as such I am entitled, by courtesy, to receive a response to my question. Apart from this, since his principal object and duties here in America are to beg of Uncle Sam for their freedom, he should, at least be courteous enough to answer a question of no importance to a clerk of the United States Government. A Philippine commissioner "high hat" a Federal employe? Never!

Norris for Reelection?—Dry Republicans of Nebraska Said to Be Waiting for Their Chance at Him.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Norris is said to be impressed by the suggestions of friends that he should run for another term.

As a Republican dry of Nebraska, I assume that these friends of Mr. Norris are wet Democrats. His chief source of strength lies with them, since his repudiation of the prohibition cause and his desertion of the Republican party. Let him ask Al Smith to go out and campaign for him—one good turn deserves another.

Norris for senator on the Republican ticket? It is to laugh. What the Republicans and drys of Nebraska will do to him if he has the effrontery to ask for reelection is a plenty.

BIRDS AND GOLF.

An interesting proposal to further the preservation of bird life has been made by the National Society of Audubon Societies, says the New York Post. It suggests that golf courses be made into bird sanctuaries. If the idea at first seems somewhat fantastic, it can not help but gain adherents when it is discovered that among the names of a committee formed to encourage the movement are those of no less an authority on birds than Frank M. Chapman and of no less an authority on golf than Robert T. Jones. Certainly the golfers should be able to put up with the birds if the birds can put up with the golfers. But an eighteen-hole course, for all its wide expanse of green, is not an ideal home for any bird or animal. It is a little dangerous and a little confusing. Nevertheless, if those who know best the habits of birds think that they could enjoy fairways, bunkers, greens and water hazards we hope that the golf clubs will do what they can to attract them. Anything which helps to preserve bird life deserves wide support.

Envoys Hosts At World Law Group Dinner

Series of Social Events Held in Compliment to Visitors.

BY JEAN ELIOT.

DINNER parties were given last night in a half-dozen embassies and legations for foreign delegates to the Institut de Droit Internationale, which seems to be the official designation of what is more familiarly known here as the Institute of International Law. It will be remembered that this organization has been holding its sessions in this country for the first time in its history, the meetings at Briarcliff, N. Y., having recently closed, and the foreign group, representing a score of nations, is visiting in Washington as guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

With the Belgian delegates among their guests, the Ambassador of Belgium and Princess de Ligne gave a reception at the embassy last night for a brilliant company from official diplomatic and resident society and their guests from several of the diplomatic dinner parties came together later in the evening. Prince and Princess de Ligne and their charming daughters, Princess Elizabeth de Ligne and Princess Antoinette de Ligne, were assisted in dispensing hospitality by members of the embassy staff.

The Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila had a dinner at the embassy for a company of eighteen, among them the delegates to the Institue of Law from Chile and one or two other Latin-American nations. Their guests included the Ambassador of Cuba and Senora de Ferrara, Mr. Harry Guggenheim, United States Ambassador to Cuba, and Mrs. Guggenheim; Mrs. William A. Culbertson, wife of the United States Ambassador to Chile, and Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, former Chilean Ambassador to the United States, who is in town for a few days and is staying at the Mayflower. Others present were Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union; Senor Alejandro Alvarez, Senor Luis Anderson, Senorita Anderson, Senor Rodrigo Octavo, Senorita Octavo, the Peruvian Minister to Brazil and Senora de Maurtua, the First Secretary of the Embassy, Senor Oscar Blanco Viel; Miss Magdalena Petit, Mr. and Mrs. Suarez, Mr. Benjamin Cohen and the Secretary of Embassy, Senor Manuel Valdes.

Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone were the honor guests at the dinner given by the Minister of Finland, Mr. Astrom; Dr. Raphael Waldemar Erich, of Helsingfors, Finland, and Mme. Erich, at which there were seventeen guests. Dr. Erich is an associate member of the International Institute of Law. The Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter also entertained at dinner last evening, with the Swiss group which had attended the institute's sessions among their guests.

Among the guests were the Ambassadors of Italy, France, Belgium, Turkey and Japan, the Ministers of Switzerland, Finland, Austria, Bulgaria, Sweden, Persia, Canada, the Netherlands, the Irish Free State, Poland, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes and Siam, with many others from the diplomatic group.

Today the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, will give a luncheon for his compatriots among the visitors.

The governing board of the Pan-American Union, which includes the American Secretary of State and the ambassadors, ministers or charges d'affaires of all the Latin-American republics, gave a luncheon yesterday in the Hall of the Americas for the members of the institute and had a large and distinguished company of men to meet them. The guests were received by the entire governing board.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, was a guest and others in the distinguished company—to name but a few—were Representative Stephen G. Porter, Senor Cruchaga, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, Undersecretary of State; Mr. Wilbur J. Carr, Assistant Secretary of State; Mr. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State; Mr. George W. Wickersham, Dr. David Jayne Hill, the Rev. Dr Edmund A. Walsh, sr., Mr. John Barton Payne, Mr. Frank Brett Noyes, Mr. Lawrence Richey, Mr. French Strother, Dr. Vernon Kellogg Dr. J. C. Merriam and Dr. James Brown Scott.

MISS CAROLINE JOHNSON, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Alfred W. Johnson, whose engagement to Mr. Jasper Elwyn Brown, jr., has been announced. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Show Staged By Wakefield Capital Group

Washingtonia Exhibit Is Visited by Throng This Week.

Much interest is being manifested in the exhibition of Washingtoniana now being held in the Wakefield room of the Dulin & Martin Building to foster interest in the move to restore the birthplace of Washington, now under way. The exhibition is open daily and is being visited by scores who are interested in the project, of which Mrs. Harry Lee Rust is the moving spirit.

The exhibition itself is being held under the auspices of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Wakefield National Memorial Association and Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, regent of the local society, is being assisted daily by groups of women prominent in the social and club life of the city.

Important pieces in the collection, all of which is to be placed in the restored Wakefield Manor when the work is completed, are a quaint cradle used by sundry youthful Washingtonians, a corner chair and a tip-top table, both rescued from Wakefield when it was burned in 1780, as well as a great banquet table, with the candelabra used when guests were assembled about the hospitable board. A davenport of unique design and an old secretary of unusual beauty, both owned at one time by members of the Washington family, are also included.

When Army engineers traced the foundations of the Washington homestead several years ago, with a view to its restoration, workmen found in the ashes and charred debris the fragments of a beautiful salt-glaze platter and nearby the bones of a boar's head—mute relics of the Christmas celebration which had been in progress when the mansion was burned. The ware was from the famous potteries of Timothy Dwight in Staffordshire, a pattern which had found its way into the homes of the Georgian aristocracy on both sides of the water. Enough pieces were found to make it possible, after months of painstaking labor through the courtesy of the National Museum, to reconstruct the original pottery with fidelity to both dimensions and designs. And charming specimens of this new-old Washington-Wakefield china are being shown with the historic collection.

Hostesses at the exhibition yesterday were Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, president of the Women's City Club, and the following members of her organization: Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, Mrs. William L. Corbin, chairman of the Wakefield committee of the club; Mrs. Gladys Ball Middlemiss, Mrs. John Allen Munson, Mrs. Frederick Yates, Mrs. J. Edwin Reid, Mrs. Malcolm H. Laws, Miss V. S. Benjamin, Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, Miss Gertrude Temple and Miss Ethel Bagley. Those on the hostess list from the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday were Mrs. Edgar B. Merritt, Mrs. William J. La Varre, Mrs. Gertrude Bischoff, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Mrs. A. B. McManus, Mrs. Tamar F. Rorke, Mrs. Henry F. Sawtelle, Mrs. F. C. Brinley, Mrs. Elma R. Saul and Mrs. Robert J. Bates. Mrs. Virginia White Speed, of the general federation was also on the hostess list for yesterday.

Mrs. Benjamin Rush Logie, treasurer of the District of Columbia Wakefield committee; Mrs. Edwards Quin, president of the Club of Colonial Dames, and Mrs. E. A. Harriman, president of the League of Republican Women, will head groups of hostesses for today.

Junior League Art Exhibition Is Gala Event

Variety of Talent Shown by Members; Visitors Enthusiastic.

The opening of the Junior League's art exhibition yesterday was by way of being a gala event, league members and their friends dropping in to cast appraising eyes over the work of their friends—and to find it good. The variety of talent which has been discovered among Junior League girls heretofore better known for their dramatic ability than for their gifts with pencil and brush, is really astonishing.

Mrs. Duncan Phillips (Marjorie Acker Phillips), who is widely known as an artist of imagination and great technical ability, is represented at the show by a vivid portrait in oils. Others who have contributed oil paintings are Mrs. Dean Acheson and Mrs. Harry Lee Rust, jr., the latter chairman of the art interest committee of the Junior League, which has the exhibition in charge.

Mildred Anderson Rust is represented by a sketch for an over-mantel panel, very atmospheric and alive, and by a screen, done in engaging deep sea fishes, which is rather more suggestive of the decorative work in which she specializes. Alice Acheson's gifts seem to be enormously varied, for she not only has some charming oils on view but pastels, water colors and extremely interesting linoleum prints. Pastels and water colors are also being shown by Mrs. Raymond Fowlercrist, her sister; Mrs. Richard Hall Jeschke, Henrietta Hall Arthur, who has two charming exhibits, and Miss Lena Hitchcock.

Mary Devereux Crist's water colors are notable for their effective com-

Four New Patterns

interpreting

The New Silhouette

These were originally planned for late November release, but, in keeping with her fame for being the first to herald fashion, Vogue sends us four exponents of the moulded waistlines and lengthened skirts . . . four exponents that fashionable women will be proud to include in their Fall and Winter wardrobes.

Vogue Pattern Number 5074—a soft, sculptured effect . . . loveliest when developed in Skinner's satin crepe such as we are offering, in all fashionable shades, for $3.50 a yard.

Vogue Pattern Number 5073 notably elevates the waist and lengthens the skirt. Delightful when done in faille crepe. All the Fall and Winter colors and black are here at $2.50 a yard.

Vogue Pattern Number 5075. At its best when wrought of all-silk velvet. Brown, green, wine and dahlia shades and black are included in a group at $6 a yard.

Vogue Pattern Number 5081 falls gracefully into princesse lines if executed in lovely flat crepe. All dark and light shades and black—in 39-inch widths—at $1.95 a yard.

position. Miss Hitchcock is also showing an interesting collection of block printed Christmas cards. To the sculpture exhibit Mrs. Corrin Strong has contributed an engaging bas relief and there are charming statuettes and small heads by Mrs. Allan Kirk (Lydia Chapin) and Margaret Aspinwall Allan.

Colorful posters, striking in design and composition, are the most appealing feature of the exhibit of commercial art, among those contributing interesting work being Miss Helen Strauss, Miss Dorothy Littlehales and Miss Louisa Turpin. Screens, lamp shades and designs for book plates, orders for which may be placed through the Junior League, are also on view at the league clubrooms in Eye street. The exhibit will continue for a week.

The Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite, will go to New York today to attend the opening of the Irish Theater. He will return on Saturday. Mrs. MacWhite is out of town for several weeks.

The Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Don Juan B. Sacasa, will go to New York tomorrow to meet Senora de Sacasa and their daughter, who will arrive Sunday from Europe.

For the last meeting of the club Mrs. Edgay B. Kay was hostess. After an hour or two devoted to the consideration of the best short stories, Mrs. Kay entertained at luncheon at the Avignon.

Her guests returning to her apartment at 1840 Mintwood place to play bridge.

Of interest to many Washington friends and relatives, of both bride and bridegroom, is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Emma Louise Belcher to Dr. John Sargent Stearns, which took place on Monday at the home of the bride's brother and sister, the Rev. and Mrs. Harry B Belcher, Hempstead, Long Island. After a motor trip through the Adirondack Mountains, Dr. and Mrs. Stearns will motor to southern California, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred St. Cyr, jr., of Montreal, Canada, are stopping at the Ambassador while visiting in Washington.

U. S. Plans Postoffice Annex at Morgantown

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Elevation surveys have just been made by a Federal Government architect for an annex to the postoffice on Kirk street, work on which will be started as soon as plans and specifications are approved and let to contract.

The contract will call for razing of the old Sturgis home, which was taken over by the Government.

PANTAGES JUROR, ILL, IS DISMISSED

Actress, Accuser of Rich Showman, Contradicts Defense Evidence.

STATE OPENS REBUTTAL

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Eunice Pringle made a blanket denial of the principal contradicatory testimony of defense witnesses late today as she appeared a second time in the trial of Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, accused of a statutory offense against her.

Miss Pringle took the stand after the defense had rested its case following upon the completion of Pantages' testimony. Before the State began presentation of rebuttal evidence, one juror was excused because of "mental and physical exhaustion."

The juror was Harvey Connett, regarding whom the court said it had "other information" which it did not disclose. His place on the jury was taken by Mrs. William Ringles, one of the two alternates selected at the opening of the trial. Connett complained twice of illness and was examined by a physician before the court released him.

Defense Ends Suddenly.

The end of the defense case was marked with unusual suddenness following the completion of testimony from Pantages, who was on the stand for 15 minutes today after undergoing nearly a full day of questioning Tuesday. Although the defense rested, it reserved the right to call a witness for direct examination later who was not available at the moment. The witness' identity was not disclosed.

Up to the noon recess the State had produced testimony from two rebuttal witness which contradicted important points given by defense witnesses. Those called on rebuttal were Joseph Herd, son of Dr. C. H. Herd, an optician, with offices in the Pantages theater building, and Harold Jones, district attorney's deputy.

The young dancer's voice was firm as she offered rebuttal testimony.

Denied By Dancer.

Among the questions which brought out "no sirs" from her lips were these:

"Was Nick Duneav, author of your dance skit ever at your home 50 to 60 times?"

"Did you ever tell Nick Duneav that 'Mr. Pantages had better book my act or he'll be sorry?' "

"Did Mr. Pantages tell you at any time that your act was so vulgar and suggestive that he could not use it?"

"During the turmoil in Mr. Pantages private office, did you pull his neck tie and disarray his clothing?"

"And did he ask you what you wanted and you said 'you know what I want?' "

The defense excused Miss Pringle from the witness stand without asking a question.

CONSTITUTION HALL DEDICATED FOR D.A.R.

Mrs. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C. in her introduction of Bishop Freeman, Mrs. Hobart declared that "the Daughters of the American Revolution have erected this building, Constitution Hall, with a very deep feeling that we have a sacred trust, which has come down to us from our forefathers—that we must preserve these United States of America and its Constitution in whose honor it has been named."

That laws without ideals are inoperative the Bishop told the Daughters and he asserted that this age must learn before it is too late that "laws are valueless and inpotent saving only as there resides in those upon whom they are imposed, strong moral qualities and deep religious convictions."

Speaking further Bishop Freeman pointed out that the Constitution is the polar star by which the ship of state determines its course. He praised President Hoover for his recent declaration that "no problem that confronts us or that so threatens to halt us in our progress is comparable to that which has to do with disregard for the sovereignty of law."

"A challenging voice is heard today," continued the bishop, "declaring that a nation that is lawless can not endure." He attacked the "cheap patriotism" that is loyal to national ideals only in so far as that loyalty serves personal interests and the satisfaction of personal ambitions."

"The Daughters of the American Revolution represents in a large way the wholesome virtues of domestic and social life," continued the bishop. "It is related to wifehood and motherhood, it has to do with those homely and essential virtues that preserve to us clean thinking and clean living Yours is love of country expressed in terms that are practical and that have currency in the every day, commonplace experiences of life. What you and your sisters throughout the Republic determine and represent must affect for good or ill our destiny." Bishop Freeman urged his listeners not to abdicate their proud place as guardians of the fine things of the hearthstone.

The invocation was offered by Mrs. William Rock Painter, of Missouri, chaplain general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

After Bishop Freeman's consecration address, "Largo," from the New World Symphony, by Dvorak, was played on the new organ by Dorothy Jeane Silversteen, of the Waightstill Avery Chapter, of Brevard, N. C.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Joseph Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Resort Village Saved From Fire Destruction

Hoquian, Wash., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—A fire which early this morning was reported to be threatening the resort village of Pacific Beach, 35 miles west of here, was brought under control without serious damage a few hours later when a fire brigade of Hoquiam joined fire fighters there.

Only a few resort buildings of frame construction were damaged.

GIRL BARES EFFORTS IN BOGUS NOTE CASE

Tried to Halt Formation of Counterfeiting Ring, She Tells Jury.

HELPED PROTECT CATTS

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Miss Leah Burwell, the Government's chief witness against former Gov. Sidney J Catts of Florida, accused of aiding and abetting an alleged counterfeiting ring, recounted from the stand today her efforts to prevent her former employer, Julian Diaz, from organizing the ring, and to protect Catts from implication after she was arrested in an effort to pass some of the money.

The witness is a codefendant in the case, but Catts' trial is separate. Diaz, with whom Miss Burwell admitted she was intimate during her eight years' employment as his secretary, is already under sentence. He was brought here from the Federal prison at Atlanta as a Government witness. Miss Burwell wept under cross-examination regarding her association with Diaz, former Tampa attorney. She testified he exercised over her during that period an influence which she was unable to break. She said he paid no heed to her protests against the counterfeiting scheme.

The woman identified a statement given to secret service operatives after her arrest in in Miami, and said that while it implicated Diaz, it did not mention Catts because she wished to portect him. Later, she said, she threatened to name him, unless he furnished bond to free her from jail. She said she also sought to protect E. R. Dickenson, Diaz' former partner. Several days later, she testified, she told officers of Catts' alleged association with the ring.

Her threat to implicate Catts, Miss Burwell said, was made after she learned Diaz had told officers she was responsible for the counterfeiting and he knew nothing of it.

Eight other Government witnesses traced the history of a printing press bought by Diaz and alleged to have been used in making the spurious money. Four more told of meetings between Diaz, Catts and Miss Burwell.

BELGIUM WELCOMES HUMBERT OF ITALY

who is on intimate terms with the Italian royal family, probably will solemnize it.

Burgomaster Max, in a proclamation today, invited a general display of the national colors of the prince and princess. Thousands of women eager to see the hero prince who had captivated their princess, besieged the Italian Embassy today and did not wait in vain. The prince left the embassy twice, first for lunch at the Castle of Laeken, and then later in the afternoon to visit former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary, who has not left the capital yet to take up her new residence at Steenockerzeel Castle.

The former empress was deeply moved by the visit of the prince, congratulated him on his choice of a bride, and expressed wishes for their future happiness. She added: "I do hope that Providence will prove more indulgent toward you than it has toward me."

This visit by the Italian prince, showing his kindheartedness, immediately won for him the heart of Brussels, and the people cheered him enthusiastically o nevery occasion.

Subrosa Bank Account Laid toAimeeMcPherson

Los Angeles, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Investigation of an alleged secret bank account kept under an assumed name by Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, was begun here today by the district attorney's office at the request of Daniel Beecher, deputy prosecutor in charge of the grand jury, who is conducting an inquiry into the financial affairs of Angelus Temple, Mrs. McPherson's church. The inquiry was begun when Dr. John Goben, recently ousted from the assistant pastorate by Mrs. McPherson, complained that the evangelist had mismanaged the financial affairs of the temple.

Beecher said Mrs. McPherson would be called upon to offer an explanation before any grand jury action was taken.

ACTION ON DRY LAW BY BAR IS DELAYED

Committee Is Busy Getting Cards Signed at Meeting of Association.

AID PLEDGED TO HOOVER

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Prohibition, placed on the front doorstep of the American Bar Association by the wet wing of the organization, probably will remain there for another year, at least, under care of the Voluntary Committee of Lawyers, Inc.

Leaders of the committee said today the association was not yet ready to vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and the anti-Volstead organization, which led successful fights before the bars of New York City, Boston and Philadelphia, will do missionary work in the South and West before making a concerted campaign in the general association

Germany Saved by Courts.

The committee established headquarters here, and its members were getting expressions from the lawyers of the general association. Cards signifying disapproval of the amendment were being signed by members of the bar in large numbers, it was stated, and while prohibition is not on the records of the general association, it is on the tongues of a majority of the members.

How Germany, its palaces empty, its armies defeated, swayed between Bolshevism and a limited democracy in the dark night after the war and found strength in its judiciary was described tonight by Dr. Walter Simon, retired chief justice of the supreme court of Germany, former Prussian premier and minister of foreign affairs, and acting president of the German Republic until the election of President von Hindenburg.

The German courts, Dr. Simon explained, were able to suffer the travail of the revolution and survive because the Teutons—strangely enough—adopted a Gallic constitution and followed the principles of government advocated by Montesquieu.

The judiciary found itself without authority when the empire crumbled, he said, but the high courts saved the nation and the new government by cutting procedure with one militant stroke and holding that the de facto government had power to make laws, binding the administration and the judiciary.

Public to Be Protected.

Henry E. Newlin, president of the association, pledged the bar to protect the public against "unlawful enforcement of the law, to wipe out a serious blot upon the administration of justice and to restore constitutional rights of the people."

In his annual address today he sent a message to the White House with the cheering approval of the lawyers in the statement that the bar would back President Hoover in grappling with "the alarming disobedience of law, the abuses of law enforcement and the growth of organized crime."

He advocated universal compulsory jury service and termed the modern jury trial "a sorry exhibition of what is supposed to be the best practical mode of justice yet devised by man."

General Motors Plans Seaplanes

Zeppelin Company Formed for California-to-Hawaii Air Line.

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Formation of a General Motors subsidiary to build flying boats of the type of the Dornier Do-X and incorporation of a Zeppelin Transport Co. for service between California and Hawaii were announced today.

Alfred P. Stone, president of General Motors Corporation, witnessed the successful test flight of the German-made Dornier Do-X with 169 persons aboard over Lake Constance, Switzerland, Monday. The announcement said amphibians would be built in this country under Dornier design and patents in accordance with an agreement reached with the Dornier Aircraft Co., of Germany, several months ago. Dr. Maurice Dornier, designer of the flying boats, is expected to come to this country next month to assist in launching the new company.

The Pacific Zeppelin Transport Co., Ltd., has been organized by a group of New York banking interests, including Grayson M. P. Murphy, Lehrman Brothers and W. A. Harriman & Co., and the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, of Akron, Ohio.

Man Is Killed in Blast In Film Laboratory

Salt Lake City, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Shirley Y. Clawson was killed and his brother, Chester Clawson, was burned and cut in a series of explosions in their film laboratory in the basement of the Deseret News building here.

Firemen with oxygen equipment located Shirley Clawson's body and it was removed through a sidewalk skylight with ropes. The fumes filled the business office of the Deseret News, and penetrated to other parts of the building, but no one was overcome. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

WITH the opening of the RKO-Keith Theater, formerly B. F. Keith's at Fifteenth and G Streets, day after tomorrow, with Betty Compson in "Street Girl" the dialogue and music attraction, as announced here some three weeks ago—the feature only; our date was postponed a week—and the Little Theater on Ninth street continuing among those present and active, under new management, the season reaches its maximum in number of theaters in operation in the downtown area.

Every indication, so far, is that there is ample business for all to continue open and prosper. In some miraculous way audiences are always supplied in abundant measure for worthwhile entertainments, no matter what their number. In "Street Girl," the RKO-Keith house has a drawing card that easily comes within that designation.

"Street Girl" has been not only a hit, but a run picture in every city where it has been presented, to the best of my knowledge. I happen to have been in three cities where it has compiled extended runs of noteworthy duration. Perhaps the cast has something to do with it, as well as the substantial quality of the drama itself. The title, incidentally, may not mean what you think. However, supporting Miss Compson are Jack Oakie, Johnny Harron, Ned Sparks and Joseph Cawthorn, among numerous others of lesser note.

Before the topic is abandoned for the time being, it might be added that Corbin Sheild, long identified with local theatrical interests, will serve the RKO-Keith Theater as house manager as well as in the capacity of advertising and publicity director, as was suggested in this spot Tuesday.

Yes, Mr. Orowitz, New York representative of RKO, whispered the lowdown to us in advance.

The Earle Theater, which he was largely instrumental in founding, yesterday morning at 11 paid the tribute of one minute of silence to the memory of Aaron Brylawski, affectionately known to hosts as "Daddy B.," benefactor of the troubled and needy, comforter of the sorrowful and agent of happiness to those in health and prosperity, as his obsequies were being held at a distant point.

The Rialto Theater is arranging a special treat for the boys and girls of the Washington schools in connection with the premiere of "The Wagon Master," starring Ken Maynard. On Saturday from 11 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., pupils of the public schools will be admitted to the Rialto at the bargain price of 10 cents.

Arrangements have been perfected to care for a record number of youngsters on this occasion. Each juvenile patron will be presented with a souvenir of Ken Maynard, in addition to the reduced rate for an entertainment that is said to rank with "The Covered Wagon," among silent films, or "In Old Arizona," among the talkies.

According to Nellie Revell, greatest of the theater's press women, who honored Mr. Daly and me with another too-brief call yesterday afternoon, a representative group of ex-photoplay actors will be found in the cast of Anne Nichols' new play, "She Walked Home?" opening at Poli's Sunday. Among them are Ted W. Gibson, Stanley Price, Alford Van Ronkel, a youngster who was found singing bits in the talkies; George Offerman, jr., and Elsa Lee.

Miss Revell and I, by the way, spent so much time fanning about the old days at the Olympic Theater out in Chicago—when it was an ace Kohl and Castle house, she was its press agent and I a regular customer "up on the shelf"—that it should be chalked up amongst the miracles if this column beats the deadline and ever gets into print

Having hinted at a few of the incoming motion picture offerings for the week beginning Saturday, it might be well to set down the complete list, to wit: Clara Bow and James Hall in "The Saturday Night Kid," at the Earle; Clive Brook in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," Palace; Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Lila Lee in "Flight," at the Fox; Rialto, Ken Maynard, in "The Wagon Master;" Columbia, a second week of "The Trespasser," Gloria Swanson's first talking and singing vehicle; Metropolitan, Clive Brook, William Powell, Fay Wray and Richard Arlen, in "The Four Feathers," also for a second week; RKO-Keith's, Betty Compson and Jack Oakie, in "The Street Girl."

The Little's next booking is not yet available as we sneak past that deadline we were telling you about.

Clara Bow's advent to the Earle in "The Saturday Night Kid," by the way, is heralded as the inauguration of what the management terms "Big Picture Month." From my vantage point, it looks like precisely that. More of this later, meaning Saturday.

An eleventh-hour telegraphic news flash from New York last night brought the surprising intelligence that one of the most gigantic of the motion picture mergers, popularly supposed to have been "in the bag," has found that the best it could do, as Oliver Hardy puts it, was to "faw down and go plop!"

The wire: "The executive heads of Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation and of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., announced today that the negotiations between them looking toward a merger of the two corporations had been dropped."

Well, as the guy said, that's that!

Tip to Maj. Pratt: When you get through majoring in police, go out to Hollywood and be a film director—they don't have anything but "yes" men around them.

Mae Murray Sues Over Foot Injury

$250,000 Damages Sought by Actress From Fox Theater Concern.

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Mae Murray Mdivani, motion picture actress, today filed suit in supreme court for $250,000 damages against the Fox Theater Corporation and three other companies. She charged she injured her foot when she stepped on some stage properties in an elevator at the Fox Theater, in Brooklyn, on December 1, last, impairing her ability as a dancer.

The Flatbush Avenue and Nevins Street Corporation, Peter Clark, Inc., and the William Fox Circuit of Theaters are also named as defendants.

The actress, who is the wife of Prince Mdivani, broke a bone in her left foot, and now has to wear wider shoes and lower heels, she said. She is in California at present.

Teeth decay:
Pyorrhea gets its start
unless you act

Remove the FILM that breeds bacteria and turns white teeth dull and dingy
TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyorrhea usually results from germs and tartar. Virtually every commonly known disease of teeth and gums is caused by germ infection.
Germs are imprisoned in a dingy, glue-like coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in contact with the teeth and tissues. Germ-laden film covers every tiny crevice of the enamel.
Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. You must use the special formula called Pepsodent. Then what a change! You instantly notice the difference in the way it feels. Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

Booze Buyers Criminals Under Proposed Law

Treat buyer and seller equally rough seems to be the latest cry of fighters for prohibition enforcement, which not only brings out Wets and Drys into battle array again, but sets up scraps in both camps.

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, who fathered the Eighteenth Amendment in the Upper House, would put the word "purchase" into the amended National Prohibition I aw, in order to make the individual purchaser as guilty as the seller. He agrees with Bishop Cannon's pronounciamento that "the time has come to put the buyer and seller on exactly the same footing before the law—as equally hostile to the great purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment, the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors." The Bishop's views, however, are not wholly acceptable to other prominent Dry leaders as F. Scott MacBride, General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, Chairman of the National Committee of that Association, as is shown in special dispatches to "The Literary Digest."

President Henry H. Curran, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, contends that Senator Sheppard's bill would be unconstitutional "because it goes beyond the intended limits of the Eighteenth Amendment." The public at large will be greatly interested in the leading article in this week's Literary Digest (October 26 number) as it covers comprehensively this new phase of Prohibition enforcement which has stirred the press throughout the country to liveliest discussion.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and in children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

. . . are your prospects Coming to Market?

Only morning hours have Vita-Minutes

Advertisers talk, in the morning, to buyers who are thinking of coming to market.

The point to the advertiser, of course, is that morning readers are more apt to be same-day buyers. People naturally make buying-decisions in the morning anyway. Morning is the time when minds are rested, fresh, disposed to act on them. It isn't tired people, or people hurrying to social engagements, who seek information from ads.

The minutes of the morning hours are worth calling by a name of their own: Vita-Minutes. They are productive minutes, minutes out of whose decisions action is born. And there are few Vita-Minutes, for most of us, outside the early-morning hours.

The early-morning hours—that is exactly the time that The Post gets to people, to buyers. Early every morning it goes out, carrying a strong selling influence to the best buying power in the District of Columbia and vicinity.

Will you put your advertising before those buyers when they're coming to market, when they are more receptive to buying suggestions than at any other time of day?

Patent Lawyer Slain In Dispute With Two

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Aaron L. Applebaum, a patent attorney of 41 Park Row, was shot and killed in his office today during a dispute with two brothers, inventors of an appliance for bicycles to be used in long-distance racing. The brothers, Petro and Leonardo Danno, were arrested.

According to police the brothers were caught leaving Applebaum's office following a shot and offered considerable resistance before they were overpowered. Several shots were fired in the melee with police but no one apparently was hit.

Martinsburg Man Dies.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23 (Special).—Samuel J. Rhodes, a life-long resident of Martinsburg and prominently known in fraternal orders in this section, died Tuesday at his home here after a prolonged illness. He was 53 years of age and is survived by his widow, four children and a sister.

15 CAUSES OF STOCK MARKET RISE GIVEN

Dr. Irving Fisher Talks to Bankers Association on Present Situation.

RECENT FEAR EXPLAINED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Barring a panic in the stock market and a radical change in the present situation, Irving Fisher, professor of economics, Yale University, told the District Bankers Association last night, he did not expect much further recession but a "ragged" market until the first of the year and then a "bull" movement. Admitting he was not a prophet he is still optimistic after the latest collapse. He ascribed the rise of the stock market to fifteen causes ranging from increasing prosperity to speculative mania.

Speaking to the association at the Willard Hotel on the subject, "Is the Stock Market Too High?" the noted economist and financial writer reminded its members and their guests that during the three years of the long "bull" movement, every recession of the stock price level was hailed as the start of a major "bear" motion.

Instead, there has been a series of fluctuations up and down on the new level to the high point of last August, but sharp declines in September and this month again engendered the fear of a recession of price level to that of 1923, or earlier.

This fear, he said, arises from a belief that the stock market is inflated, but questioning this, he recalled that utilities, for example, have been selling at twenty-five and one-half times their earnings, and said it is asked why prices of their stocks are so "inflated" as compared with the larger yields of bonds in the same companies.

Fixity of Bonds Cited.

But it should not be forgotten, he explained, that bonds will not share in future great savings and economies, such as are reasonably expected from the recent mergers in the utilities field. Stocks will get all of these great earnings, for the bond return is fixed. Moreover, should the purchasing power of the dollar diminish, the real return of bonds, both principal and interest, that is, its power to purchase goods, would shrink, while the margin of its shrinkage would be transferred to the increased dividends on stocks.

Misapprehension Is Spread.

This factor of total earnings is the prime point to consider in any appraisal of the stock market this year, Dr. Fisher explained, putting emphasis on the fact that call yields were declining while stocks were ascending, involving a misapprehension as to the function of the stock market, which is to reflect the discounted value of future increased business, as clearly foreshadowed in the increasing rates at which earnings are "plowed back" into the industry.

Stocks, he asserted, can rise only because of one or more of four causes: A feeling of greater future earnings than hitherto expected; of more certain future earnings or less risk; because the rate for discounting expected earnings may be lowered and because earnings are "plowed back." A permanent boost of commodity prices and wealth by the war; a comparatively stable dollar, mergers, effecting great economies: Better management, the cooperative spirit of labor, inventions, scientific research and prohibition are reasons for future expected earnings, he recounted. Diversification of investments is an important factor in the expected reduction of risks.

Causes of Rise Recounted.

Summarizing, he concluded by saying that the stock market rose after the war above the prewar level by from 50 to 100 per cent, because of war inflation, and that since then it has doubled because of increasing prosperity from less unstable money, new mergers, new scientific management, the new labor policy of waste saving, new inventions, prohibition, the magnification of effects of all the preceding cause sto the extent that bonds and other senior securities do not share in the increased earnings, investors' new confidence in common stocks through diversification, through investment trusts, investment managers and mergers, the investors' recent loss of confidence in bonds, because, being in terms of dollars, they impose on the investor a risk of a loss in the purchasing power of the dollar, an income tax which has been perverted into a capital tax, and a public speculative mania, "flowing back" earnings and foreign buying.

Albert S. Gatley, executive vice president, Lincoln National Bank, who has served as treasurer for the Bankers Association 21 years, was presented with a gold badge of office by President Wilmer J. Waller, of the association.

Secretary C. H. Pope, chairman of this year's convention committee, reported on the annual meeting. Three hundred members and guests attended the meeting.

Bond Sales Increase Here.

Continued expansion in business of the bond division characterized yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange. Total volume of transactions advanced from $15,-

Rudy Vallee Croons Over Air Tonight

Marcella Shield to Aid Him and Orchestra in Return to WRC. Mary Alexander, Pianist, at 7:30.

After an absence of two months, during which time he has made his first feature motion picture, Rudy Vallee will return to the air with his orchestra and crooning rhythms as a regular feature of the Sunshine hour, to be heard over WRC and a National Broadcasting Co. network at 8 o'clock.

The crooner and his orchestra will be assisted in the program by Marcella Shields, who will present several brief skits which weave the musical numbers into a continuity suggesting a night club background. Graham McNamee, as master of ceremonies, will participate in the dramatic setting.

Among the musical selections to be offered are: "Just You—Just Me," "Pagan Love Song," "Lovable and Sweet," "Me Queres," "The Swan," "Peace of Mind," "Mary," "Perhaps," and "Love's Tales."

The Selberling program for 9 o'clock from WRC follows:

"Doan' Yo' Cry, Mah Honey," male quartet; Serenade from "Pearl Fishers" (Massenet), tenor solo, James Melton; "At Dawning" (Cadman), male quartet; "When the Bell in the Lighthouse Rings," bass solo, Wilfred Glenn; "The Swan" (Saint-Saens), singing violins; "Oh, Lovely Knight" (Ronald), tenor solo, James Melton, and "Singin' in the Rain," from "Hollywood Revue," male quartet.

"Chinatown, My Chinatown" and "When Summer Is Gone" will be sung by Oliver Smith, tenor, during the Jack Frost Melody Moments at 9:30 o'clock.

The musical background for the financial advice to be dispensed by the "Old Counsellor" in the Halsey, Stuart Hour will include "Gigolet," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "Somebody Loves Me," "All That I'm Asking Is Sympathy," selections from "The New Moon," and a dance from "Henry VIII" Suite. The orchestra is under the baton of Andy Sanella.

Mary Alexander, local pianist and former pupil of Cortot, will be heard in a half-hour recital at 7:30 o'clock from the studios of Station WRC.

Senator S. G. Bratton, of New Mexico, will discuss the "Public Lands Problems" from the studios of Station WMAL at 10:30 o'clock this evening.

Frederic William Wile, just returned from the Middle West, where he accompanied the Hoover party, will discuss "The Political Situation in Washington Tonight" at 8:15 o'clock.

Ben Alley, tenor, will sing "If We Should Never Meet Again" as a feature of the Tower-izers program at 8 o'clock from WMAL. "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" and "Japanese Sandman" are the old selections to be sung and played.

Howard Thurston, the magician, will appear before the microphone on WJSV at 7:30 o'clock this evening. His subject will be "The Confessions of a Magician."

Several new numbers will be played by the Nordica Mandolin and Guitar Club in the recital from WJSV at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss Martha Woods will be heard in a talk about the American Red Cross from the studios of WOL at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Jimmie and Ray in a group of popular songs, Elsie Varle Lang, mezzo-soprano, and Terry White, whistler, are scheduled for the early evening.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE following letter has been received:

New York City, Oct. 21.

"Dear Mr. Heinl—Such work as you are persistently doing toward the improving of standards for the radio is inestimable. Our Friday morning school concerts are assuming such gigantic proportions as to fairly appall me with the responsibility which it puts upon me.

"Very cordially yours,

"WALTER DAMROSCH."

• • • •

The last sentence of which is commended to the attention of Dr. Frank W. Ballou and the Washington School Board.

• • • •

APPARENTLY we may have the Radio Commission with us for sometime to come. At least that is the desire of Senator Dill and Representative White, though it seems there is apprehension that Senator Copeland may again put the skids under this troubled body.

• • • •

THE Weather Bureau is to be congratulated upon the improvement in their announcing, as heard Tuesday night, over Station NAA, Arlington, and the promptness in shutting off the carrier wave after completion of the weather report.

• • • •

THE Futurity race, one of the leading sports events of the country, will be broadcast by WBAL at Baltimore, Friday, November 1.

This will mark the first time that the Futurity, which is run at Pimlico, has been broadcast, according to Frederick R. Huber, director of the station. WBAL has secured exclusive rights to the feature and no other stations will carry it.

The race will begin about 2:45 o'clock. It carries a purse of $40,000, plus other odds for various winners.

• • • •

"BIG BUSINESS" will make its bow to the microphone Saturday night with Merle Thorpe as m. c.

The first speaker will be William Butterworth, of Moline, Ill., president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who probably manufactures more plows than any man in the world.

• • • •

ANOTHER big boy gets into the game with the boosting of the power of Station WBBM at Chicago to 25,000 watts. It broadcasts on a frequency of 770 kilocycles and may be found on the dial between Station WJZ, New York, and WGY, Schenectady.

Directed by Ralph and Les Atlass, two of the youngest broadcasters in the business, it is one of the outstanding independent stations of the country.

• • • •

SPEAKING voices over the radio so often sound affected, especially those of women. An example of this is the stilted family conversation in the Jack Frost program. The idea is good, but nobody in real life ever talked like those people do.

• • • •

WITH the present interference caused locally by the proximity of Station WABC, New York, to WENR, Chicago, the question arises as to what it will be when WABC goes to 50,000 watts as authorized by the Federal Radio Commission recently.

• • • •

IT develops that great plans had been made for improving Station WOL, had it become a member of the broadcasting chain originating on the West Coast and which was to have spanned the country. It is said the local station even went so far as to buy a $14,000 transmitter, but now it has it on its hands due to the fact that the new chain "died a-bornin'."

• • • •

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, who never overlooks an opportunity to advertise himself at somebody else's expense, when asked recently by an American radio director to state the sum for which he would write a drama for radio use, cabled a reply: "$4,000,000,000 might be sufficient, but that is not a contract."

What Today Means to You

September 6.

By MARY BLAKE

OCTOBER 24.

"SCORPIO."

IF October 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5:35 p. m.

A neutral period is indicated for this date spiritually, mentally, and physically. Opportunities will be met with indifference, and both pleasures and work will be negative in character. Things will remain at a standstill.

Children born on October 24 will be bubbling over with vitality and energy, and things will never lag when they are around. They will be domestic, true-hearted and loyal.

You possess few positive characteristics, but a great many likeable ones. You are a very easy person with whom to get along, and you are seldom the inharmonious chord in any assembly. You can not lead, but you are as a rule a very patient, intelligent follower. You can charm people into doing things, but you have too weak a will to control or lead the minds of others.

You are clever enough to go around your obstacles—you never try to push through them. You do not quarrel with life, but usually accept things as they come without attempting to change them. Diplomacy is your strong forte, and you possess all the tact which usually accompanies a kind and gracious heart.

If a woman, you are a clinging vine type, and there are many, especially those of the opposite sex, who are ready to be your aid and support. Your weakness attracts strength. You have a few pet notions to which you stubbornly cling, and you are immovable where they are concerned. If you are driven too far you become sulky and are deaf to reason. You are very susceptible to flattery, and you court golden opinions. You make the most of your charms.

Successful people born October 24: Sarah J. Hale, author of "Mary's Lamb," she made Thanksgiving a national celebration.

Noah Brooks, private secretary to President Lincoln.

Belva A. B. Lockwood, lawyer.

George W. Hough, astronomer.

William F. Apthorp, dramatic and musical critic.

King Alfonso Confined To Royal Palace by Cold

Seville, Spain, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—King Alfonso is confined to the royal palace here by a cold described as serious. He has been visiting the exposition here and participating in many functions. Replying to the questions of newspapermen regarding the king's cold, Premier Primo de Rivera said:

"The king only has a cold; it is nothing to worry about."

The king continued at his palace, where attaches later insisted that his condition was not serious.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

OCTOBER 24.

THE author of "Mary's Lamb," probably the most famous bit of verse in existence, was born this day, 1788.

But Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, the author, was noted for other work besides this stanza, which she published in a book of poems for children in 1830. For nearly 40 years she was editor of Godey's Lady's Book, which in its time was the principal magazine for women in America.

To her more than any one else can be credited the creation by President Lincoln of Thanksgiving Day as a national holiday. She carried on a crusade for this for 20 years through the columns of her magazine. Erection of Bunker Hill Monument was the result of another of her spirited crusades.

One of the most famous flower painters, an Englishwoman, Maranne North, was born this day, 1830. Miss North explored forests in all parts of the world in search of rare specimens. Students of botany owe much to her travels and to her skillful brush. Five botanical specimens are named in her honor. She presented her entire collection of paintings, together with a gallery, to Kew Botanical Gardens, where thousands of botanical students have studied them.

Marion Fairfax, wife of Tully Marshall and director and author of many moving pictures, was born this day, 1879.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Bright red lace dips harmoniously in cape and skirt in this evening gown. (Courtesy of the Maison Ardanse, Paris.)

ALTHOUGH the evening gowns shown in the Paris collection of Irene Dana are definitely long, daytime models are somewhat shorter than elsewhere. The length of the evening gowns is uncompromising, being gotten through simply dropping the hem and not through evasive trickery in the way of panels and points.

Daytime dresses are on straight, slim lines, with a belt at the normal waistline. Some of them blouse over this belt. Lingerie touches at the collar, as well as front and back bolero effects, are shown on many models.

The coats shown are also cut on rather straight lines and have enormous, deep fur collars.

The evening gowns show an amazing degree of variety and originality in the decolletages. A circular decolletage has a wide band at one side, which is tossed over the opposite shoulder; a back decolletage is in the shape of two large crescent-shaped cutouts, from shoulder to waist; a straight decolletage has the straps straight in front and crossed in back, like suspenders; other extreme decolletages are held in place with a point attached to a band going across the shoulders and similarly holding up the back—sometimes in the center, sometimes at one side.

Velvet, taffeta, tulle and chiffon are much used. The tulle gowns almost touch the floor but are made over a knee-length slip. Little detachable capes are seen on many of the evening gowns. Evening coats are in velvet and rich lames. One especially attractive model is made along definitely Japanese lines.

Wouldn't it be fun to wake up some morning and find you are a real milliner? That you could achieve the chic lines and artfulness of an Agnes? You can! And it's so easy to do with our help! If you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post you will receive this week's illustrated leaflet, which has such simple directions you'll be making a hat to harmonize with each gown you wear. And how little it costs you.

• • • •

Bright red lace—delightful draping—in a cape effect, which harmonizes charmingly with the back-dripping skirtline—and the touch of Ardanse. She has a way of doing what might otherwise be uninteresting . . . interestingly—if you see what I mean. 'N if you don't just look at the lovely gown illustrated for you today.

The Christmas Box.

A smock, yes? So practical and helpful to a lovely lady in her tasks about the house. It's a perfect Christmas gift, and you can make it. Or—possibly you're one of those delightful persons who just have an aversion to "practical Christmas gifts" and you'd so much rather give something "pretty." I have it! You can still give her a smock! Dress it up with an applique of flowers, or the lady's initial on the collar. Or a jagged, modernistic looking pocket that looks as though you blindfolded yourself and tossed it at the smock—and it stayed there clinging helplessly to the hip. Oh, there are so many attractive touches you can give to it!

The weekly Dare fashion letter appears in the Capital exclusively in The Washington Post each Sunday. Are you reading it?

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

THE SAVINGS ACCOUNT.

HOW would you answer "Alicia?" Never have I asked advice of a newspaper, but now I'm engaged and so afraid to risk the loss of love and happiness in marriage, so I would like to ask what you think is the thing that changes lovers after they marry, and what if anything two lovers can do to avoid the usual sordid bickerings that seem a part of marriage. We have nothing saved to marry on, just love and our jobs.

Well, love and a couple of jobs is what most lovers start out with these days, and after watching this well-known combination for several years, we would add as a vital accessory, a bank account! You can not walk into a store and make a purchase unless you have the price. You can not start in business unless you have the price. You can not step into a restaurant and buy a meal, unless you have the price. There is, in fact, only one thing a human being attempts to get without the price, and that is a wife. By the thousands every year people boldly attempt marriage who haven't one cent to finance the experiment. Then when clothes are needed, or a job is lost, or a baby joins the party, pandemonium reigns. Each blames the other for their mutual embarrassment and aided and abetted by friends and relatives on both sides, the two arrive at a state where each believes the other really is solely to blame. What chance has love? Love is only a condition at best. And any condition is subject to change without notice. So love changes from ecstasy to panic. The more ecstasy the more panic. For it is a noticeable fact the people who make the greatest ado about love, are the ones who are the most given to panic. They are just plain flighty, and whether it was marriage or running a butcher shop they would be equally unequal to meeting an emergency.

There actually are happy marriages! These are among the intelligent of the population. The people who have known that they would some day want to marry, and who have planned accordingly. And who, having met what seemed the "ideal mate," began definitely to plan a future together, instead of being overcome by a mere present together.

The man who proposes to marry without having saved for that step should be regarded by the girl concerned as either a dreamer or a defective. And as neither meets emergency effectively, he should be promptly discounted as a prospect for such an undertaking as marriage.

But truth to tell, it is not the man who rushes boldly in where angels would have sense enough to bide their time. No, sir. It is the girl who says, "Don't let's wait; let's get married and I'll keep on working." And that's just the damn who one year later is telling the world how she wishes she had never been born, and how she works all day and then starts another day of housework, and how selfish the man is because he won't wash the dishes, and how spotted all her dresses are from broiling steaks for hurried dinners, and all the rest of the wretched song that is the dirge of what never was love.

Love can wait. Love can plan. Love can look into the future. Love can summon reason. Love is not just emotion in action and careening all over the place. Love is emotion and reason combined. Love has a bank account provided by reason. Emotion has nothing but itself.

So to insure love, add reason, and the price.

Liquid Which Freezes Mercury.

THE other day I spoke of the intense heat made in electric furnaces—sometimes 14,000 degrees above zero, or even more. Today I shall take you on a journey toward the other end of the thermometer.

A hammer made from mercury frozen with liquid air.

The coldest weather I have ever met was 40 degrees below zero. That is cold enough, but it is by no means as cold as may be. There are parts of the North Frigid and South Frigid zones where it is often more than 70 degrees below zero.

Men of science can make air colder than Nature ever makes it in the farthest days of winter. Thirty-four years ago a Swedish chemist named Linde made air so cold that it turned into liquid.

To obtain liquid air, Linde first put great pressure upon common air. The compressed air was then run through pipes cooled in cold water. It was allowed to expand and was then compressed—again and again. The final result was liquid air which was about 200 degrees below zero.

Since the days of Linde, many other scientists have made liquid air. It has a pale blue color. When poured out on a common plate it will bubble and sputter—we may even say that it "boils," though it is so cold that it would freeze a potato very quickly.

Mercury is so hard to freeze that it is used in most thermometers. But place mercury into liquid air and it will turn into solid form. Mercury has been frozen in this way into the shape of a hammer, and has been used for driving nails.

If a hollow rubber ball is dropped into a bowl of liquid air, the ball freezes and becomes brittle. Toss the ball on the floor and it will not bounce—instead it will shatter as if it were made of glass.

Amusing tricks have been performed with meat and liquid air. A piece of beefsteak was placed in the cold liquid and frozen. When struck lightly with a hammer the sound was like a gong. When struck a strong blow with the hammer the beefsteak broke into pieces.

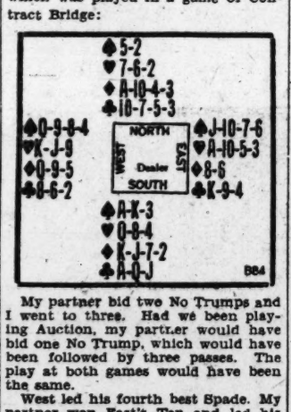
WORK ON BRIDGE

PARTNERS WHO HAVE SADDENED MY LIFE.

I sat North in the following hand, which was played in a game of Contract Bridge:



My partner bid two No Trumps and I went to three. Had we been playing Auction, my partner would have bid one No Trump, which would have been followed by three passes. The play at both games would have been the same.

West led his fourth best Spade. My partner won East's Ten and led his Deuce of Diamonds. He played my Ace and led a Club, finessing the Jack. He next led his King of Diamonds, hoping to drop the adverse Queen. When he failed he led his Jack of Diamonds, and West's Queen won. West then led a small Spade (he could mark East with the Jack) and my partner foolishly ducked East's Jack. East then led a small Heart and the adversaries took four Heart tricks, one Spade and one Diamond. If my partner had won the second round of Spades, led his last Diamond and then another Club from dummy, he would have made two Spades, three Diamonds and three Clubs—one more trick, but not game.

Why did I repine?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When my partner won the first trick he could see that he could not expect to win a Heart; so to get game he must take seven minor tricks. To do this he must finesse.

The diamonds can be finessed either way; the Clubs only one way, and if the Club finesse succeed, it will have to be repeated (two Club leads from dummy).

As the adversaries had not bid, he had no indication which way to finesse the Diamonds; so he should finesse to give dummy the needed entries if the finesse succeed. He should have played as follows:

To trick 2, lead the King of Diamonds. To trick 3 the Seven of Diamonds and, when West plays the Nine, dummy should finesse the Ten. When that finesse won, he should have led a Club from dummy, finessing in the closed hand; and when he was lucky enough to win his second finesse he should have led the Jack of Diamonds (not the Deuce) from the closed hand, winning with dummy's Ace. This should have been followed by a second Club from dummy and a second Club finesse. Then the Ace of Clubs dropping East's King; then the Deuce of Diamonds, dummy winning with the Four, after which dummy would cash the thirteenth Club—a total of ten tricks.

$3,000,000,000 LOST WHEN STOCKS CRASH

Most Hair-Raising Drop in Recent History Comes in Last Hour.

MANY ARE WIPED OUT

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The stock market suffered the swiftest and most hair-raising drop in recent financial history today, a sweeping decline far more drastic than anything yet experienced in this modern era of speculation, and astonishingly enough, practically all of it took place in the short space of a single hour.

Scores of leading shares tumbled $8 to $30 a share during the wildest and most panicky conditions experienced in years. More than $3,000,000,000 in paper values disappeared in the brief interval between 2 and 3 o'clock. To say that this drop was the most disastrous in stock market history, however, would be a fanciful exaggeration.

In view of the high margin requirements, and the extraordinary rise in share prices since May, Wall street does not consider that irreparable damage has been done. Bankers point out that there has been an unprecedented rise in share prices, and that new records in reactions were to have been expected.

Thousands Wiped Out.

That enormous losses have been suffered, however, can not be gainsaid. A senior partner in one of the largest commission houses intimated that thousands of smaller traders had been wiped out, but added that undoubtedly much of the stock sold today was actually sold at a profit, having been purchased at lower levels months ago.

The Standard Statistics Co.-Associated Press price indices, which take average prices as of 1926 as 100, suffered the sharpest drop since they have been compiled, the index of 50 industrials dropping 13.8 points, to 311.9, the lowest level since June 12; the index of 20 utilities, 20.7 points, to 265.5, the lowest since June 26, and that of 20 rails, 4.3 to 148.2, the lowest since July 3. The day's losses, as indicated by these indices and others dating back many years, were the most precipitate ever experienced in a single day.

The market held fairly steady during the early hours of the session, many shares actually recording substantial gains for a short time, and trading dragged along at a quiet pace. A sharp bear drive against automotive parts and equipment and radio issues in the early afternoon, however, completely unsettled confidence and a cyclone of selling developed in the last hour.

Many Rush to Get Out.

The mild rally from Monday's low levels was not very reassuring, and when prices once more began to give way, traders rushed to get out of the market for what their shares would bring. Also, stop loss orders were uncovered in enormous volume.

There was nothing in the day's industrial and business news to account for the severe drop, and Wall street generally regarded it as due to an acute case of nerves. Steel production was reported to have picked up a little, Iron Age stating that "the view is gaining ground that production has struck bottom." Statistics on total building contracts for the first half of the month displayed a moderate increase, and several favorable earnings statements and dividend actions appeared. Call money again dropped to 5 per cent and time money and banker's acceptances were easier. The freight car loadings figures for the latest week were disappointing however, showing a slight decline from the previous week and again a substantial drop from the like week of 1928.

An extreme but rather insignificant loss of 96 points was recorded in Adams Express old, an erratic issue.

Other Issues Down.

Commercial Solvents old, dropped 70, J. I. Case 46, Columbian Carbon 35, Western Union 33, Simmons 30, and Westinghouse Electric 25. Losses of 8 to 18 points were suffered by such stocks as American Telephone, Atchison, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Eastman Kodak, National Biscuit, New York Central, Radio, Stone & Webster, United Aircraft, and Standard Gas. More than 100 issues reached new lows for the year, or since traded on this market.

Commodity prices also tumbled sharply, in sympathy with the drop in stocks, and influenced by Bearish crop and weather reports. Wheat futures lost about 4 cents and corn 2½ cents a bushel, while cotton futures lost about $2 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were less buoyant, but Sterling Cables reached another new high for more than a year at $4.87 13-16.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—The cotton market lost the greater part of yesterday's advances during today's trading under a renewal of Southern selling and profit-taking. December contracts sold off to 18.12, making a net decline of 38 points, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 7 to 48 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points under scattered selling order from the South and in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Weather Bureau report of the cotton commercial and the state of the weather seemed to attract very little attention, and the failure of yesterday's bullish features to stimulate a further broadening of demand, was evidently disappointment to holders of cotton.

Further showing net losses of about 19 points to 20 points the market rallied several points on trade buying and covering while there appeared to be a little buying on the part of cotton for account of spot houses in the South and the New York Cotton Exchange. The day's detailed weather reports. This bulge stemmed renewal of Southern selling and liquidation, however, and the lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading when the market seemed to be influenced by weakness in grains and stocks.

December sold off to 17.87 and March to 18.54 and closing prices were the lowest of the day. October was relatively weak during the entire day under liquidation.

The action of the market was regarded by some of the local traders as indicating that the technical position had eased on the previous day, while the frost reported in the South evidently made very little impression on sentiment.

Temperatures of 32 degrees or slightly below were shown at four stations in the Houston district and at three stations in the Memphis district.

Two more private reports on ginnings were published, one of them estimating the outturn to October 18 at 8,757,000 bales while the other placed it at 8,920,000 bales. The average of the three private reports so far published points to 8,825,000 bales.

Liverpool cables said buying there had been curtailed by realizing and hedging. Exports today 45,623, making 1,738,125 so far this season. Port receipts today 82,252. U. S. port stocks, 2,089,501.

NATION-WIDE COLLEGE SPORTS SUBSIDIES REVEALED

Colored Star Idle Against Georgia

Myers, N. Y. U. Ace, Benched at Request of Dixie Eleven.

Had No Intention of Using Player, Says Coach Meehan.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Chick Meehan, head football coach of New York University, tonight settled the question of whether Dave Myers, Negro back field star, would be in the line-up for New York University against the University of Georgia at the Yankee Stadium, November 9. Meehan's statement said:

"There will be no unpleasantness in the Georgia game, as we did not intend to play Myers when the game was scheduled and he is not going to play in the Georgia game."

The statement followed one by Prof. Giles Courtney, chairman of the N. Y. U. board of athletic control, which put the matter in the hands of the head coach.

Whether Myers would be in the line-up when the University of Georgia crashes with the Violets at the Yankee Stadium November 9 was still an open question tonight before Meehan's statement.

Georgia, speaking through Dr. S. V. Sanford, announced that a "gentlemen's agreement" had been drawn up between the officials of the two universities barring Myers from participating against the Southern team. Sanford's statement followed that of Prof. Giles Courtney, in which the chairman of the New York University board of athletic control said, that to the extent of his knowledge, no such agreement had been reached and that Myers would not be benched for the Georgia gridiron fray.

Colored Association Protests Report.

Unofficial reports that the University of Georgia had requested New York University to keep Myers out of the line-up brought an official protest from Walter White, acting secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. At the same time, Prof. Courtney, chairman of the N. Y. U. board of athletic control, hastened to deny that Georgia had requested the benching of Myers, one of the most potent of N. Y. U. players.

"N. Y. U. will not bench David Myers for the Georgia game," said Prof. Courtney, "Georgia has not asked N. Y. U. to bench Myers nor is there any agreement to that effect."

White, in his letter of protest to Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor of the local university, said the reports had come to his attention and that he hoped "New York University would not bow to the attempt to foist race hatred upon an institution and a sport, where it has no place."

Myers, a guard, has recently been shifted to quarter back and starred at that position against Penn State on Saturday.

Amicably Adjusted, Says Georgia U. Dean.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the University of Georgia, said today that a "gentlemen's agreement" had been reached with athletic officials of New York University that Dave Myers, Negro quarter back of the Eastern eleven, would not be played against the Georgia Team at New York November 9.

Dr. Sanford referred to a statement in New York today by Prof. Giles Courtney, chairman of the New York University board of Athletic control, who said that Myers would not be benched for the Georgia game.

"The matter has been amicably adjusted," said Dr. Sanford, "and we anticipate no unpleasantness whatsoever. We sent a representative East to discuss with Coach 'Chick' Meehan and had no trouble reaching a satisfactory agreement."

PENNANTS DRILL TONIGHT.

The Petworth Pennants will settle an important matter that demands the presence of the whole team tonight at their practice at 7:30 o'clock on the Iowa Playgrounds. The Pennants will play its old rivals, the National Press Club Cardinals, Sunday on Field No. 2 of the Tidal Basin at 3 o'clock.

DODSON LOST TO OLD LINE ELEVEN

Out for Season With Injured Leg, Says Physician.

ANOTHER blow has been struck at the University of Maryland Football Team just about the time Coach Curley Byrd felt that he was on a fair road to solve the back field problem that has kept the Old Liners from functioning, as well as usual so far this season.

Charlie Dodson, erstwhile end, who was shifted to the back field and who made good with a vengeance in his new position, has been told by his physician not to play any more football. Dodson suffered an injured leg in an early season lacrosse game last spring and was out for the remainder of the year. It is the leg that was injured then that has gone back on him, and, as he is a senior, has ended his collegiate gridiron career. Whether or not he will be able to play lacrosse next spring is not yet known.

Dodson Proved Ability In Last 2 Games.

Dodson, who played end on the Varsity Eleven for two full seasons and the first couple games during the present campaign, appeared in the Old Line back field against South Carolina and Gallaudet in Maryland's last two contests and proved his ability as a ball toter beyond question. His speed, much needed in the back field, and other assets had given Byrd hopes of rounding out a capable quartet that would enable the Old Liners to finish the season in good fashion.

Who will take Dodson's place is a big question, though Paul Cronin, a sturdy and fast sophomore, filled the post yesterday.

Junior Gate Crashers "Jailed" by Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Junior gate crashers, who in the past have had little trouble witnessing the Harvard football games after perilous scaling expeditions or by entering the field under the greatcoats of elderly gentlemen, from now on will be faced by informal incarceration for the duration of the game.

Under the new steel stands Harvard has built a pen, surrounded by a high wire fence. Into this pen were herded all young gentlemen caught without tickets before and during the Army game, with a policeman to see that they stayed there until the final whistle had sounded.

The pen, though well ventilated, provides no view of the field. The new "jail" is expected greatly to lighten the work of Harvard ticket takers, who in the past have been faced with the need of ejecting the same persistent trespassers, not once, but again and again.

$20,000 Unredeemed Goes to Cubs, Macks

Chicago, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Failure of baseball fans to return their tickets for the sixth world series game probably will net the Cubs and Athletics $20,000 more than they had anticipated.

The total value of the pastboards for the game that never was played was $212,000. Approximately $140,000 has been turned back, but the refund will soon close and those in charge estimate the clubs will be $20,000 to the good because of tickets not turned in.

Frederick Dog Winner In Capital Field Trials

Centerville, Va., Oct. 23.—Despite weather conditions not of the best, a large crowd turned out for the second day's competition of the National Capital Field Trials Association's fall trials over the Fairfax County course here today. The all-age derby, the feature, was won by Pohick Comanche R., owned by the Rev. Father J. F. Coolahan, of Frederick, Md. Second place fell to Rock Manor Bob, owned by Dr. W. E. Harris, of Wilmington, Del., while Allan W. Valentine's Valentine's Forest Prince, a Richmond entry, took third place.

The entries follow:

HUDAK KEEPS POSITION ON G. U. TEAM

Player Shows Return to Form; Leary at Quarter Back.

IN the revamping taking place in the Georgetown backfield this week, John Hudak, veteran of two year's regular service, is holding onto a place. It had been thought that he might be crowded out by the newcomers, Buddy Bordeau and Johnny Bozek, whom Head Coach Lou Little promoted from the reserves in order that the ball-carrying quartet could gain interfering power.

Hudak yesterday flashed his best form of the current campaign and was the outstanding performer of the long practice which was halted only by darkness. He made interference in approved fashion, ran the ball for big gains, and three passes with deadly accuracy.

If Hudak continues to display that sort of game, Georgetown's backfield should be far stronger in future battles. The fact that he is nursing an injured back, however, forms the only question mark concerning his ability.

Bordeau and Bozek Show Form.

Bordeau and Johnny Bozek also performed brilliantly yesterday in the scrimmage with the freshmen. Behind a fast charging forward wall, which included "Mush" Dubofsky, 205-pound sophomore guard, Bordeau and Bozek reeled off many a yard before the activities closed.

Little sent Ed Leary to the quarterback post at the start of the scrimmage and the Naugatuck (Conn.) junior looked good as long as he lasted, but midway in the proceedings he turned his ankle and had to retire in favor of Joe Gardner, who called the signals in the last two games.

Georgetown scouts have warned Little that Lebanon Valley is not the soft opponent which the Hilltop machine trampled a year ago by 52 to 0. The Pennsylvania eleven defeated Franklin and Marshall, the club that tossed a real scare into University of Pennsylvania, and forced Penn State to travel at top speed to win a 13-0 decision.

The Hilltop scouts also have reported that New York University which is scheduled November 2 in New York City, has improved greatly since losing to Fordham Saturday before last.

One-Horse Races Mark Program at Latonia

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Racing today was held under adverse conditions, with much rain and a muddy track, but the winners in most of the events did their jobs thoroughly and left no doubt as to their victories. Katy McCook started the procession in the first when she came down to win by eight lengths; Peggy Lee didn't do so well, but managed to get the decision with a length and a half to spare in the second. Then in the third McCulloch, making his first start since June, romped out and came home twelve lengths in front of his field. Purple Sand continued the parade in the fourth, with six lengths of daylight showing, and Alvin Ranshaw had the same margin in the fifth.

Alvin Ranshaw's victory brought with it added honors, as it carried the distinction of being the Coldstream Farm Purse, feature attraction of the program. C. W. Reidinger's 2-year-old colt was master of the race at all times and gradually improved his advantage to win with ease. Audley Farms' Blue Ash was in close attendance throughout, but he was doing his best at the end to stave off Chatter Black's challenge, which came with a rush to finish third.

Business High Routed by Western

Draper's Plunging Is Big Factor in 40-0 Victory in Debut.

Stenogs' Ruse Gains 50 Yards on Old Pass Play.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

WHEN Coach Dan Ahern of Western High School decided to make a back field man out of Jimmy Draper, erstwhile guard, it was a wise move. All that young man did yesterday was to score four touchdowns for the Red and White team, which, together with two made by Ray Millard, a full back, were sufficient reasons for Western's overwhelming defeat of Business, 40 to 0, yesterday in the Central Stadium in the opening inter-high game for each school.

Not until two weeks ago was Draper shifted to the ball-carrying crew and Ahern probably was wondering to himself yesterday what detained that all-important move for so long. Reeling off at least five yards every time he carried the ball, it was more frequently that the recently uncovered back went through the light and sleve-like Stenog line for about 10 yards or more. And in the last quarter when 20 points were scored by the winners, Draper appeared to be staging nothing short of a track meet, so many times was he scampering through the orange-clad formations.

Game Arranged at Short Notice.

The game, which was only arranged shortly after noon yesterday, came as the result of granting Coach Woodworth of Business his request to play the game as soon as possible after Tuesday's postponement before Western could gain the use of several capable players now ineligible. Although the game was bad enough for Business as it was, it would be much sadder to think what it might have been had the contest been delayed until after the time when Western could have summoned all of its players into action.

However, Millard, too, looked good in the victorious backfield, and exhibited several runs through broken fields that stamped him as a man to be watched in the series.

Notwithstanding the fact that these men were the outstanding stars of the day, there was another player on the losing side who deserves a great deal of praise for his unflinching fight against inevitable odds. Ernie Johnson, diminutive stenog half back, played a hard and smashing game, and when he climaxed his day's performance with a 65-yard run, after intercepting Draper's pass in the third quarter, to run to the Western 15-yard line, he was given a rousing applause which showed that the some 2,000 in the stands realized the gallant stand that the lad was making.

Although the laurels of the day belong to the winning team, the Business eleven pulled an old trick which worked to perfection against their opponents and was easily the most spectacular and at the same time amusing incident of the game.

Duryee Gains 50-Yards On Clever Ruse.

When Bill Duryee made his way slowly to the south side of the field after a Business substitute had entered the game, everyone, including the Western Team took it for granted that Duryee was leaving the game. That is, everyone except the Business Team. On the next play, however, Duryee showed the stands and the Western Team that he was very much in the game when to the surprise of all, he took a 20-yard pass from a teammate and ran 30 yards before being downed by the somewhat dazed Western secondary defense. The player for whom the substitution had been made, had already left the field by quietly slipping off the other side unnoticed by anyone save his teammates.

The Western Team started scoring early in the game and with the exception of the third quarter, scored in every period. Its greatest number of points was compiled in the final stanza, when a powerful attack swept a fast-tiring, helpless team off its feet while rolling up three touchdowns. The Western attack confined itself to the ground, not bothering to use the aerial route but few times throughout the game. It was just a case of Draper and Millard crashing their way through wide gaps in a line unable to stand up against the vicious battering which it received from beginning to end.

However, the Western line looked none too strong at times and on several occasions the men of Woodworth broke through the first line of defense for timely gains. But whenever the Red and White goal line was threatened, Capt. Quincy Owens and his men braced with a ruggedness which was entirely insoluble to the efforts of the Business Team.

CARNEGIE REPORT FLAYS FEES AND COMMERCIALISM, CITING DOMINATION BY GRID COACHES

'Shopping' Around by Schoolboys Noted in the Report.

N. Y. U., Wisconsin Outstanding Cases of Flagiancy.

so widespread that the mercenary athlete seldom waits for solicitation. In common parlance, he starts 'shopping.'

"For purposes of 'shopping around' one schoolboy (Evanston, Ill.) with an enterprise worthy of a more honorable cause, had an especially favorable press notice mimeographed from a local paper with some of its comments underscored.

"Almost identical letters of another high school athlete (New York City), who was hawking his services, were encountered at no fewer than five institutions.

"A third football prospect, much solicited, furnished our inquiry with 58 answers to his own tenders, with the comment that he had been shopping and 'this is the result.'"

"Soliciting apart from subsidies," the bulletin points out, "appears to be less strenuous in the Southwest and, with one or two exceptions, in New England, than it is in the other Eastern and Middle Atlantic States.

"In the Rocky Mountain Conference, the practice, although not yet general, is spreading. In the Midwest and South, and on the Pacific Coast, soliciting and bidding for athletes are keen.

Files Kept on Prospective Athletes.

"At some institutions the amount and nature of correspondence demand that a member of the athletic staff or a coach, out of season, shall attend to the letters of prospective athletes, and in some cases the files contain literally hundreds of letters to or about promising schoolboy athletes scattered over a very wide area (Brown, Dartmouth, Montana State College, New York University, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin).

At California, N. Y. U., and Pennsylvania, as well as at some smaller institutions, it is remarked, the football coach "is likely to care for such correspondence himself."

"If all who receive and answer athletes' letters showed in their replies the high-minded disapproval of these tenders that they exhibit in conversation and in speeches, the tone of such 'feelers' from high school athletes before long would change. Evidence to this effect is found at Bates, Bowdoin, Brigham Young, Chicago, Cornell, Lehigh, Stanford, Tulane and Virginia."

Taking up the employment of athletes by the athletic department, the bulletin remarks: "If a regular weekly or monthly wage is paid, the force may be unnecessarily large (New York University, Oklahoma).

32 Athletes Maintain N. Y. U. Field.

"In extreme case, 32 athletes and prospective athletes were employed to maintain a small playing field and do odd jobs (New York University).

"Some 17 athletes at the University of Wisconsin, where athletes are most extensively employed in this capacity, appeared on the regular pay rolls of the athletic department as trainers and rubbers with an average monthly wage of $33.67. With all due allowance for large squads and an intensive rubbing system the number is generous."

Referring to "those forms of aid which are frankly and unequivocally termed athletic scholarships," the report says: "The amounts and the numbers of such awards available and the bases of the award at the time of each field visit varied considerably (Blue Ridge, 12; Colgate, 35; Geneva, 35; Georgetown, unspecified; Gettysburg, 30; Fordham, 40; Lebanon Valley, 16; Muhlenberg, unspecified; Pennsylvania State College, 75; Syracuse, $14,000; West Virginia Wesleyan, 20; Ursinus, 16).

"The benefit is rarely paid in cash. Values of athletic scholarships range from part or full tuition at the lower end of the scale (Colgate) to allotments graduated in amount according to the number of teams for which the recipient is selected (Blue Ridge)."

Coaches and Managers Select Recipients.

In some cases, it is observed, "coaches (Lebanon Valley) or a graduate manager (Syracuse) have chosen the recipients of athletic scholarships.

"The practice of 'oaring for' a more or less definite number of athletes, ranging from 25 to 50 (Bucknell, Gettysburg, Muhlenberg, Oglethorpe, Pennsylvania State, Pittsburgh, West Virginia Wesleyan), is a somewhat less formal matter than the award of athletic scholarships. Its excuse is the competitive bids of rivals, and its limit usually is 'all college expenses.'

"Sometimes (Boston College, Holy Cross, Notre Dame) no definite promises are made; the athlete is merely assured that he will be 'cared for.'

"Although the probable success of a candidate at athletics is usually a prerequisite to such arrangements, a further obligation of some sort is occasionally imposed—the performing of odd tasks about the campus, or recruiting. Indeed, an athlete successful at recruiting may even be valued at his full college expenses without any other requirement than attendance at the university (Oglethorpe). Recommendations and appointments to subsidies are made by persons intimately acquainted with the institution's athletic affairs—coaches, graduate managers, athletic directors, the president's assistant (Gettysburg), or the president himself (Oglethorpe).

Alumni and Friends May Supply Money.

"Funds for subsidizing may come from alumni or friends of the college, from the athletic association or organization, or from the institution (Allegheny, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Centre, Dickinson, Grove City, Lafayette, Lebanon Valley, Northwestern, University of Pennsylvania, Western Maryland).

"At some preparatory schools, these subsidy expenses have been charged to advertising (Bellefonte, Kiskiminetas) with a frank appreciation of their appropriateness of the procedure.

"The amounts available in slush funds vary (Carnegie Tech, $13,000; Centre, $600; Grove City, $8,000; Lafayette, $3,000) with the interest of contributors, but the number of beneficiaries varies less with the size of each fund than with the cost of living at the institutions (Carnegie Tech, 32; Centre, 11; Dickinson, 12; Grove City, 35; Lafayette, 12; Lebanon Valley, 16; Northwestern, 16; Western Maryland, 6).

"In an extreme case of subsidizing alumni and business men made contributions ranging from $10 to nearly $1,000 annually to a fund aggregating from $25,000 to $50,000 a year. From this the college expenses of all football players were paid and additional sums, termed "pay checks," were disbursed to leading performers (Washington and Jefferson). Later the practice was modified to provide only tuitions, board, room and fees, without cash payments. The essentials of the practice may be the same, even though the fund be small (Franklin and Marshall).

Tapering Off on More Extensive Operations.

"In at least three instances the practices at the time of the field visits were explained as a tapering off of more extensive operations (Centre, Lafayette, Northwestern).

"As a variation of this practice, on a basis of estimated monthly expenses at an institution, an athlete may be

Sportsmanship Held Only Ornamental to Alumni Who Recruit and Subsidize; Gate Receipts Supplant Rivalry and Friendship as Reason for East-West Games; Rowing Alone Held Free From Commercialism.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—These are highlights in the Carnegie Foundation's report on American college athletics: "The fundamental causes of the defects of American college athletics are two: Commercialism, and a negligent attitude toward the educational opportunity for which the college exists. Commercialism has added to the amusement of the alumni, but it has corrupted the moral fiber of not a few of them through its temptations to recruit and subsidize."

28 OF 112 COLLEGES CLEARED OF SUBSIDIES

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—At only 28 out of 112 North American colleges and universities studied by the Carnegie Foundation, was no evidence found that athletes were subsidized by any group or individual, says its report made public today. Seven of the 28 are Canadian institutions. The complete list:

Bates (Maine).	Queens (Can.).
Bowdoin (Maine).	Reed (Oregon).
Carleton (Minn.).	Rochester (N. Y.).
Chicago.	Sas'chewan (Can.).
Cornell.	Toronto (Can.).
Dalhousie (Can.).	Trinity (Conn.).
Emory (Ga.).	Tufts (Mass.).
Illinois.	Tulane (La.).
Laval (Can.).	U. S. Mil. Academy.
McGill (Can.).	Virginia, U.
Marquette (Wis.).	Wesleyan (Conn.).
Mass. Aggies.	Williams (Mass.).
Mass. Tech.	Wooster (Ohio).
Ottawa (Can.).	Yale.

The other 84 colleges visited, the 112 institutions having been selected from the country's total of 800 on a basis of geographical distribution, follow:

Amherst, Boston College, Brown, Dartmouth, Harvard, Holy Cross, Middlebury, Vermont, Springfield.

Allegheny, Bucknell, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Colgate, Columbia, Dickinson, Fordham, Franklin and Marshall, Geneva, Gettysburg, Grove City, Hobart, University of Pennsylvania, Lafayette, Lebanon Valley, Lehigh, Muhlenberg, New York University, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse, Ursinus, Washington and Jefferson.

Blue Ridge, Georgia, Georgia School of Technology, Georgetown, University of North Carolina, Oglethorpe, West Virginia, West Virginia Wesleyan, Western Maryland.

Beloit, Michigan, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Oberlin, Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Purdue, Wisconsin, Coe, Des Moines, Drake, Haskell, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota.

Alabama, Centre, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Baylor, Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, University of Texas, Arizona, Brigham Young, Colorado, Denver, Idaho, Montana State, Utah, Wyoming.

California, Oregon State, Southern California, Stanford, University of Washington, Washington State, Hamilton, Susquehanna.

"We talk much of sportsmanship, fair play, the moral values inherent in games, but we act as if we believed that an ornamental gateway to these ends must be provided before the ends themselves can be served. The notion is that the first essential to the execution of any athletic policy is money, and plenty of it."

"Aside from the hurried imitative adoption of a few catch-words like 'athletics for all' or 'every student a player' and a very high regard for material equipment, the shaping of a comprehensive administrative policy for athletics has very generally been neglected. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Oberlin, Reed College, the United States Military Academy, the United States Naval Academy and the University of Toronto may be taken as examples in which the administration of athletics has been bent to serve first the interests of the undergraduate and the educational program as a whole."

Rowing Is Free From Commercialism.

"Rowing appears to be the only major branch of intercollegiate athletics from which commercialism is absent."

"Some institutions are prodigal with free passes to games (California, Southern California, Wisconsin); one (Alabama) paid the expenses of newspaper men who accompanied its football team across the continent."

"At one institute that did not cooperate in the enquiry (Oglethorpe), matters of (player) eligibility are handled by a baseball coach who works also as a registrar. At New York University the faculty member charged with the checking of eligibility was guided by the advice of the head football coach and the graduate manager. In a very few instances eligibility is determined by a body upon which alumni have majority representation (Allegheny, Dartmouth). It is never entirely in the hands of undergraduates."

Coaches Must Win at 33 of 83 Colleges.

"Concerning the annual sums lavished upon coaching and training at numerous institutions, selected figures for such expeditures at eight Universities (Harvard, Iowa, Ohio State, New York University, Pennsylvania, University of Washington, Wisconsin, Yale) have run as high as $84,500 for all branches and $41,800 for 'varsity and freshman football. In the group the lowest figure for football coaching alone is $12,000; for all branches, $35,400."

"The most practical argument against football scouting is the large expense it involves. At the Dominion universities (McGill, Queen's, Toronto), scouting is considered unsportsmanlike."

"At 83 different institutions the question was asked: 'Is the tenure of the coach dependent here upon his producing winning teams?' of the replies, those at 33 institutions were affirmative and 46 were negative, while conflicting opinions were expressed at four."

East-West Games Held Only For Gate Receipts.

"During the past few years, contests between two Eastern institutions and between three universities in the Far West have been held not for reasons of friendship—which have long since disappeared—but for the sake of financial return from gate receipts and guarantees."

"Far from invariably leading to friendly rivalry, clean and manly contests, and pleasant regard, as its proponents never tire of insisting,

BRIGUEIL, PAYING $84, WINS STEEPLECHASE STAKE

French Horse Jolts Talent At Laurel

Beats Beelzebub by 10 Lengths as Widener Pair Fails.

Bewithus Scores 3d Straight Victory in Fourth Race.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 23.—Briguell, the French steeplechaser that races for the New York sportsman, C. R. Fleischman, showed his quality in the running of Governor Ogle Steeplechase at Laurel this afternoon when he met and defeated one of the best fields of jumpers that have gone to the post in Maryland this fall. Briguell, who paid an $84.50 mutuel, was ridden by J. Tanmaro, came from behind the last turn of the field to win in easy fashion at the end, where he led Edward R. Bradley's Beelzebub by ten lengths. Six lengths farther away, finished W. F. Hitt's Crumpler and then came Huffy.

There were nine starters and the Widener entry, Arc Light and McCarthy More, were the public choices. Neither of the pair cut any figure in the running. Arc Light being a trailer the entire journey. Red Rocket II, fencing in faultless fashion and showing a keen turn of speed, drew away into a long lead the first turn of the field, but the last time around he tired badly and finally lost his rider at the fourteenth jump.

Beelzebub Always a Contender.

Beelzebub, who was never farther back than second at any stage of the trip, went to the front when Red Rocket II stopped and at the twelfth fence he had a lead of two lengths over Briguell, who had come from behind and was moving up full of courage.

At the thirteenth jump Briguell had caught and passed Beelzebub and, going to the next fence, drew away into a lead of six lengths. For the remainder of the trip it was just a question of Briguell standing up. Red Spruce pulled up lame. The stake had a gross value of $12,450 and the winner's portion was $8,775.

Between the running of the races, several of the Washington Handicap candidates were out and given strong gallops. Display went a mile and a quarter in 2:16 and Distraction was sent one mile as follows: 0:24; 48 3-5; 1:14 3-5; 1:41 3-5.

Chlo Boy Draws Away At Finish of Fourth.

Chlo Boy was an easy winner in the fourth. Making all of his own pace and rated under slight restraint to the top of the home stretch, Chlo Boy drew away the last quarter, and as they passed the judges he had a lead of six lengths over the Seagram Stable's Sun Craig. Cymbal was third, beaten four lengths for the place, and then followed Culloden, another five lengths back. The winner held command of the situation at all stages of the trip, and when Sun Craig was unable to get to him, the first half mile, his chances were hopeless.

The E. R. Bradley racer, Bewithus, came back with another good effort when he galloped home to an easy victory in the running of the fifth race. This was a dash of one mile and a sixteenth, and Bewithus went to the post an odds-on favorite. When the break came, Legere was off in front and for most of the journey Bewithus raced well in hand. At the finish he beat Bramabiau out a length. Had Legere desired, the margin could have been greater. Shepherdess was third, four lengths away, and a head in front of Snelboc. This was Bewithus' third straight victory and his second at Laurel.

Jovial Friar Wins First in Run-Away Fashion.

The twelve programmed in the first race went to the post. This was a dash of 6 furlongs for maiden 2-year-olds, under claiming conditions. The winner turned up in Jovial Friar, carrying the colors of the Virginia breeder-sportsman, K. N. Gilpin, and ridden by W. Stamper. Jovial Prier scored in a run-a-way fashion. Breaking with the leaders and taking command soon after the start, Jovial Friar held sway under pressure the first half mile, where he raced Kwen Lun into submission. Entering the home stretch he drew away to lead by a length at the furlong pole, and for the remainder of the trip held command of the situation.

At the end he won by a length and a half from Brother Johnson, who beat Brave Knight out a nose in a driving finish. Benda, the favorite, was fourth, another nose away. It was a mighty tight fit between these three. All were under punishment from the top of the stretch, and at the end Brave Knight was going the strongest.

Morsun Romps Home In the Sixth.

Morsun was an easy winner in the second race when he galloped home with a lead of four lengths over Croyden. Rea was third, beaten a like distance for the place. Laucona delayed the start for six minutes by refusing to line up with her field. She was finally taken to the outside, and when the start came Son of John was quickest of the lot to get away.

In the run down the back stretch Fator sent Morsun up with a rush, and at the half-mile pole opened up a lead of two lengths. He increased his advance to five lengths rounding the far turn and for the remainder of the journey Morsun raced in hand. Croyden, after breaking none too fast, worked his way up on the inside to close a big gap. When he pulled up, Croyden was a lame horse. Good Shepherd, after racing prominently in the early stages, tired badly the last quarter.

Bosky was an easy winner in the sixth race. Quattlebaum rode in a confident manner. In the early stages he rated Bosky off the pace, and after passing the half-mile pole went to the front to open up a lead of five lengths rounding the far turn. In the stretch run Bosky appeared to be only galloping and at the finish he beat Nicodemus six lengths. A length farther back finished Slickaway, and then came the tiring Lafter.—Sweet Genevieve had a rough trip under a poor ride. At the half-mile pole she was sharply cut off and went to her knees. This ruined whatever chance she may have had.

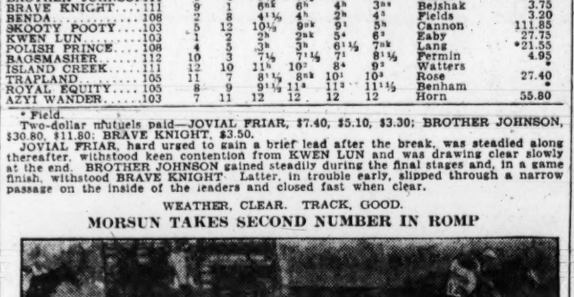
Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOVIAL FRIAR, $7.40, $5.10, $3.30; BROTHER JOHNSON, $30.80, $11.80; BRAVE KNIGHT, $3.50.

JOVIAL FRIAR, hard urged to gain a brief lead after the break, was steadied along thereafter, withstood keen contention from KWEN LUN and was drawing clear slowly at the end. BROTHER JOHNSON gained steadily during the final stages and, in a game finish, withstood BRAVE KNIGHT. Latter, in trouble early, slipped through a narrow passage on the inside of the leaders and closed fast when clear.

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, GOOD.

MORSUN TAKES SECOND NUMBER IN ROMP



SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:16. Off at 2:22. Winner, W. C. Smith's ch. c. (3), by Morvich—Sun Carla. Trained by C. L. Carroll. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5.

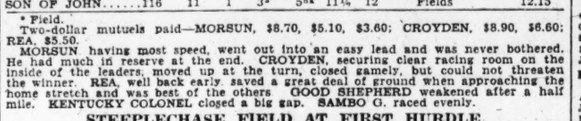
* Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MORSUN, $8.70, $5.10, $3.60; CROYDEN, $8.90, $6.60; REA, $5.50.

MORSUN having most speed, went out into an easy lead and was never bothered. He had much in reserve at the end. CROYDEN, securing clear racing room on the inside of the leaders, moved up at the turn, closed gamely, but could not threaten the winner. REA, well back early, saved a great deal of ground when approaching the home stretch and was best of the others. GOOD SHEPHERD weakened after a half mile. KENTUCKY COLONEL closed a big gap. SAMBO G raced evenly.

STEEPLECHASE FIELD AT FIRST HURDLE



THIRD RACE—About two and one-half miles. Purse, $10,000 added. The Governor Ogle Steeplechase Handicap. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:48. Winner, C. R. Fleishmann's ch. h. (4), by Harry of Hereford—Bernache. Trained by J. Edwards. Value to winner, $8,775; second, $2,000; third, $1,000; fourth, $500. Time, 5:04 (16 jumps).

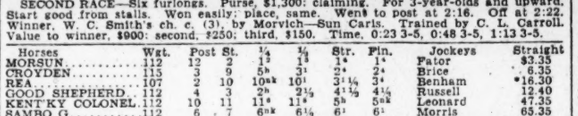
† J. E. Widener entry. ‡ Sanford Stud entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRIGUEIL, $84.50, $29.80, $11.20; BEELZEBUB, $21.70, $10.30; CRUMPLER $5.80.

BRIGUEIL, allowed to remain well back of the pace for the first mile and one-half, went to the leaders rapidly when fencing stoutly, displaced BEELZEBUB after the fourteenth fence and drew out at will thereafter. BEELZEBUB, a forward factor all the way, landed badly at several fences, recovered quickly, but was much too much use of and he was not good enough after taking command. CRUMPLER was taken far back off the leaders after landing over the first fence. He flattened out when called on. HUFFY was never a factor. EIDER had no mishaps.

CHLO BOY FINISHING ALONE IN FOURTH



FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Accokeek. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:21. Off at 3:22. Winner, Ioma Stable's ch c. (2), by Dunboyne—Chloe D. Trained by J. W. Healy. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:13.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight

ALERT	104	6	6	6h	6h	6h	6h	Beishak	11.25
CANANITE	104	3	6	7	7	7	7	Benham		80.35

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHLO BOY, $13.30, $5.20, $4.00; SUN CRAIG, $3.10, $2.70; CYMBAL, $4.90.

CHLO BOY, showing keen speed, assumed command at once, stalled off opposition from SUN CRAIG and won as he pleased. SUN CRAIG made his effort rounding the turn, but tired the last furlong. CYMBAL saved ground all the way and was easily best of the others. CULLODEN showed poor form. SCARED O' NOTHIN was outrun.

BEWITHUS WINNING THIRD STRAIGHT IN FIFTH

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. The Choptank. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:51. Winner, E. R. Bradley's blk. h. (5), by Black Toney—Doreid. Trained by H. J. Thompson. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:24, 0:49 1-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:42, 1:48 4-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight
BEWITHUS	111	1	2	1½	1h	1h	1h	1½	Legere	$0.35

SNELBOC	103	3	1	2nk	2h	2h	4	4	Rose	11.35

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEWITHUS, $2.70, $2.30, out; BRAMABIAU, $3.70, out; SHEPHERDESS, out.

BEWITHUS outran his field to the first turn, was taken in hand, under restraint all during the running and had much in reserve at the finish. BRAMABIAU, trailing off the pace, secured racing room on the inside when making his run and closed with good courage. SHEPHERDESS, on the outside all the way, was unable to threaten at any stage. SNELBOC had no excuses.

BOSKY MAKES SHOW OF FIELD IN SIXTH

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:23. Winner, Thomas Calcina's b. c. (3), by High Noon—Mercadel. Trained by R. Boyle. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:15, 1:41 3-5, 1:48 3-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight

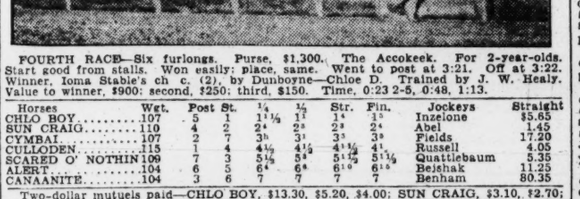
BLACKBERRY	100	4	7	8	8	8	8	8	Quillen	52.40

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOSKY, $3 60, $3.20, $2.50; NICODEMUS, $5.90, $3.40; SLICKAWAY, $3.00.

BOSKY, rated in close attendance of LAFTER, disposed of the latter to draw into a long lead and increased his advantage without effort during the closing stages. NICODEMUS, slow to get going, finished gamely but was unable to menace the winner. SLICKAWAY, in trouble at the first turn, went to the outside, closed gamely, but was not good enough. LAFTAR went well until challenged and tired.

INTREPID DRAWS AWAY AT FINISH OF FINAL



SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:58. Winner, S. N. Friedel's ch. g. (8), by Whisk Broom II—Manzanit. Trained by B. E. Chapman. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:25, 0:49 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 3-5, 2:07 2-5.

Horses	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys	Straight

MARION MAY	100	1	5	2½	5h	6h	7	7	Cannon	54.25

Two-dollar mutuels paid—INTREPID, $4.60, $3.50, $2.80; SELECT, $14.70, $6 80; FIRE CHIEF, $4.00.

INTREPID, bumped soon after the break when ESTELLE MARIE crossed over on the field, went into command at the first turn, was rated along hereafter and came away smartly when shaken up approaching the finish. SELECT, reserved in near attendance of the leaders, made a bold effort at the far turn, saved ground at the end. FIRE CHIEF, far back early, closed courageously in the final issue.

Reading the past performances from left to right they show the date of the race, track, distance, time of race, condition of track, weight carried, mutuel or closing price, start, position in the field at the three-quarters pole, distance back of the pacemaker at the top of the stretch and then at the finish, jockey, number of entrants and the order of finish with weights carried. If an entrant is a fair mud runner an × preceeds his name; if a good mud runner a ✻, and if a superior mudder, an ⊛.

FIRST RACE Purse, $1,300; for two-year-old maiden fillies; six furlongs:

Date. Crs. Dis. Time. Tr. Wgt. Odds. St. ¼ ½ Str. Fin. Jockey St'ters. Order of finish with weights.

4 FAVORITES BOW IN WOMEN'S MIDATLANTIC GOLF

Mrs. Haynes Beaten on 18th Hole

Ex-District Champion Loses Close Match to Effie Bowes.

Mrs. Nicolson, Mrs. Hodges and Mrs. Cameron Win.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MISS EFFIE BOWES, Rodgers Forge, paired against Mrs. J. M. Hodges, Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, will play in the semi-final round this morning in the women's Middle Atlantic golf championship on the Columbia Course in the upper bracket, while in the lower half Mrs. H. T. Nicolson, Washington Golf and Country Club and District amateur champion, will have as her opponent Mrs. L. O. Cameron, Chevy Chase.

The second round in the tournament yesterday marked the slaughter of more than one prospective Middle Atlantic champion. In fact, the defeat of four favorites gave the day a tragic aspect. Mrs. J. M. Haynes, runner-up in the event last year, and with an almost unbroken series of victories this year, was beaten by Miss Bowes. Mrs. E. B. Morrow, Baltimore Country Club, twice winner of the Middle Atlantic championship, was defeated by Mrs. Hodges. Miss Virginia Holzderber, Baltimore Country Club, who won the title last year, was eliminated by Mrs. Nicolson, and Mrs. B. P. Meckley, Beaver Dam, champion of the Mohawk Country Club, yielded to Mrs. Cameron on the eighteenth green.

First Flight Matches Closely Contested.

All of the matches in the championship flight were closely contested. Mrs. Haynes, 1 down at the turn and still 1 down on the fifteenth tee, evened the match when she ran down a put from the far edge of the green to win the fifteenth hole. Then she won the sixteenth in a par 3, leaving her 1 up and 2 to play. The seventeenth hole was her Waterloo. She drove to the flat, but her second shot, played to the elevated green, failed to reach the top of the hill, and the ball ran back to the fairway. Her third shot met with the same untoward fate. Then, determined to surmount the hill, she played too strongly, and her ball went into the railroad track out of bounds. Her next stroke, played in hopeless fashion, went beyond the green, and she finally picked up with a complimentary 8. Her opponent won the hole in 5.

Match is Squared Again.

With the match again all square, Mrs. Haynes had a drive straight up the fairway, but her second was in a trap, her third was over the green, and with her fourth on the green she holed out in two putts for a 6. Her opponent won the hole by being on the green in 3 and running down two putts.

Mrs. Morrow battled bravely against Mrs. Hodges but lost on the nineteenth hole when she missed her second shot. There were several other extended contests, Miss Mary Wolf, Rodgers Forge, defeating Mrs. W. Barham Jones, former Virginia champion, on the twentieth hole. In the defeated eight of the second sixteen Miss Elizabeth Heuisler, Rolling Road, defeated Mrs. J. William Harvey, jr., Indian Spring, on the nineteenth hole, and in matches which also went to an extra hole Miss Bertha Israel, Town and Country, defeated Mrs. Jerome Sloman, Suburban, and Mrs. J. T. Carolina State Loses Silver, Veteran End

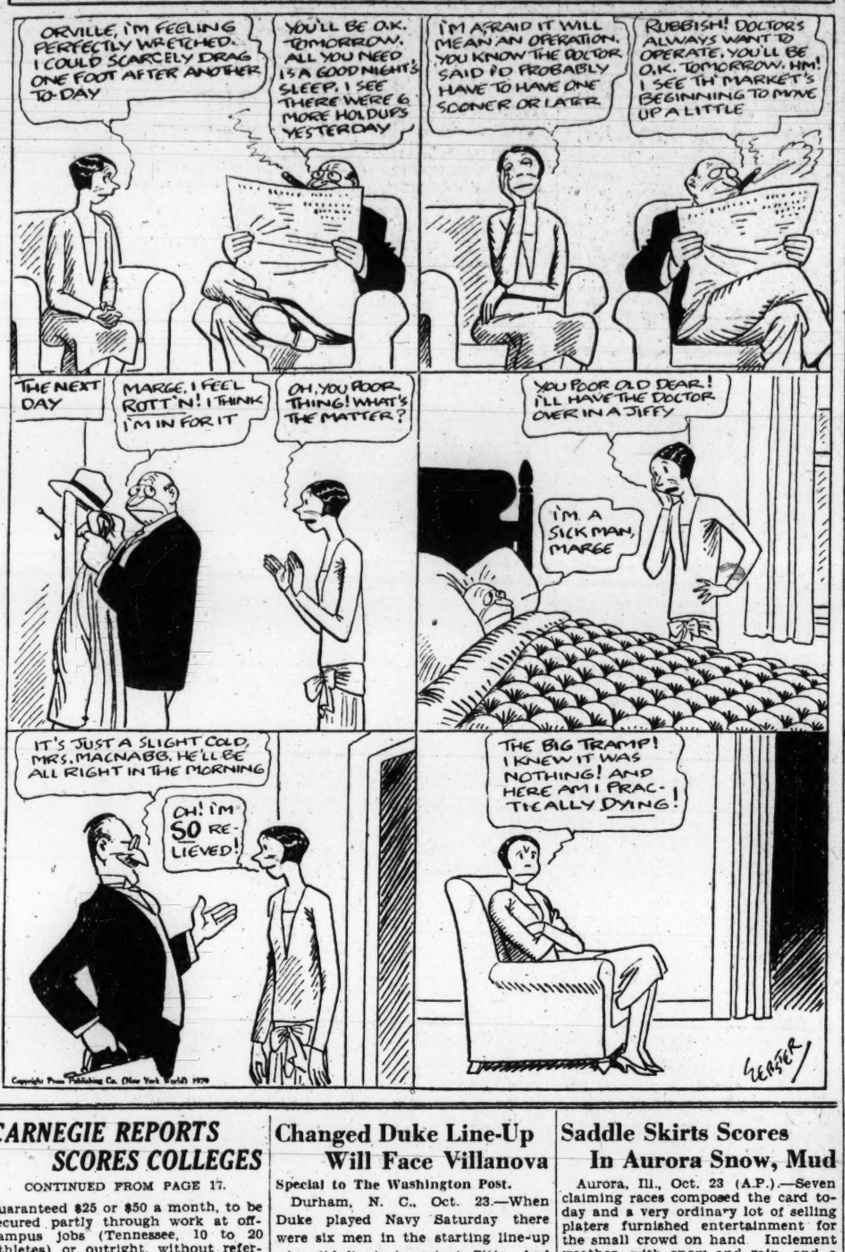
Special to The Washington Post.

Raleigh, Oct. 23.—The loss of John Silver, veteran end, who broke a small bone in his ankle last Thursday in the Wake Forest game, will be keenly felt by North Carolina State. Silver, according to Dr. Ray Sermon, will be out for at least five weeks, which means that he will not appear in the line-up again until the South Carolina game here on November 30.

Hank Morgan at present seems to be the logical successor to Silver at left end. He relieved Silver in the second period of the Wake Forest game and gave a good account of himself. He has been used rather constantly in the position this week as the Wolfpack has been prepared for the Michigan State game, scheduled for East Lansing on Saturday. Morgan is a "made over" flanker.

How to Torture Your Wife — By H. W. Webster



ORVILLE, I'M FEELING PERFECTLY WRETCHED. I COULD SCARCELY DRAG ONE FOOT AFTER ANOTHER TO-DAY
YOU'LL BE O.K. TOMORROW. ALL YOU NEED IS A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP. I SEE THERE WERE 6 MORE HOLDUPS YESTERDAY
I'M AFRAID IT WILL MEAN AN OPERATION. YOU KNOW THE DOCTOR SAID I'D PROBABLY HAVE TO HAVE ONE SOONER OR LATER
RUBBISH! DOCTORS ALWAYS WANT TO OPERATE. YOU'LL BE O.K. TOMORROW. HM! I SEE TH' MARKET'S BEGINNING TO MOVE UP A LITTLE
THE NEXT DAY
MARGE, I FEEL ROTT'N! I THINK I'M IN FOR IT
OH, YOU POOR THING! WHAT'S THE MATTER?
YOU POOR OLD DEAR! I'LL HAVE THE DOCTOR OVER IN A JIFFY
I'M A SICK MAN, MARGE
IT'S JUST A SLIGHT COLD, MRS. MACNABB. HE'LL BE ALL RIGHT IN THE MORNING
OH! I'M SO RELIEVED!

"BIG" GAMES ON DIXIE'S CARD

South Carolina Has Hopes of Upsetting Clemson Today.

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

UNDEFEATED in five games and leading the South in scoring, Clemson is a favorite to beat South Carolina in their annual State Fair battle at Columbia today. But the barrel-chested Josh Cody, head coach of the Tigers, would feel much better about the general situation if he was safely past the South Carolina game.

The Gamecocks haven't done much this year, but that doesn't mean a thing when they go after Clemson. This is one of those games you can never tell about. Anything can happen and usually does happen. The only thing to do with the dope is pitch it out the window.

The wily Billy Laval, the South Carolina coach, is poison for pointed teams. He has been pointing for Clemson ever since this squad reported on September 1.

Florida With Back to Wall Against Georgia Bulldogs.

Three other games stand out on the week-end program. A badly crippled Georgia Tech Eleven will try to stop the Tulane threat at New Orleans. Florida will make one of those backs-to-the-wall fights against the rampaging Georgia Bulldogs at Jacksonville, and Washington and Lee will try to crash the national spotlight by upsetting the dope against Tennessee at Roanoke.

Believe it or not, but the Tennessee coaches still figure the Vols are due to drop a couple of Conference starts and they fear the Virginia Generals as much as Coach Stagg, of Chicago, ever feared Purdue.

Vance Maree, the human powerhouse, has won his spurs as a full back, and Coach Bill Alexander now says there is no chance of Maree going back to the Georgia Tech line.

The big fellow has been on trial in the back field, where he was shifted following the unannounced departure of Father Lampkin, but his performance against Florida settled any doubt that may have been in the mind of the coaches.

Coach Donohue Is Making Presence Felt.

Mike Donohue, the former Auburn and Louisiana State coach, is making his presence felt in the S. I. A. A. this year.

The veteran mentor has his Springhill College Eleven in a three-cornered tie with the Citadel and University of Chattanooga for the association leadership. Under his generalship the Catholics have been turning in alert and flashy performances all season.

The Georgia-Tulane game, scheduled for Columbus, Ga., November 2, has been moved up to Friday, November 1, as a gesture to the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame game at Atlanta.

Gene McEver, the Tennessee backfield star, is the first Southern gridder to be nominated for an all-American berth. Coaches and sports writers who have been watching the youngster this season are convinced that he will have to be considered when the make-up of the mythical eleven is determined.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 23.—The Alexandria High School Football Team will go to Fredericksburg for its contest Friday afternoon instead of playing here, as originally intended. The game originally was scheduled for Haydon Field.

Coach Reynolds stated today that he expects to start the same team in Friday's game that he used in defeating Culpeper last Friday by an 18-6 score. Parke Bell, star half back with the locals, has quit the team, after playing three games with the Big Reds, owing to lack of time to devote to the game. His loss will be keenly felt, but Coach Reynolds has good material for the back field, and should have little difficulty in filling Bell's shoes in a satisfactory manner.

The Celtics and Potomac Bowling Teams, in the Alexandria City League, rolled high sets last night to win three games each from the Fruit Growers Express and Old Dominion Boat Club Teams. The Celtics rolled 1,565, while the Potomac fell slightly behind with that mark with 1,558.

Bert Lynn, of the Potomacs, rolled the best single game of the evening, scoring 134. Eppa Kane, anchor man of the Celtics, had a 350 set, his games being 111, 125 and 114.

The Seminole Red Men's League has gone into action, the Cherokees beating the Apaches two games out of three last night, while the Mohawks won three straight from the Blackfeet. W. DeSilva rolled the best game with 114 pins.

POTOMACS CHALLENGE.

The Potomac Athletic Club is looking for games with 115 and 125 pound teams. Those interested should call Cleveland 2685-J between 6 and 7 p. m. Coach Tinlon requests all players to report for practice tonight at 7 o'clock.

CAPITAL CITY LISTS EIGHT GAMES

Teams in All Sections Scheduled to Play on Sunday.

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE elevens will participate in eight games next Sunday, with half of this number bring the 135-pounders in action. Two games each have been arranged for 125-pound and Senior teams.

The Friendship-St. Stephens clash in the senior division, scheduled at 3 o'clock on the field at Silver Spring, probably will be the day's feature, due to the latter's surprise victory last Sunday over the heavy Seat Pleasant Firemen in a nonleague game. The Saints, coached and captained by Joe Bush, former Apache star, showed that they are capable of playing brilliant football and their work Sunday will be watched with interest.

The complete Sabbath schedule follows:

125-POUND CLASS.

Mount Rainier vs. Aztecs at Burrough's Field, 3 p. m. Referee, Wells.

Brookland Boys Club vs. Meridians, at Potomac Park, No. 3, 1 p. m. Referee, J. Mitchell.

135-POUND CLASS.

Palace vs. Mardfeldt at Silver Spring Field, 1 p. m. Officials, McClure and Sexton.

Notre Dame vs. Wolverines at Anacostia, No. 3, 3 p. m. Referee, Hedge.

Janneys vs. Meridians at Friendship, 3 p. m. Officials, White and Voigt.

Columbia vs. Brentwood at Potomac Park, No. 3, 3 p. m. Referee, J. Mitchell.

SENIOR CLASS.

Friendship vs. St. Stephen's at Silver Spring Field, 3 p. m. Officials, McClure and Sexton.

Marions vs. Mercury at Potomac Park, No. 1, 3 p. m. Referee, Simpson.

Kildare Is Home First In Feature at Empire

Empire City Race Track, N. Y., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Newtondale Stables' Kildare, under 104 pounds, won the West Point Handicap, today's feature. Kildare was ridden by Kurtsinger and he rode well. T. M. Cassidy's Turfwriter ran second and Mrs. G. Carroll's Okaybee third. The race was run over a good race and the mile and 70 yards were turned in 1:44 2-5.

Okaybee rushed to the front and led Kildare by a length or so for the first 6 furlongs, then Kurtsinger called on Kildare and the gelding responded with a burst of speed which took him into the lead. However, he was forced to the limit, as Turfwriter came with a rush on the inside. Kildare held on, to win by half a length, while Turfwriter beat Okaybee five lengths for second money.

RING SEASON OPENS AT J. C. C.

Hebrew Boxers Face Marines Tonight in Six Bouts.

ANTICIPATING a large attendance including many notables, the Jewish Community Center will inaugurate its boxing season tonight at the spacious Sixteenth and Q streets auditorium. Six bouts between J. C. C. representatives and members of the Quantico Marines will comprise the program. The opener is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

Among the distinguished guests invited are Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, commandant of the Quantico post; Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts; Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of Municipal Court; District Attorney Leo Rover, Robert E. Acorn, president of the District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U., and Ernest J. Spitzer, secretary of the District association. The 401st Company, Marine Corps Reserves, composed mostly of Washington policemen, also has been invited.

Miller and Diaz to Meet In Feature.

The feature bout will be between Jocko Miller, South Atlantic lightweight champion, of the Jewish Community Center, and Jimmy Diaz, who gained much prominence in service boxing circles through impressive battles while stationed with the Tenth Regiment in China.

Following is the program:

126 pounds—Buddy Meyers (J. C. C.) vs. Ed Emch (M. C.).

126 pounds—John Dube (J. J. C.) vs. Ed Sharpe (M. C.).

135 pounds—Jocko Miller (J. C. C.) vs. Jimmy Diaz (M. C.).

150 pounds—Gus Mirman (J. C. C.) vs. Paul Whittaker (M. C.).

160 pounds—Bert Tracy (J. C. C.) vs. Johnny Friday (M. C.).

165 pounds—Sam Goldman (J. C. C.) vs. Ed Brown (M. C.).

Referee—Capt. Harvey L. Miller. Judges—Dennis Hughes and Edmund Lafond. Timers—Louis Little and Joe Judge. Announcer—Jimmy Lake.

CARNEGIE REPORTS SCORES COLLEGES

guaranteed $25 or $50 a month, to be secured partly through work at off-campus jobs (Tennessee, 10 to 20 athletes) or outright, without reference to other than athletic services (West Virginia, 25 or 30 football players).

"In the East relations have been established between certain private preparatory schools on the one hand and certain colleges and universities on the other, whereby athletes, varying in number from 1 to as many as 20, have been wholly or partly maintained at the schools until they are ready for college (Brown, Carnegie Tech, Dartmouth, Dickinson, Lafayette, New York University, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Syracuse, Washington and Jefferson).

"Local fraternity chapters may provide certain athlete members with rooms or board or with both at so low a figure that the arrangement can be regarded only as an athletic subsidy (Franklin and Marshall, New York University, Ohio Wesleyan, Oregon Agricultural, Pennsylvania State).

"Assistance to needy athletes at Catholic institutions takes several forms.

Money May be Distributed From Athletic Funds.

"It may be distributed as scholarships from athletic funds, covering wholly or partly tuition, board and room, in addition to assistance from individual alumni (Fordham); or jobs that provide tuition, board and room in return for very nominal services (Notre Dame); or an outright allocation of funds without return except in athletic participation (Georgetown).

"Occasionally, the attempt is made to balance awards to athletes with those of nonathletes (Holy Cross), so that no young man will feel that his muscles alone are sufficient to get him through, or priests may effect arrangements among their own parishioners, members of the faculty, or friends of their college by which athletes may be maintained (Boston College).

"From such practices as these, in the light of intercollegiate competition, is an offer to assist young men to secure part time work at the usual student rate of compensation (Marquette).

"Any favor, however small, that tends to assist an athlete financially, if it is done because he is an athlete, marks the beginning of professionalism."

EAST-WEST GAMES HELD COMMERCIAL

American football, whether from its intrinsic nature as a body-contact game or from the abuses that have grown up to choke it, has bred distrust, suspicion, jealousy and physical violence. (In reference to severance of many athletic relationships.)

"It is a commentary upon American sportsmanship that when athletic relations are severed, the initiative is generally taken by the institution that has been losing games over a series of years."

Majority of Recruiting Is Not by Alumni.

"With all due allowance for the tendency to magnify the past in comparison with the present, there can be little doubt that the evils of soliciting and subsidizing athletes have diminished over the last 25, 20, or even 15 years.

"A common misconception touching the personal recruiting of athletes for intercollegiate competition is that most of the work is done by alumni. The facts of our inquiry prove conclusively that this is not the case. Of 112 colleges and universities visited, at only a little over 30 per cent was recruiting conducted by alumni.

"Subsidizing in some form or degree was found to exist at 81 of the 112 institutions studied. The recruiting of American college athletes, be it active or passive, professional or nonprofessional, has reached the proportions of Nation-wide commerce.

"The value of complimentary tickets as subsidies in kind is illustrated by the fact that a football player at a university on the Pacific Coast sold his allotment at a profit of about $100 each for various major games of a single season."

Changed Duke Line-Up Will Face Villanova

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 23.—When Duke played Navy Saturday there were six men in the starting line-up who didn't start against Pitt. And when Duke meets Villanova the coming Saturday there may be as many new starters as there were in the game at Annapolis. But just who will be in the line-up Saturday is not now known. Some of the changes to be made, it is hinted, will be in the nature of surprises. There will be one or more new men in the back field and the line will see three or four changes, probably.

Don Hyatt may be back at end. He looked great against the Navy, playing the best football he has at any time this year. Fred Taylor probably will be in the line. He was a big figure in the late minutes of the game at Annapolis. The coaches want to see more of Emery Adkins, but are not sure where he will be played, at center or at a tackle.

Bill Bryan may be a star by the end of the year. The coaches are giving him every opportunity to develop and he's coming along nicely. He may be a starter against Villa Nova, too. Coleman, Rochelle and Godfrey, all full backs, are fighting to get in the game at Philadelphia. Robeson, Murray and Russ probably will play at the half-back posts.

V. P. I. Game Saturday Crucial for Tarheels

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 23.—The Tarheels of the University of North Carolina are looking forward to their next Conference game, which will be with the Gobblers of V. P. I. here Saturday, as the turning point of the season.

Despite the fact that they lost to Georgia, the Tarheels do not even suggest that they are out of the race for Southern Conference honors, for they realize that the Georgia Bulldogs face a stiff schedule and are likely to get licked by some other Conference team before the season wanes.

Should the Tarheels lose to V. P. I., however, it would hourt their percentage a great deal in the Conference standing and might put them definitely out of the Conference race. Hence, this affair with the Gobblers Saturday is expected to prove a crucial test for the Carolina squad.

Staunton Cadet Cubs Bow in Grid Game, 14-6

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 23.—With the score tied, 6 to 6, Quarterback Johnnie Roberts ran 40 yards to a touchdown here yesterday, which proved the winning margin the fives' defeat of the Taunton Military Academy Midgets, 14 to 6. Roberts also was the pilot of the winning eleven, directing his team brilliantly throughout.

S. M. A. led at half-time, 6 to 0. After Roberts' run the winners came back with another score when Capt. Davis blocked a Staunton punt behind its goal line and Johnny recovered for the Fives. Payne played a great defensive game for the winners.

Hyattsville Soccer Teams Play 2 Today

The Hyattsville High School soccer ball team, champions of upper Prince Georges County, will meet the Barbara High Team, champions of the lower section of the county for the county title today at 2:15 on the Rosedale playgrounds.

The Hyattsville High girls' field ball team will also be playing for the championship of the county when they meet the Brandywine High Team on the same field at 1:30 o'clock.

Saddle Skirts Scores In Aurora Snow, Mud

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Seven claiming races composed the card today and a very ordinary lot of selling platers furnished entertainment for the small crowd on hand. Inclement weather, with snow and rain, and a muddy track, made conditions disagreeable for spectators and thoroughbreds alike.

In the fourth event of the day, S. Polks' 3-year-old Tryster filly, Saddle Skirts, proved a handy winner in the field of six which faced the barrier, and put an end to Little Asbestos' string of three straight victories won in the last ten days at this meeting. Saddle Skirts took command of the race at the start and although challenged and relinquishing the lead momentarily to Fort Worth at the three-quarter pole, quickly regained command to win by a length.

Little Asbestos raced well to the stretch, where he outgamed Fort Worth in a drive, to finish second. Fort Worth was much used in early pacemaking and tired when put to the final drive. He lasted to take third place from J. Roberts' 4-year-old Homewood, which was held at odds on in the wagering.

Navy Soccerists Win Over W. Maryland, 4-3

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 23.—Navy soccer teams won a double victory here today, the Varsity winning from Western Maryland College, 4 to 3, and the Plebes defeating Forest Park, of Baltimore, 3 to 0. Both games were finished under flood lights.

The Varsity had a tough time defeating the Green Terror booters and it was only by rushing the goal tender in the late stages that the Tar came out ahead after two extra periods of 5 minutes.

BOND ISSUES CLIMB AS STOCKS TUMBLE

Almost Entire List Goes Up With Rail Loans in Vanguard.

TOTAL SALES INCREASE

New York, Oct. 23 (A.P.).—The bond market developed conspicuous strength today in striking contrast to the declines of shares on the stock exchange and the Curb Market. The broad advance in fixed-charge obligations covered the entire list, but centered in the rails, a large number of which gained from 1 to more than 2 points.

Traders reported that funds which had been in stocks were being put into bonds in considerable volume. Numerous railroad loans traded to the extent of more than $100,000 principal amount, and a few exceeded that figure. Total sales were $18,000,000, the largest since July 26.

The averages showed that secondary rails had made the best improvement, moving up nearly three-fourths of a full point.

Convertibles Drop Severely.

Convertibles broke severely, as was to be expected from the crack in shares, and the American & International Telephone 4½s touched new lows for the movement with net losses of 11¼ and 12½, respectively. Declines of 1 to 5 points appeared in Alleghany 5s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Atchison 4½s, American International 5½s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, Reading Coal & Iron 6s and Public Service of New Jersey 4½s.

Interest in the rails attained something like normal vigor. The largest buying was in Boston & Maine 5s, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s and Virginian Railway 5s. Turnovers in this list ran from $100,000 to $600,000, principal amount, the most heavily traded obligation being the St. Paul adjustment 5s. The gains ran from ½ to 1⅜.

Advances of 2 to 4 points appeared in a few carriers, notably Chicago & Alton 3s, Rock Island 4s, Lehigh Valley of New York 4½s, New York, Ontario & Western general 4s, Pensylvania general 5s, St. Louis Southwestern first 4s and Rock Island general 4s.

Industrials, Utilities Gain.

Industrials and utilities also made some liberal gains. In the former group American Sugar 6s, American Writing Paper 6s, Baldwin Locomotive 5s, Central Steel 8s, Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s, Indiana Limestone 6s and Chile Copper 5s commanded support. Columbia Gas 5s (April maturity), American Telephone 5½s, Ohio Public Service 7s B, Northern States Power 6s B, North American Edison 5½s, Pacific Telephone first 5s and Utah Power & Light 5s were strong utilities.

Activity in the Liberties and United States Treasury certificates diminished, but prices held firm to slightly higher.

The foreign list displayed considerable buoyancy, although volume was only moderate. Chilean issues and German Central Bank of Agriculture obligations sold higher. Argentine Governments eased. Mexican 6s and 8s slumped to new lows.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS

Two Entrances, 608 12th St. N.W. 1205 F St. N.W. Up One Flight Over Woolworth's 5c & 10c Store

THIS IS THE MAN UNDER A POSITIVE GUARANTEE

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, loss or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds, whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power.

Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

ARLINGTON BEACH BEING DISMANTLED

Airport Officials Are to Build Three Runways on Site of Old Resort.

BYRD SPEAKS SATURDAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Dismantling of Arlington Beach, the county's only amusement park, was started yesterday by the Washington Airport Corporation to provide additional landing space. The improvement will cost more than $50,000.

According to Paul J. Rabbitt, manager of the airport, the plan is to clear about two-thirds of the area, recently purchased by the Washington Airport Corporation for $675,000, to provide for three 500-feet runways.

On the land now occupied by the airport company the plans call for the razing of the present hangar and office building. The new hangar to be erected will be 100 by 160 feet in length, the office building to be much larger than the present one and to provide adequate rest rooms.

In addition to the three 500-foot runways to be provided on the river front, another will be constructed on the present site of the company.

Mr. Rabbitt stated that the improvements will be completed within 60 days and that it will be the largest airport field in this section of the country.

Plans for the quarterly dinner meeting of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce to be held in the Washington-Lee High School Saturday night have been completed, according to P. P. Woodbridge, executive secretary.

Among the guests will be Gov. Harry F. Byrd, Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia State Highway Commission; Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; members of the commission, the members of the Virginia Park and Planning Commission.

The program will be given by talent from Arlington Hall Girls College and will consist of vocal numbers by Mme. Regina Vicarino, director of voice; readings by Miss Olga Louise Johnston, director of the school of expression and dramatics and dance numbers by a group of the students under the direction of Miss Kathleen Yerger, instructor of dancing.

Following the dinner a public meeting will be held in the school auditorium. The speakers will be Gov. Byrd, who will speak on "The Progress and Future of Virginia;" Col. Grant and Col. H. G. Shirley.

Preceding the dinner a conference will be held to discuss the plans for the adequate approaches to the new Memorial Bridge on the Virginia side and the proposed park and highway development by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission along the shores of the Potomac River as proposed by the Crampton bill.

It is hoped that as the result of this conference that some definite plans will be arrived at that will assure an early start on the highway to take care of the traffic that will result following the opening of the new bridge in 1931.

The meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, announced for tonight at the home of George Collier, Columbia Pike, Arlington, has been postponed until Saturday night. The meeting will be held at the same place and is called to discuss plans for the carrying on of the annual roll call with Mr. Collier, who has been elected the county chairman, in charge of the drive.

The weekly meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club will be held today in the Boulevard Bakery, at 12 o'clock. Walter U. Varney, president, will preside.

The ladies of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, announce a benefit dinner will be given at the church tonight from 5 to 7:30 o'clock.

Following his policy to reduce and, if possible, free Arlington County of diphtheria, Dr. P. M. Chichester announced last night that another extensive campaign will start with a series of theme treatments beginning Monday, November 4, and continuing for the following three weeks.

Dr. Chichester announced that the treatments will be given in the county schools and that special attention will be given to the children of the first grades. The parents of children still under school age are urged to attend the clinics.

Dr. Chichester declared that records show that eight or nine children out of ten having been given the three treatments have been protected for life from the disease.

Due to the Mardi Gras to be held in Clarendon tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, the Arlington District Public Library will close tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The Cherrydale Council, No. 11, Daughters of America, will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Helen Thomas at 8 o'clock. Plans for the presentation of a play at the Saegmuller School Sunday afternoon will be completed.

The honor roll of the Patrick Henry School for the month of October, as announced yesterday from the office of the county school superintendent, includes the following students: Grade 2, Elibeth Doris, Lucille McPherson, Gloria Rockett, Norma Ward, Edmund Simonton, Robert Williams; grade 3, Lois George, Constance Pfeifer, Betty Mae Stewart, Betty Rose Krebs, Catherine Warner, Jack Fauntleroy and Merrill Malone; grade 4, Shirley Smith; grade 6, Elizabeth Fuller and Elizabeth Smith.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission will hold its first public hearing on the county zoning ordinance in the John Marshall School tomorrow night.

The area to be covered will comprise that section of East Falls Church lying within Arlington County and the Crane election district. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock. The second public hearing on the ordinance will be held at the courthouse Thursday night, October 31, at 7:30 o'clock. This hearing will cover that section comprising Rosslyn and along the Lee Highway as far as Villa road and extending to the Potomac River.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Cherrydale School last night went on record as indorsing Sheriff Howard B. Fields in his effort to retain the three special officers to insure protection of the county school children.

Plans for the Hallowe'en party to be held for the children of the school in the school auditorium Thursday night, October 31, have been completed.

The ladies auxiliary to the Cherrydale Fire Department announced last night that it will give a carnival and costume dance the night of October 31 in the auditorium of the firemen's hall. The proceeds will go to the special fund being raised to pay off the mortgage on the building.

Reports from captains of the several committees aiding in the raising of the $5,000 to clear the mortgage on the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall at a special meeting last night showed the fund has reached a total of $1,200, with indications that it will exceed the $2,000 mark by the next meeting, to be held Tuesday night.

COMPS FARM LOOMS AS STATE TEST SITE

Advantages of Location Are Stressed by Growers in Vicinity.

OPTION ALREADY TAKEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Matinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23.—The A. L. Omps Farm, on the Charles Town road, between Kearneysville and this city, will be the choice as the site for the State Branch Experimental Farm, for fruit and farm crops, it was indicated today in a poll of sentiment of interested persons whose preference, it is believed, will guide the State Board of Control's final action, to be taken within the next week.

Considerations recommending the Omps farm, it was explained, include: Availability to Jefferson and Berkeley County growers, who are most interested in the project, lying as it does almost astride the dividing line between the two counties; inclusion of 180 acres in the tract, 80 more than the number which the West Virginia University College of Agriculture, which will conduct the farm, indicated it desired; presence of excellent buildings on the place, and knowledge that it can be bought at a price considered reasonable. The land is of limestone, typical of that which fruit and grain men here encounter in their projects, and a characteristic which has prompted the decision to get experimental work done on soil where the orchards are actually grown. It is learned an option on the farm has been secured by local members of the committee working on the project. The character of the soil has been under test by Prof. Pierre, soil specialist, but no report has been made public.

The farm will be in charge of F. J. Schneiderhan, pathologist, whose work is confined to this section, and Dean W. D. Fromme, of the College of Agriculture, West Virginia University.

Democratic Club Busy in Fauquier

Organization Carried County for Smith in Election of Last Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Oct. 23.—The Fauquier Democratic Club, which made an enviable reputation last year in the presidential campaign, is functioning again. The club last year, by good organization and a thorough canvass of the county, rolled up over 500 majority for Smith. They hope to better this record this year for Pollard.

Arrangements have been made for a monster rally here on the night of November 2, when Gov. Byrd and Attorney General Saunders will address the voters of the county. On the night of October 26, Candidate Price for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket will speak at Marshall. Each of the 21 precincts in the county has been organized. R. Mason McCarty, commissioner of revenue for Fauquier County, is chairman of the Warrenton Precinct, the largest in the county, and has his committee hard at work getting out the vote.

A great deal of interest is being shown throughout the county.

Cumberland Arts Club Elects New Officers

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23.—The Music and Arts Study Club, at its annual meeting, at the Algonquin Hotel, elected the following officers: Mrs. James W. Kirk, president; Mrs. Albert Hardman, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Pickering, recording secretary; Sol Goldberg, corresponding secretary; Miss Rebecca Stotler, treasurer; Mrs. John H. Mansfield, publicity chairman.

The meeting was in the nature of a dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mansfield, both prominent in music circles.

Smoke Nuisance At Academy Hit

Ferry Said to Send Pall Over Spectators at Football Games.

Acting on protests filed by Representatives Mary T. Norton and George N. Seger, both of New Jersey, Dickerson N. Hoover, of the steamboat inspection service, Department of Commerce, has taken steps to eliminate the "smoke nuisance" said to prevail at the Naval Academy's football field at Annapolis, Md.

According to the representatives a ferry boat on the Annapolis-Claibourne line anchored close to the Midshipmen's field Saturday and during the course of the game with Duke University sent a deluge of smoke over the 8,000 spectators and players. This smoke, according to the representatives, was injurious to clothing and destructive to the enjoyment of the game.

Hoover stated that there was no legal means to bring about an abatement of the practice, which is said to be usual at Annapolis, but that he believed the moral suasion of the department would result in the elimination of the smoke barrage during football games.

DIVIDENDS RESUMED BY FRUIT GROWERS

Action Is Taken as Indicative of Better Conditions in Industry.

APPLE WEEK IS PLANNED

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Announcement by the American Fruit Growers, Inc., with extensive holdings in this section, of the resumption of dividends at the rate of $7 per share, payable quarterly, was taken by fruit growers here as generally indicative of improved economic condition of fruit-growing in this section.

Local officials, commenting on the action, added, however, that while dividends had not been paid for three years, profit had been made, but a part of it had been "ploughed back" into the improvement and building of the soil and orchards, and another part had been laid aside to the surplus account.

The expectation among fruit growers here is that dividends will be general this year, some of them large, after a lapse of several years due to unsatisfactory growing or marketing seasons. The profits are expected to exceed even those of 1928 when orchardists, who had fruit, made money, although the yield was not heavy generally. The crop this year has proven somewhat shorter than that of a year ago due, largely to drought, but prices have held to higher levels.

In connection with the observance nationally of the week beginning October 31, as "Apple Week," growers are considering a suggestion that an apple be given gratis to every passenger on through passenger trains stopping here in an effort to advertise the fact that the section is a heavy apple producer.

Veteran Railroad Man Dies at Calla Hill

Special to The Washington Post.

Mount Savage, Md., Oct. 23.—Calvin Herring, 76 years old, dropped dead in his home on Calla Hill yesterday. He retired from the service of the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad about a year ago. He had been with the company 50 years. Mr. Herring was a member of St. George's Episcopal Church, from which the funeral will be held.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: Edgar Herring, Mrs. Maud Wills, Cumberland; Walter and Howard Herring, Mrs. Mary Sanson, Mount Savage; Mrs. Edna Townsend, Columbiana, Ohio, and Miss Grace Herring, Washington, D. C.

Army Reserve Officer School at Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 23.—At a meeting at the State Armory, an Army Reserve Officers' Group School was opened. Col. George Henderson was chosen instructor, with A. W. Miller, assistant.

The following are enrolled: R. A. Gibson, A. W. Miller, V. A. Parker, Bernard E. Gray, Marshall A. Carrier, L. G. Trimmier, A. N. Billings, Lynn Walker, D. C. Chase, Carl F. Slemmer, P. C. Henry, A. G. Wallis, A. Hammond Amick, Walter Fuller and J. W. Rice. It is expected that additional reservists will join.

ANDERSON ASSAILS LEVY IN CAMPAIGN

Alleged Letters of Hayes to Virginia Democrats Are Called "Rotten."

POLLARD ALSO IS RAPPED

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 23.—Describing such methods as "rotten business," and asserting that those responsible ought to be sent to prison, Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Republican leader in the present gubernatorial campaign, in an address here tonight, referred to letters which, it is alleged, James M. Hayes, jr., of Richmond, State motor vehicle commissioner, sent to men working under him, asking for 1 per cent of their salaries as a contribution to the Democratic campaign fund.

Col. Anderson also quoted Dr. John Pollard, Democratic nominee for governor, as having said, following the publication of the Hayes letters, that money obtained under such circumstances should be returned. "Dr. Pollard may not know it, but this money won't be returned," Col. Anderson said.

Berkeley Lauds Hoover.

Speaking also here tonight at the mass meeting sponsored by the Staunton and Augusta Republican and anti-Smith committees, was Capt. Charles C. Berkeley, of Newport News, coalition candidate for attorney general of Virginia. He asserted that he had been a constant enemy of the Democratic machine in Virginia ever since Montague was governor. Capt. Berkeley asserted he fought the machine from within the party ranks, but never split a ticket until last November, when he voted for Hoover for President. "I voted for Hoover, and I am proud of it," he asserted.

Col. Anderson discussed election laws, tax laws, the highway department and school conditions in this State. Referring to the requirements regarding registering, and to what he described as "notorious and outrageous frauds" committed by Democrats in connection with registration, Col. Anderson said he had been informed that among those on a long list of voters in Winchester who had been registered without making formal written application was Gov. Harry F. Byrd.

Col. Anderson said he is not in favor of removal of the poll tax despite assertions of some that he is.

"But with $7,000,000 in poll taxes past due, if you are going to have a poll tax, collect it. If you can't collect it, don't have it," he added.

Economy Claims Assailed.

In answering the Democratic claims of simplification in government and economies effected thereunder the speaker asserted that there are between 60 and 100 more State employes on Capitol Hill now than when the present administration came into power. Col. Anderson claimed that every change in the State tax laws has been a change "in favor of wealth and against the man with a small income."

Anderson, in referring to Dr. Pollard at one point in his address, said that the Democratic nominee "has not given a single original idea in this campaign; he is simply following the present administration, standing on its record and listening to his master's voice." He charged that the highway department is being extravagantly administered.

He concluded by saying that the platform of Dr. William Moseley Brown, coalition candidate for governor, offered to the people of Virginia an opportunity for the restoration of "popular government" in this State.

CLUB TO BEAUTIFY VIENNA WITH TREES

State Asked to Clear Up Highway; Centerville Grange Initiates.

D. A. R. TO MEET TONIGHT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
Clarendon 919-J-1.

The Wednesday Morning Club of Vienna met yesterday morning in the public library. The club members are interested in finding homes for five children of a colored family of Vienna, who are in needy circumstances.

Through the efforts of the club, a row of maple and locust trees will be planted along the railroad tracks in the town. These trees will greatly improve the appearance of the grounds around the station and along the railroad tracks. The club will also ask the local engineer of the State highway department to have the heavy growth of weeds along the State highway, which hide the deep ditches on both sides, cleared away. There have been several accidents caused by the weeds, which obstruct the view of motorists. It also was suggested that the owners of vacant lots in the town clear the weeds from their vacant lots. This has been asked in an endeavor to improve the appearance of the town.

The club urges that each householder equip himself with a band fire extinguisher for use in fighting small fires in the home. Small fires which might cause thousands of dollars worth of damage may be put out very quickly if an extinguisher is used, before the arrival of the fire department, they declared.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr will be invited to address the next meeting on the "Fall Planting of Native Trees and Shrubs." A resolution was adopted thanking Mr. Derr for his work with the school children by conducting the nature study class which has been formed here.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, asking them to have the name of Vienna placed on the sign post at the intersection of the Georgetown pike and Chain Bridge road.

The Harmony Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star in Vienna will hold a benefit card party this evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Dorsey at Lyon Park, Va. The committee on arrangements comprises Mrs. May Oliver, Mrs. George Miles and Mrs. Erving Kenyon.

Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin, president of the Women's Presbyterian Society for Missions, has extended an invitation to the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Vienna Presbyterian Church to attend the meeting of the society at the Chevy Chase Church, in Washington, tomorrow. The meeting will be addressed by Miss Florence E. Smith, of Santiago, Chile, and Miss Ethel Higgins, assistant superintendent of Chinese mission work of San Francisco, Calif.

The Vienna Presbyterian Study Club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Pierce. Mrs. S. C. Stuntz will continue the review of the book "Jerusalem to Jerusalem."

A meeting of the Falls Church Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. H. E. Demarest at Falls Church. Final plans will be made for the State convention of the organization, which will be held in Alexandria next week.

E. H. Hinken, of Falls Church, is in charge of the census which is being taken in the Eighth Congressional District, of the World War veterans living in this district. The American Legion is conducting this State-wide census, as a result of a movement launched by the legion at the State convention in Petersburg. Mr. Hinken is chef de gare of the Forty and Eight Society, of Alexandria, and a member of Falls Church Post, American Legion.

A Halloween dance will be held in the Colvin Run School at Colvin Run, Va., tomorrow night. Marvin Sanders, Roland Wheeler, Miss Marie Keane, Mrs. G. A. Money and Miss Belle Taylor are the committee in charge of the dance. A well-known orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music.

Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the county police, accompanied by State Prohibition Agent Virgil Williams, acting upon information, made a quick trip to the Hallin Hall Farms, near Riverside, and arrested Joe Ferguson, colored, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Ferguson, it is alleged, shot his brother, Arthur, with both charges of a double-barrel shotgun Sunday morning. Arthur is now in the Alexandria Hospital in a critical condition. Joe was not located until yesterday. He is being held without bond in the Fairfax Jail pending the outcome of the injuries to his brother.

L. L. Freeman, of Vienna, Republican candidate for the House of Delegates, will speak tomorrow night in the Community Hall at Burke.

Moving pictures will be shown tonight in the auditorium of the Clifton High School. The junior class will serve refreshments. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the school.

Miss Blanche McGowan, of Blacksburg, Va., State food specialist, will give a model demonstration at a meeting of the leaders of the 4-H Club in Fairfax today. Miss Sara F. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, will be in charge.

The Centerville Grange was host to the Fairfax County Pomona Grange in the Oakton High School Auditorium Tuesday night. There were 86 guests present. The Forestville degree team initiated a large number of candidates to the fifth degree. The meeting was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. George Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Blake. Owing to the large number of candidates the annual election of officers was postponed. The grange voted to present $50 to H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, which will aid him in the establishment of a county agricultural exhibit he is endeavoring to establish in the old county clerk's office building in Fairfax. Mr. Brinkman, organizer for the National Grange, was present as representative. The ladies of the Centerville Grange served the refreshments.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA has taken a motherly interest in the Police Department, now undergoing the throes of internal dissension. "After all," she opines, "policemen are just boys grown into men."

How clever. Few think of that. In other words, "cops will be cops."

If ever the President appoints a woman to the Board of District Commissioners, I hope he considers Luella. She would like to be in charge of the police force.

"What our policemen need, more than anything else," declares Luella, "is rest—and relaxation. They work too hard."

"Have you any suggestions?" I asked.

* * * * *

"HAVE I?" she flashed, "I'll say I have. First of all, there should be a country club. The police force should take up golf, in a big way. That's one of the real troubles. They don't walk enough. Of course, they patrol the beat, but that's always on hard, asphalt pavement. It 'springs' the knees as any horseman knows. Eventually, they'll all have spavins. A good, eighteen-hole course, with its velvety cushion of grass underfoot, and the clear sky overhead——"

"You sound like a poet, Luella."

"Well, what I mean, a suburban retreat, away from the din of the city, would make our boys—I mean our policemen—feel like two-year-olds."

Two-year-olds! The phrase smacks of the race-track.

"I suppose," ventured, "that once you get 'em feeling like two-year-olds you'll enter some of 'em at Laurel, won't you? They ought to make good mud-larks!"

"Don't be redic'," said Luella, bandying a phrase I hate.

"I wish you wouldn't use this debutante dialect, Luella, words such as 'redic,' and 'sil,' and 'ob,' when you mean ridiculous, and silly, and obvious——"

"Didn't I hear you refer to policemen as 'cops'?" she countered.

"Yes. Why?"

"Well, that's terrible. 'Cops,' and 'Dicks,' when referring to our boys of the police department is not only slang but it's totally depraved, not to say disrespectful. If I had my way, I'd put a stop to it."

"How?"

* * * * *

"ANY such reference to the boys would be punishable by a fine and imprisonment, or both."

"Well, what would you have us call the boys?"

Luella pondered. "Officers," she said. "It's such a nice title—and so many fine men are officers in the Army and the Navy——"

"But this is the police force."

"So are they all, police forces," reminded Luella. "The Army polices the land, the Navy polices the sea, but the Metropolitan Police Department polices the Nation's Capital. Therefore, it should outrank the Army and the Navy."

* * * * *

"IN THAT case," I suggested your police officers should have uniforms like admirals and generals, with pleats and plaids, and a lot of braid——"

"Oh, more modish than that," put in Luella. "Something, say, stylish as the uniforms of a theater usher."

She meant, of course, an usher in a big cinema cathedral. If this comes to pass, then indeed shall we call cops officers—and they ought to wear capes.

ANNAPOLIS POLICE SHIFT THREATENED

Chief and Two of His Force Placed on Probation by Merit Board.

LAX DISCIPLINE CHARGED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 23.—Aroused by continued reports of general laxity and inattention to duty on the part of members of the police department of Annapolis, the merit board of the city council, which has to do with the qualifications of the peace guardians, today ordered the chief of police and two others of the force placed on probation.

The two placed on probation in addition to Chief Richard B. Holliday, are William M. Thompson, jr., motorcycle patrolman, and Night Patrolman Virgil Linton. Unless there is material improvement all down the line a general shake-up will follow, Alderman Charles W. Tucker, jr., chairman of the merit board, declared.

Other changes in assignment to beats and desk duty at police headquarters also have been made and shifts will be made from time to time.

There has been lack of discipline in the force, Chairman Tucker charged and warned that unless Chief Holliday shows a "proper leadership and initiative," a new head of the department will be named. Chief Holliday, speaking in his own defense told the merit board that the men under him "unquestionably take advantage of my good nature." Holliday, according to the merit board chairman, is said to have admitted that no general check-up has been made on individual members of the force.

Motorcycle Patrolman Thompson, it was charged, has become indifferent to his duties and Patrolman Linton is alleged to have fired his gun promiscuously while chasing prisoners through the streets, and though vindicated in each instance, city officials appear not to be entirely satisfied with the explanation of his conduct.

Field Artillery Units Continue Maneuvers

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 23.—Units of the First Battalion, Sixth United States Field Artillery, routed from camp here yesterday by high waters resulting from a 5-inch rainfall, continued their motorized march over Civil War battlefields for study purposes and observation today, instead of returning direct to Fort Hoyle, Md., as planned. Original orders were revoked by Col. McNair.

The artillerymen are returning to Fort Hoyle by way of Newmarket and Fredericksburg, Va., and Washington, D. C. Battery C, distinguished for firing first American shot in the World War, left for New York to join other units of the old First Division, A. E. F., at a reunion.

KIDNAPING ALSO IS CITED

Gastonia, N. C., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Bills of indictment charging nine men with murder and four others with kidnaping were presented the Gaston County grand jury today as a result of mob disorders last September in which Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, a textile striker, was slain and Ben Wells, National Textile Workers Union organizer, was taken from his lodging place here and flogged.

Numerous witnesses were called before the grand jury and several more were under subpena to appear before it tomorrow when adjournment was taken late today without action on the bills of indictments.

Those charged with murder and conspiracy to murder as a result of Mrs. Wiggins' death on September 14 are Fred Morrow, L. M. Sossoman, Troy Jones, Larry Davis, Will Lunsford, Jack Carver, W. M. Borders, Horace Wheeler and Theodore Sims. They are alleged to have been present when a mob halted a truck occupied by National Textile Workers Union members to prevent them attending an advertised Communist meeting. Mrs. Wiggins, one of the truck's passengers, was killed by a shot fired when the truck was halted.

In separate bills, A. G. Morehead, Carl Holloway, Dewey Carver and Horace Lane, textile mill employes, were charged with kidnaping, false imprisonment and assault in connection with the flogging of Wells.

The union organizer was taken from his lodging place here the night of June 9, carried to a point near Concord, N. C., and beaten. C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylors, union members, were abducted with Wells, but were not flogged.

Highway Celebration.

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 23 (Special).—Plans have been completed for holding a celebration October 31 at Thomas to celebrate the completion and opening of the new State highway between Parsons and Thomas. This highway is now connected with a paved highway to the Northwestern turnpike.

TWO SENT TO JAIL IN STILL RAID CASE

Other Sentences Deferred Until Alleged Slayers of Deputy Are Heard.

TRIAL UP AT FREDERICK

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 23.—Convicted of transporting liquor, Lloyd Williams, of Hagerstown, was fined $250 and sentenced to three months in the Maryland House of Correction by Judge John S. Newman.

Williams and five others were arrested following a raid on a big still in the mountains near Catoctin Furnace, last July, when Deputy Sheriff Clyde L. Hauver was shot and killed.

Admits Loading Truck.

Williams testified that he merely assisted the owners of the still to load a truck with whisky. He was arrested the day following the shooting. Lloyd Lewis, of near Foxville, who was shot by one of the deputies while running away from the still, was found guilty of manufacturing whisky for sale and fined $250 and sentenced to the House of Correction for three months. Paul Williams and Norris Clark, of Hagerstown, reputed owners of the still, pleaded guilty to manufacturing whisky for sale. Russell Clark indicted for manufacturing whisky, entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Saturday. Judge Newman withheld sentence of Williams and Norris Clark until after the trial of Russell Clark.

Charles Lewis, of near Thurmont, and Lester Clark, of Hagerstown, arrested after the raid and indicted on charges of killing Hauver, will be tried in the circuit court October 28. Lewis will be defended by his uncle, former States Attorney Samuel A. Lewis. Clark has retained A. M. Wood. With the exception of Charles Lewis and Lester Clark held on the murder charge, the others arrested were out on bail.

Moonshiner Is Blamed.

It is alleged that one of the moonshiners "tipped off" the officers as to the location of the still. Four deputy sheriffs, William O. Wertenbaker, Clyde L. Hauver, Vernon Redmond and William Steiner, went to the scene. They were making their way two abreast through dense undergrowth when they suddenly came upon the still. The officers alleged that the moonshiners fired first and that they returned the fire. At the first volley, Hauver fell with a bullet through his head. The moonshiners retreated. Floyd Lewis was shot in the hand.

Hauver was rushed to the Frederick Hospital where he died. The officers destroyed the still and the following day arrested the alleged moonshiners.

Elks Home Near Completion.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 23 (Special).—The construction of the new home of Martinsburg Lodge of Elks, which is being erected at a cost of nearly $50,000, is rapidly nearing an end, and indications are that it will be ready for the grand opening early in December. Officers of the lodge are planning an elaborate program for the official dedication.
